France Has the Answer.
5 Children in 3 Years.
Germans Know How.
Alcoholic Sociability.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WAR TALK in Europe continues, but less violently, and the poor old dollar drops a little. If there is to be war the dollar will be more valuable, for it would buy anything here that foolish fighters might need. If there is to be no war, the dollar, floating in midair, neither gold nor paper, would be less valuable.

All Europe feels uncertain, the most definite statement coming, as usual, from the French, who through their prime minister, Daladier, say to Germany:

"France will give an example of calmness and coolness. The more so BECAUSE SHE KNOWS THAT SHE IS ABLE TO DEFEND HER TERRITORY AND HER LIBERTY."

DALADIER CAN say that for France, because he knows the French have thousands of fighting airplanes, that could be sent on five minutes' notice, with poison gas and explosives, to every German city.

In 1914 the world suddenly found itself where it was back in 1870, when Germany started to take back Alsace and Lorraine that France had taken from Germany long before.

In 1914 the 1870 process was reversed, France retaking from Germany the coveted territory. The operation cost this country ten billions of dollars in loans besides many other billions foolishly squandered.

Lloyd George says Sir Edward Grey could have prevented the big 1914 war, but did not.

Statesmen of Europe could prevent the war that threatens now, if they would, but they probably will not.

INTERESTING news for mothers. Mrs. Alice Putick, of Little Hampton, Sussex, England, aged 27, has a daughter two years and seven months old, twin sons thirteen months, and also twin sons less than a week old, five children in less than three years.

She should have a pension, but it is fortunate this doesn't happen always. If it did, this planet would be overcrowded, although not for a long time.

Those that worry about excess population should remember that Texas could feed the seventeen or eighteen hundred million people on earth now, if intensively cultivated, and the flying machine will make of mountain and hilltops desirable residences for hundreds of millions.

GERMANS KNOW how to get things done. The antiquated old Graf Zeppelin sets a new record of 72 hours and 40 minutes from the airport in Germany to Pernambuco, in Brazil. Today the Zeppelin leaves Pernambuco for Rio de Janeiro, and on Thursday starts for Chicago.

The best this grand country can do is to print a special stamp, to use on letters carried by the German dirigible.

WE SEND up dirigibles, and they fall down, because idiots in the Navy will not let a commander stay on board an American dirigible after he has learned to run it.

Somebody ought to tell President Roosevelt about that, and somebody in the United States should develop sufficient ambition to establish a trans-Atlantic line owned by the United State or its citizens.

MANY ARE planning for distribution of alcohol when it comes in pretty soon.

Some want the states, some want the government to handle it. Everybody, nearly, agrees that the saloon should not come back.

Nobody seems to realize that people do not use alcohol as they use castor oil, bought at a drug store, swallowed.

Wicked, sinful, terrible it may be, but there is a certain "sociability" associated with wine, beer, and the more wicked beverages. And sociability plays a considerable part in human nature.

If you drive alcoholic sociability out of sight, it will find a refuge in the hidden speakeasy, night club and gutter dive, institutions that allow you to be as "sociable" as you choose.

SOMEBODY, SURELY, will ask you about "iitywybad," and you might as well know about it now. This sign is already displayed in Pittsburgh where beer is sold and it will spread. You ask the gentleman who sells the beer:

"What does "iitywybad" mean?"

And he replies:

"If I tell you, will you buy a drink?"

You say "Yes," and he points out that the letters in "iitywybad" are letters that begin the words in:

"If I tell you, will you buy a drink?"

MRS. "MACHINE GUN" KELLY is sentenced to life imprisonment for kidnaping; her mother, convicted of helping her son-in-law, also is sentenced for life, and they are to be in separate prisons.

The mother says this hurts her feelings more than life imprisonment, which, in her case, will be short. It isn't necessary to be "sloppy" about crime to suggest that the old mother might be sent to prison with her daughter.

She would not carry out any prison break.

GOOD NEWS for some that own oil wells and oil stocks, good news also for the nation's oil reserves that have been squandered with incredible folly.

Secretary Ickes, the government's oil administrator, issues orders regulating prices and "competitive abuses."

MISS MARY K. DANAHEY, 16......"I STILL LOVE HIM"

Tiny Miss Danahey in her fresh delicacy as she stood at Morals Court's bar, swore to tell the truth in hers and Edward McDade's hearing in which they were held pending further investigation of the death of his wife, Grace, 21. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

BAN BOX BOMBING SUSPECT SLAIN BY ICE PICK STABBERS

HELD IN WIFE DEATH, PAIR VOWS LOVE

Sleuths Doubt Man's Story of West End Auto Tragedy

Over the corpse of young Grace McDade, mother of two children, homicide detectives fashioned a large and suspicious question mark today.

They aren't convinced that she deliberately tumbled to her death from her husband's moving auto.

So they are holding the husband, Edward McDade, 24, owner of a small movie theater in the West End, and the girl in the case —16-year-old Mary Danahey, a tap dancer, of Carnegie.

In Morals Court today Detective Sergt. Samuel Wheeler testified that there are witnesses to prove that on two previous occasions McDade pushed his jealous wife from their moving car in East Liberty, that once she was all but struck by another auto.

FLAME OF JEALOUSY

He told, too, why jealousy flamed in the mother of McDade's children.

McDade had, Wheeler testified, used his wife's name to open charge accounts in department stores for the little girl who has tap-danced in small neighborhood theaters.

McDade and the girl, both held on suspicious person charges, were held for investigation after the hearing.

And as she was taken back to the jail Detective Wheeler quoted her as saying:

"I still love him, and I'm going to stand by him."

And through the bars of his own cell young McDade shouted:

"Love her? Of course I love her. I'll marry her as soon as this is over. I would marry her now if I could."

CAUGHT BY WIFE

Wheeler said the girl had told of being "caught" on one occasion with McDade by his wife, that the wife had grabbed her hair and the two had been separated by the man who married one and loved the other.

She told also of a more recent occasion when Mrs. McDade had come to her and, the detectives reported, said:

"If she wanted him she could have him."

It was at 3 a. m. last Monday that Mrs. McDade tumbled from their car just a few doors from their home at 2136 Charles street, North Side.

A few hours before McDade had been, with her, Mary Danahey said, and she had forced him to make a choice, the sleuths quoted —told him, finally that she was through with him when he seemed

THOMPSON PAPERS 'BOGUS'

Historic Signatures Forgeries, Says Expert

Purported signatures of Button Gwinnett and other signers of the Declaration of Independence, upon which Josiah V. Thompson placed great value in his will, today were described as worthless and fraudulent.

The one-time multi-millionaire coal baron, who died in comparative poverty, left the "extremely valuable" autographs to his stepdaughter, Rose Mary Maloney, in his will filed in Uniontown yesterday.

CALLED FORGERIES

But from Stan V. Henkels, Philadelphia literary auctioneer and book dealer, today came this description of the signatures:

"The worst set of forgeries I ever saw. You can purchase better ones for a dollar or less apiece."

In the will, written by himself, Thompson explained:

"This list of signatures is now for safe-keeping in the hands of Ernest Spofford, secretary of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, at 1300 Locust street, Philadelphia, Pa., subject to my demand and order."

It was learned today that Thompson had shipped the signatures by express, insured for $1,000, to Spofford, for sale. But Spofford, after examining them, prepared to return them. However, Thompson called and regained them himself in December, 1931.

SEARCH SCHEDULED

Thus another of the possessions which Thompson, in his will, regarded by him as of great value, apparently becomes worthless.

Attorneys for the Thompson estate said a search would begin soon for the other possessions which the aged ex-millionaire wrote of. In the will he gave unique directions to find the keys which would unlock trunks containing his cash accounts.

But not a mention was made of actual money! He left the Oak Hill mansion, which was sold beforeh e died, to his wife, Rose S. Thompson. Treasured family Bibles he bequeathed to the stepdaughter, Rose.

Freedom of the Press

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 17.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

MISS FRANCES PERKINS, Secretary of Labor, rebukes one of the Labor Department's conciliators, sent to settle a mine strike in Alabama, for threatening the editor of a local paper with prosecution on the theory that his paper was printing articles that were in violation of the NRA. Miss Perkins said:

"Please keep in mind always in your work of adjusting industrial disputes, that you have no right to tell any editor what he may or may not print in his news or editorial columns. There is nothing in the NRA, or any other federal statute, which gives you such a right."

There is no question about the soundness of Miss Perkins' message and the correctness of her attitude. The danger in the situation lies in the conditions which made her message necessary.

WE ARE at a very critical period when conditions have been created which make it possible for government officials to interfere with the liberty of the press.

Truly enough, Miss Perkins' message was sound, but suppose it had not been sound, or suppose she had not taken any attitude in the matter, or suppose she had been or should be overruled by superiors.

Is it not obvious that there lies in existing conditions a very dangerous menace to free institutions? Is it not evident that interference with anybody's business and everybody's business may eventually result in interference with the rights and liberties of the public as a whole?

Is it not clear that the first step toward this larger scheme of governmental interference with popular rights would be the invasion of the rights of free speech and free publication?

IF THIS general interference by government in the affairs of anybody and everybody continues, is it not perfectly plain that interference will become a fashion and that it must soon reach the point of interference with constitutional rights and guaranteed liberties?

It is in this way that despotism always grows. It is in this way that the pernicious habit of subservience to despotism is acquired little by little. Tyranny insidiously supersedes liberty and a free people wake up some morning to find themselves in the hands of a Hitler or in the grip of a Stalin.

Truly, eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. There are always egotistical individuals eager to gratify their vanity and their vain ambitions by becoming dictators. There are always time-serving public officials eager to flatter the vanity and support the ambitions of these egotistical leaders.

There is always a bureaucracy of government ready and eager to displace the people from control of public affairs and substitute themselves, asserting and perhaps believing that they have more intelligence than the public and better ability to govern.

The people must be ever alert against such invasions of their rights. The people must exercise the eternal vigilance which is the price of their cherished liberties and they must halt any dangers to those liberties at the very outset and in the very beginning, before those dangers can assume the form of a serious menace.

WE ARE drifting from democracy. We are drifting steadily and stupidly toward some one of the various forms of despotism which prevail in the old world. We are attempting to assume forms of government in our free land which our fathers came to this country definitely to avoid and eventually to repudiate.

There is danger to our whole civic structure in this tendency, danger to the rights and liberties our fathers won for us and which for a century and a half we have proudly and successfully maintained and which we had hoped to hand down as a precious heritage to our children.

There is danger to freedom of thought, freedom of speech, freedom of publication, freedom of action. There is danger to republican institutions and to the fundamental privileges of a free people in the persistent effort of government to invade every activity and substitute therein its ill-digested

TORCH DEATH ALSO LINKED IN REVENGE

Gangster 'Bumped Off' Here for 'Squealing,' Detectives Say

Gangland pointed its finger today and John Aliberti, 35-year-old underworld character, lay dead in a crumpled heap behind a concrete culvert in Long Run road, Versailles Township, his left side punctured with 60 ice-pick wounds.

City Detectives Robert Burke and James Noonan this afternoon identified the victim as Aliberti, who was arrested in the bombing of the Band Box Cabaret last summer and who, they said, was involved in a torch murder in New Martinsville, W. Va., a year ago.

Aliberti was put on the spot and given a squealer's punishment, according to the detectives, for his alleged part in sending his pal, Louis Zambrani, to prison for the crime.

'BUMPED OFF' HERE

His body was found at 8 o'clock this morning by Abe Harshbarger, 10, of Long Run road.

County Detective Joseph Bodner and the city investigators agreed that Aliberti was "bumped off" in Pittsburgh and thrown out of a machine at the Long Run road scene. They were further agreed that the small holes in his left chest were made by an ice-pick rather than by shotgun pellets as originally believed.

All identifying papers had been removed from the man's pockets, but the possibility of a robbery motive was scouted by the fact that a small sum of money and personal trinkets were found in his clothing.

VICTIM WELL DRESSED

Aliberti was wearing a new gray felt hat of an expensive make, new blue topcoat and light tan shoes.

Mrs. Althea Harshbarger, mother of Abe, told Deputy Coroner James Carroll, at an investigation this morning that she heard two shots fired in the vicinity of the spot where Aliberti's body was found at 7 a. m.

Aliberti at one timed in the 800 block, North Highland avenue, but an investigation disclosed he hadn't been seen at that address for several months.

ROOSEVELT MAY ACT IN STRIKE

By JOHN P. COWAN
Washington Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The zero hour when President Roosevelt may intervene in the captive mine checkoff dispute, is not far off.

A statement by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson that prolonged failure of President Thomas Moses, of the Frick Coke Company, and Vice President Philip Murray, of the United Mine Workers, to reach agreement would bring action by the President, has turned all eyes toward the White House today.

Johnson previously had counseled patience, but when asked at his press conference as to the NRA attitude on the checkoff after a 10-date stalemate, he answered:

"It takes two to make a dispute, but if this question is not settled the President will take a hand—and that will be soon."

Charge Bar Quiz Tricked County

Attorney Donald C. Anderson, secretary for the Allegheny County Bar Association's committee investigating ethical conduct, duplicated bills to the County Commissioners, a Main & Co. auditors report charged today.

The report, submitted to the County Commissioners, stated that the total collected by duplication was $1,588. The first, the report added, occurred in a bill submitted last year to the commissioners for $497. It was approved and sent to the County Controller.

Anderson collected the amount, the report said, and a letter sent him by the Commissioners' chief clerk, stating the Commissioners had made such approval, was submitted for a second collection. A similar double collection of $572 was also charged by the auditors.

Slain Man Found In Mine Strike Area

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 18.—The unidentified body of a middle-aged man was found today 200 feet off the Masontown-Uniontown road, near Edenborn, believed to have been the victim of foul play.

The body was found near the scene of recent mine disorders by Andrew Goodish, of Edenborn, who was training a rabbit dog in the fields. Two overcoats were found covering the body, which was believed by Fayette County authorities to have been dragged there 10 days to two weeks ago.

WEIRTON BALKS TREK TO WORK

By DAVID ROSENTHAL
Staff Correspondent.

WEIRTON, W. Va., Oct. 18.—The trek back to work into the Weirton Steel Company plant, strike-crippled for three weeks, today became a round-trip.

Hundreds who went to the mill were turned back with the instructions:

"Go home; we'll call you when there is work for you."

Men with new gloves and carrying their lunches, returned home, as well as groups of women. The women, from the sorting room, said there was no work for them, but that women who worked during the strike were busy.

There was a report that 60 new men were hired yesterday, when all the workmen, ordered back to work according to agreement made before the National Labor Board in Washington, failed to return. It was understood that because of the strike, 12 furnaces had to be rebuilt.

ACTION EXPLAINED

T. E. Millsot, assistant to the president of the company, denied that any new men had been hired. He said that medical examinations were given some men who had not been working for a month or so.

The men were sent back today, he explained, because:

"It takes time to get in operation again. We have to have a chance to get equipment together and rebuild some of the furnaces. It takes 72 hours to heat a furnace. Some men were told to return on other shifts. It may take a week to gather equipment together."

Millsot said no deadline for the men's return to work had yet been set.

The strike was the first interruption in operations of the Weirton plant since 1913.

Of the groups turned back, many were disappointed. At

Thugs Beat, Rob Newspaper Employe

Refusing to give up his money on demand of two strangers, Joseph Gabig, a newspaper employe, was knocked unconscious and robbed of $15 last night in an alley near Rochelle street where he had just put his car in a garage.

Recovering sufficiently to reach his home, 2826 Clermont avenue, Gabig found the thieves had left him his empty wallet.

8 Little Pigs Gone; Hunt 'Big, Bad Wolf'

LONGMONT, Colo., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—A "big, bad wolf" in cheap clothing was hunted by police here after the theft of eight little pigs from the City Sales Company's barn.

According to information the police received, the thief was dressed in overalls when he raided the barn and stole the black and white Hampshires.

PAPER BALLOT CURB VOTED

The County Commissioners today voted not to have paper ballots printed for districts where the voting machines are to be used in the general election, November 7.

In so deciding, the Commissioners ignored a recent request of City Council that printed ballots be prepared for all precincts.

It is believed that the Harris investigating committee which has been looking into the performance of the machines in the primary election will recommend that the machines be used in approximately half of the city districts.

Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, who made the motion to reduce the number of printed ballots, said:

"It's hokum to put three machines in one district. In Buffalo, as many as 1,100 persons vote on one machine."

The Commissioners let the contract for vote machine labels and printing regular ballots to the Pittsburgh Printing Company; for ballots on amendments to the Herbick & Held Printing Company, and for referendum on repeal ballots to the F. & S. Printing Company.

Hopkins to Talk At Welfare Dinner

Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Relief Administrator, will speak on President Roosevelt's appeal for support of private and public charities at a dinner meeting of 300 relief leaders in the Hotel Schenley tonight. The dinner will be sponsored by the Welfare Fund, which Monday set its 1934 budget at $2,837,980.

John W. Lawrence, general manager of the fund, will preside.

Snake Gets Into Movie And Bites Ann Dvorak

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Ann Dvorak, screen actress, was under treatment today for a rattlesnake bite. She was struck yesterday while on location on a high mesa near Calabasas. She was portraying the role of an Indian girl.

The wound was slight and the actress is expected to suffer no ill effects, her husband, Leslie Fenton, said. She was given emergency treatment and later taken to the Studio Hospital where an anti-venom serum was injected.

Miss Dvorak said:

"I felt something strike my leg, and heard several persons yell 'snake.' The snake wriggled off toward the camera and everybody ran except the property man. He sailed in and swung his stick and that ended the snake."

2 GUNMEN ROB BANK OF $4,000

FREDONIA, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Two men held up the Fredonia National Bank today, scooped up between $4,000 and $5,000 in currency and escaped.

The robbers, well-dressed and about 30 years old, overlooked $2,000 in bank notes.

They entered the bank separately, drew pistols and ordered two customers and two tellers to "act natural" and not raise their hands.

The tellers, Paul Paxton and Clayton Morford, and the customers, Ernest Heckman and George Reinhart, said the men were courteous and made no effort to harm them.

It was the second bank robbery in Mercer County in less than two months. A short time ago the S. J. Gully Bank, at Farrell, was robbed and $6,000 taken. Later John Dillinger, who escaped from the jail at Lima, O., after a Sheriff had been shot and killed, was identified as one of the men in the Farrell robbery.

ROOSEVELT DECREES JAIL FOR VIOLATORS OF CODE

JOHNSON GETS POWER TO FIX PENALTIES

Order Also Provides Fines for False Use Of Insignia

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Determined to enforce provisions of the NRA, the administration today embarked upon a punitive campaign against code violators.

The order signed by President Roosevelt fixes fines of $500 and six months imprisonment against violators of the President's re-employment agreement and authorizes Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson to fix penalties against persons who fail to live up to the standards of the blue eagle.

Violators of the re-employment agreement and those of permanent codes are included within the provisions of the executive order.

The presidential decree provides:

"No one shall falsely represent himself to be discharging the obligations or complying with the provisions of the re-employment agreement or of any code of fair competition approved by the President under the National Recovery Act or any rule or regulation prescribed to carry out the purposes of said act.

"No one shall display or use any emblem or insignia or any reproduction of any emblem or insignia of the National Recovery Administration contrary to any rules or regulations prescribed by the administrator for industrial recovery.

"I hereby authorize the administrator to prescribe such rules and regulations as he may deem necessary."

Violators, the order said, may be punished "by a fine not to exceed $500 or imprisonment not to exceed six months or both."

A supplementary order signed by Johnson, amplifying the President's decree, was also issued. It requires an employer to surrender his blue eagle "when in the judgment of the administrator or his duly authorized representatives any person has failed to comply" with a temporary agreement or permanent code.

Presidential Ruling On Retail Prices Delayed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—A final decision on the retail code and its controversial loss limitation provision had not been reached today by President Roosevelt.

Although it had been expected in some official quarters that he was about ready to state his mind, he was represented as feeling that because of the many things involved, more consideration should be given.

Consequently, he arranged a series of conferences to continue discussions begun yesterday.

Mr. Roosevelt's task was to define the government's policy toward price regulation in a retail distribution code. Before him were arguments for and against minimum price markups over invoice costs.

Hugh S. Johnson, recovery chieftain, said 99 per cent of the country's retailers wanted this form of price stabilization. Secretary Wallace was vigorously opposed. He said, however, an agreement submitted to the President would prohibit sales below invoice costs in order to ban the "loss leader" practice.

While President Roosevelt studied the retail issue the Labor Department announced an upward trend in wholesale prices begun in March had "continued unbroken" through September with a 2 per cent advance in the weighted index of 784 commodities.

Two Auto Officials Ignore Labor Board

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(INS.)—Two important automobile company officials ignored summonses by the National Labor Board to appear at a hearing today on a dispute with tool and die makers, now on strike in Michigan cities, it was revealed when the hearing began.

They were William Knudsen, president of the Chevrolet and Pontiac Automobile Companies, subsidiaries of General Motors, and Alvan Macauley, president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce and of the Packard Motor Car Company.

World Fair 'Venus' Fined for Nudity

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Elinor Benninger, who poses as "Venus" at A Century of Progress was fined $25 and costs by Municipal Judge Ervin J. Hastens, who said:

half a dozen larger mines reopened in Fayette County.

This area—seat of the strike of protest against the H. C. Frick Coke Company and other owners of captive mines who refuse to recognize the United Mine Workers—was peaceful.

Picket lines maintained their vigil at the captive pits. A few wild shots in the air, reported from the Colonial district, were the only sounds of disturbance.

One mine in the hitherto solidly closed Greene County reopened.

All captive mines without union contracts remained closed.

Elsewhere in Western Pennsylvania, the commercial mines were re-opening with rapidity. Few such mines remained closed.

There were few pickets, except at captive mines.

Forty pickets appeared at the Oliver No. 2 mine, in Fayette County, this morning. State police instructed them to disperse. They left.

The large Thompson mine of the Hillman Coal and Coke Company early today sent cleanup men into the pits, indicating the reopening tomorrow of another Fayette County operation.

Martin Ryan, insurgent leader, spoke last night before 300 miners in Charleroi. Ryan, discussing District No. 4 of the United Mine Workers, said:

"If District No. 4 throws us down, we'll break your backs in 1934."

TEXTILE CODE SUCCESS CITED

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Hailing application of the cotton textile code as a remarkable achievement, George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton-Textile Institute, said today the industry's employment figures were "back to pre-depression levels" with the weekly payroll 100 per cent above that of early March.

Praising its spirit of unity and collaboration, Sloan said the industry had "approached the new problem of our relations with the government in the spirit of voluntary partnership invoked by the President." He continued:

"We have been met in that spirit of voluntary partnership by Gen. Johnson and his associates in the Recovery Administration.

"So long as that spirit can be preserved between the partners in this enterprise, we can go forward in the hope that government and the industry together will make a marked contribution to recovery."

FILM SALARIES NOT UNDER NRA

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Attempts to prevent rival motion picture producers from offering "excessive" salaries to actors, actresses, directors and other important employes of rival studios cannot be legally done under the terms of the National Recovery Act, Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson said yesterday.

He made this statement when his attention was called to the fact that new provisions recently written into the motion picture code made it an "unfair trade practice" for producers to offer excessive salaries, and gave the administrator the right to levy fines up to $10,000 on any producer found guilty of making such "excessive" offers.

WEIRTON BALKS BACK TO WORK TREK OF MEN

Plant Not Prepared For Move, But Will Reopen Payrolls

meetings held last night, which many thousands attended, William J. Long, president of the strike committee, hoarse from a cold, was given an ovation. He said:

"We have won a victory. The strike is over. It is now under government supervision, and our case now rests in the country's hands."

The official agreement setting an election of the workmen's representatives in December, was read to the men in English, Greek, Polish and Italian.

Long added:

"Go back to work now. Let all your petty grievances rest. If any argument comes up, the government will have full charge. It is out of my hands."

Edward Miller, international vice president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, also spoke, explaining that the first inning of the battle was not yet over, and the workmen must fight out the full game. He urged them to stay away from company meetings, and preserve their solidarity.

Already the question as to whether the December vote will be to decide between unions or merely to elect new officers of the present company union has arisen.

Weir, claiming the present company organization, with representatives elected last May for a six-month term, is not a company union, says:

"We said we won't deal with the Amalgamated and we won't."

He promised to deal with the representatives elected in December, however, under the so-called company union plan, whether they are members of Amalgamated or not, whether they are employes or not.

Miller, international vice president of the Amalgamated union, however, said:

"The men are going to vote in December on whether they want the union or not."

MILLER SPEAKS

Told that Weir said he would refuse to recognize Amalgamated, treating the representatives as "individual representatives of the men" rather than representatives of the union, Miller said:

"But if union officers are elected as the men's representatives, how can they refuse to recognize the union?"

A third party—the National Recovery Administration—was injected into the dispute when Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, told International News Service that the agreement signed in Washington Monday by Weir can cause him, Johnson "understands," to recognize the union and that:

"When an employer agrees to deal with the individual officers of a union, in case workers elect them as representatives for collective bargaining purposes, I think that amounts to recognition of the union."

But the contrary opinions exist, and will, in time, have to be ironed out.

At any rate, a concentrated campaign for enlistment of Weirton steel workers in the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers is assured, between now and December 11, the day of the voting.

Clarksburg workers were ordered back to their jobs by union leaders after a mass meeting of Blue Eagle Lodge No. 32, last night.

INQUIRY BARES CHASE DEALS IN OWN STOCK

900 Million Dollars Worth Transacted In Boom Years

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The stockholders of the Chase National Bank bought and sold $900,000,000 of their bank's stock in the boom years through a corporation which they owned entirely, it was revealed at the Senate banking inquiry.

At an executive session, the committee decided to abandon an inquiry into the "rescue loans" of the Chase National Bank following the market crash of October, 1929. Wiggin described the loan to the committee in conference and the testimony was kept secret because of the possible effect on business and industry.

The stockholders created the Metpotan Corporation to conduct these transactions in the bank's stocks. It did a $900,000,000 business from 1928 to 1932, inclusive.

These were the years when the bank constantly increased its outstanding stock. On August 23, 1929, the bank divided a 12½ per cent stock dividend of 500,000 shares—at a time when the stock was selling in excess of $100 a share.

50 MILLION MELON

The stockholders thus split a $50,000,000 melon. They were able to dispose of the stock through the Metpotan Corporation.

Ferdinand Pecora, Senate counsel, failed to follow up the revelation. He made no effort to disclose whether the stockholders actually had cashed in their stock dividend.

Albert H. Wiggin, former chairman of the bank, told of organizing the Metpotan Corporation. He also described a series of stock increases from 1920 to 1930. Proceeds from several issues were used to acquire other bank properties, but in some instances were used to increase the Chase Securities Corporation's capital.

OTHER ISSUES BARED

A stock dividend of 500,000 shares was declared on August 23, 1929. The bank transferred $2,500,000 from its surplus to capital. This made the rate $5 a share but the stock had been selling just prior at $195. There was nothing to keep the stockholders from selling it through the Metpotan Corporation.

On August 24, 1929, the next day, another 750,000 shares were issued to the stockholders of this, the bank received $3,750,000 for its capital and $3,903,000 for its surplus.

Pecora drew from Wiggin an explanation of a dozen issues. The banker told of the sale of 34,980 shares of the bank's stock to the Metpotan Corporation on May 31, 1930, at an auction for $5,975,140. The bank netted from $169½ to $174¼ a share. Wiggin was not asked to explain this sale.

CHIDES WIGGIN

Wiggin urged a reduction of labor's wages, while he was accepting an increase in his own huge salary, it was revealed earlier at the inquiry.

Wiggin, who received $1,367,020 in salary and bonuses from the Chase National Bank, was asked to explain two other large salaries he drew from other corporations. He said a salary of $20,000 from the Brooklyn Manhattan Transit Company was for services as chairman of its finance committee. He added that a $40,000 salary from Armour & Co. was for services as chairman of its finance committee.

Pecora chided Wiggin for issuing a statement on January 31, 1931, urging a reduction in labor's wages. Wiggin was quoted as saying:

"It is not true high wages make prosperity."

Pecora asked Wiggin to reconcile this statement with his acceptance of a salary increase in 1930 and another in 1931. In 1930, Wiggin drew $217,750 and in 1931, $250,000 from the bank. Said Wiggin:

"Oh, I don't see anything irreconcilable in that. My salary was raised during the year of 1930 and I expressed the opinion about wages in January, 1931."

MRS. PINCHOT NRA SPEAKER

MEADVILLE, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Mrs. Gifford Pinchot says she hopes her husband, Pennsylvania's Governor, will include consideration of minimum wage laws in his call for the forthcoming special session of the Legislature.

Addressing a mass meeting that marked the close of Meadville's NRA day celebration, Mrs. Pinchot last night also called for enactment of old age pension legislation. She praised the philosophy of the national recovery program.

John H. Phillips, president of the State Federation of Labor, joined Mrs. Pinchot in advocating minimum laws and urged support of the state bond issue of $25,000,000 for relief and state aid for institutions.

More than 7,000 persons marched in a Blue Eagle parade.

MISS WILMA ANDEREGG

SUSPECT HELD AFTER CHASE

When a Negro grabbed Miss Wilma Anderegg, of 1304 North avenue, Wilkinsburg, as she walked in Bennett street, near Oakwood street, and twisted her purse from her hand, she screamed.

The Negro fled as Carl Hobe, of 610 Brushton avenue, and several other men attracted by her outcry, approached. Hobe followed. Several blocks away the Negro darted back of a hedge. Hobe, flailing about with a club, struck the Negro on the head.

Placed under arrest, the Negro gave his name as Jack Hampton, 2, of 34 Orphan street. He was held for further investigation.

RED QUESTIONS NAZI WITNESS

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Ernst Torgler, former Communist member of the Reichstag and one of the five defendants in the German Reichstag building fire trial, created a courtroom stir today.

During cross-examination, he questioned the testimony of the night watchman of the Reichstag president's palace, which is opposite the Reichstag building and connected with it by a subterranean passage.

The witness claimed he saw no storm troopers enter the palace. Torgler said:

"But, from the window of the Communist Reichstag fraction groups of stormers were clearly seen in the palace garden."

The witness retorted:

"Well, I went on duty at 8 p. m., and certainly nobody entered after then."

The watchman testified that 10 days before the fire he heard mysterious steps in the subterranean passage, whereupon vigilance was increased.

Canonsburg Bank Reopening Assured

CANONSBURG, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—W. W. Murray, chairman of a committee working to reopen the First National Bank on an unrestricted basis, announces that sufficient stock has been sold to meet the reopening requirements.

He said last night the committee has received pledges for $260,000 worth of stock and that the bank probably will go off the restricted basis within a short time.

GERMANY WON'T CHANGE STAND, HITLER SAYS

Insists on Equality Before Entering Negotiations

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—(INS.)—Discrediting rumors that Germany was ready to swing about and reenter the League of Nations, Chancellor Adolf Hitler today served notice on the world the Reich will participate in no further negotiations until she is "treated as an equal."

In a powerful speech before a convention of party leaders last night, which was made public today, Hitler spiked foreign hopes Germany might return to the league through the "back door."

He declared:

"Germany wants peace, but is determined not to attend any conference nor enter any league nor to sign anything unless she is treated as an equal.

NAZI PEACE-LOVING

"Germany was never more peace-loving than since she turned her back on Geneva. The Nazis do not desire and will not pursue a policy of imperialistic expansion. But, while rejecting any appliance of force, they are fully determined to safeguard Germany's rights.

"My predecessors suffered from what might be called the Geneva disease, which rendered them optimists toward the league but pessimists regarding Germany. I am just the contrary."

The Chancellor's speech contained a surprise in the shape of an offer to political oppositionists—thought dead and buried so far as active political participation is concerned—to join with the Nazis in the new national movement of independence and self-assertion. He said:

"The Nazis are ready to proffer their hands to our former domestic enemies if they prove they whole-heartedly support the contention of Germany's love for peace.

"Nazis who sin against their patriotic duties deserve harsher treatment than our former enemies."

Mussolini Seeking Retraction by Germany

GENEVA, Oct. 18.—Premier Mussolini, of Italy, moved today to revive efforts for world disarmament under his four-power peace pact.

Bearing out International News Service predictions yesterday, this correspondent learned the Italian dictator is redoubling efforts to induce Chancellor Hitler to retract Germany's withdrawal from the League of Nations.

Informed quarters here pointed out that Mussolini was not acting out of any particular interest in or regard for the League.

They said, however, that should Germany give formal notice of her withdrawal from that body, he believes this action would make it almost impossible to "refloat" the foundering disarmament efforts in the projected four-power conversations.

SUCCESS POSSIBLE

Possibility that Mussolini may be successful in his efforts was professedly seen by some officials here on grounds that the Reich has not yet submitted official notice to Geneva of its withdrawal from the League. Certain quarters take this as indication the door is still open for negotiations leading to Germany's return.

The position of Germany at the moment with regard to the League is seen as an effective refusal to co-operate unless her equality demands are heeded, but at the same time a willingness to continue negotiations if the nations now aligned against her should capitulate.

As pointed out yesterday, Mussolini is pressing for disarmament negotiations under the pact he sponsored in the belief, which finds no echo here, that the United States is gradually leaving the disarmament efforts and that the European powers must act quickly if disarmament is to be achieved.

ReedUrgesNRASupport As Patriotic Duty

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—One of the Roosevelt administration's most outspoken critics, United States Senator David A. Reed, urges Republican support of the recovery program "as a matter of patriotic duty."

Addressing the Cambria County Council of Republican Women last night, Reed, looked upon as leader of the conservative Republican forces in the Senate, called for such support "to the extent of refusing to impede" the NRA plan.

He asserted, however, that "it is also our patriotic duty to express dissent and dissatisfaction when we honestly believe the country is being put upon the wrong track" and recalled his protests "against legislation which was being crammed through Congress" last spring. He added:

"I am glad to see that the President has shown some reluctance to dive headlong into the inflationary schemes of some of his advisers. I need only refer you to the words of Grover Cleveland, the greatest President the Democratic party produced, when he said in 1893 that 'inflation finds its most terrible results upon the workingman.'"

The Senator's address was viewed as the beginning of his campaign for re-nomination at the spring primary, in which Gov. Gifford Pinchot is expected to be his opponent.

Reed asserted:

"There are many things in the Roosevelt program which do violence to my Western Pennsylvania common-sense.

"For instance, I cannot see the sense in expending vast sums of money for development of hydro-electric power in the South, while we in Western Pennsylvania are praying for an opportunity of putting upon the market our enormous supply of bituminous coal for producing power."

Joke's On Roosevelt—But He Has Last Laugh

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt didn't want his name foisted upon a carillon anyway; he'd much prefer to have a baby or a puppy-dog named after him.

An exchange of correspondence made public at Harvard University yesterday revealed the President as the victim of an "undergraduate pleasantry," but showed that he had the last laugh.

It seems the President, an old Harvard man, was asked to authorize the use of his name on a carillon in the tower of Lowell House. The letter was signed "R. P. L., secretary of the Lowell House Committee."

Mr. Roosevelt, in a letter to Prof. Julian Coolidge, master of Lowell House, said he would be greatly honored. Professorial brows lifted, and a letter was despatched to the White House saying there was no such person as "R. P. L."

You have been made the victim of what the French call "a mystification," in other words, a piece of undergraduate pleasantry, wrote Prof. Coolidge, and here is Mr. Roosevelt's reply:

"I am not in the least perturbed about the chime of bells because, strictly between ourselves, I should much prefer to have a puppy-dog or a baby named after me than one of those carillon effects that is never quite in tune and that goes off at all hours of the day and night. At least one can give paregoric to a puppy or a baby.

"Very sincerely yours,
"FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT."

DETECTIVE ON BANDIT TRAIL HELD UP, SHOOTS TWO

FREED CONVICT, COMPANION WOUNDED

Sleuth Fires on Pair He Accuses of Theft Attempt

Opening fire upon two youths who, he says, attempted to hold him up on the outskirts of Millvale early today, City Detective Edward McEntee shot and wounded both, one seriously.

The shooting occurred near the Star Barbecue, on Babcock boulevard, where McEntee had followed the two men on a tip from an informer.

One of the injured men was Larry Rosenblatt, alias Chatmore, 23, of 3054 Texas avenue, Dormont, paroled a short time after his conviction as a member of a bandit gang. He was shot in the chest, the bullet penetrating his stomach. His condition is serious.

The other is Peter Stewart, 20, of 1302 Wareman avenue, Brookline. He was shot through the shoulder.

BOTH IN HOSPITAL

Both are in Allegheny General Hospital, technically under arrest on suspicious person charges.

Rosenblatt was taken into custody a short time after the holdup attempt when he went into the Star Barbecue for help.

Stewart was arrested at the Dormont Police Station, where he had gone to report his injury, received, he said, in an attempted holdup in Mt. Lebanon. He later admitted that he had been shot near Millvale, and North Side police were called.

Inspector of Detectives Frank R. Boyd said Rosenblatt and Stewart admitted, they had robbed Gordon Ruhl's jewelry shop, 1406 Potomac avenue, last Friday night of $750 worth of rings and other valuables.

McEntee said after losing the men near the Star Barbecue he was returning to his car and encountered the men.

'GET IN, YOU PUNK!'

One, later identified as Rosenblatt, prodded him with a revolver, commanded:

"Get into your car punk."

McEntee said he started to comply. As he neared the machine he asked the men to permit him to get his keys from his pockets. They assented and he drew his gun and started firing.

Both men were armed McEntee said, the two guns being found later near the scene of the shooting.

KELLY'S WIFE STARTS TERM

CINCINNATI, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Kathryn Kelly went to work today in the sewing and tailoring shop of the Cincinnati Workhouse as she began serving a life sentence for complicity in the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, oil millionaire. She said:

"I'll never live that sort of a life again."

The slim, comely 30-year-old woman was brought here last night on a train from Oklahoma City, Okla., where, with her husband, George (Machine Gun) Kelly, she was convicted of taking part in the abduction.

More than twoscore federal, county and city officers, armed with machine guns, riot guns and tear gas bombs, met her at the station and whisked her away to the walled, gray stone buildings of the workhouse, where she was assigned to a cell.

Irving Bitz Again Hunted by Police

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(Universal.)—Police again are hunting Irving Bitz, was was named as intermediary in the Lindbergh kidnaping case.

Bitz, who has been arrested eight times during his career, was to have appeared today for trial on the charge of carrying a revolver. When he did not answer the call of court, his $25,000 bail was ordered forfeited.

World Fair Time Extended to Nov. 12

CHICAGO, Oct. 18. — (INS.) — Instead of closing its gates on October 31, as originally planned, the World Fair will continue until midnight, November 12, it was announced today by Maj. Lenox Lohr, general manager.

Plans for the added fortnight at the exposition call for a banner celebration in the final week with an Armistice Day program as the highlight.

unable to make up his mind to try for a divorce.

'MIGHT AS WELL PART'

McDade says he and his wife were motoring home from a midnight show when, during a quarrel, he agreed to her suggestion that they might as well part. He continued:

"After I agreed with her she moved away from me toward the door of the automobile. I thought nothing of it, believing that she just didn't want to sit beside me. And then, before I could stop her, she opened the door and leaped out."

McDade was quoted by the detectives as picturing his five years of married life as dotted with quarrels, his wife accusing him of affairs with other women. They had discussed divorce for a year, he said.

NO SIGN OF RECOGNITION

When Miss Danahey walked into the Detective Bureau she brushed close to McDade but gave no sign of recognition. He has said he met her in his theater two years ago.

Mrs. McDade's injuries were not reported to the police from the hospital originally because, the detectives said, hospital attaches were under the impression she had been hit by a truck. An autopsy showed she had been suffering from lobar pneumonia, which handicapped her chances of recovery. Her skull was fractured when she fell from the car.

The detectives were told by J. E. McDade, father of the young McDade, that his daughter-in-law had tried once before, by poisoning, to end her life. The father, a retired railways motorman, described Edward as "a good son."

Buster Keaton To Rewed Nurse

VENTURA, Cal., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Buster Keaton, screen comedian, yesterday filed notice of intention to marry Mrs. Mae Scrivens Hawley, his former nurse.

January 8 the couple was married at Ensenada, Mexico. But that was nine months before his divorce from Natalie Talmadge became final, so the two returned to California to live a "companionate life" until their marriage was legal here.

March Seriously Ill In 'Flu' Relapse

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Suffering a relapse after an attack of influenza, Frederic March, stage and screen actor, was reported in a serious condition at his home today. Only a nurse and the attending physician were admitted to his room.

Florence Eldridge, stage actress, and wife of March, said her husband became ill a week ago.

M'CLURE LINKED WITH GAMBLING

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—Several of the 76 defendants on trial with State Senator John J. McClure in a liquor conspiracy today were linked to horse race gambling activities by a government witness in United States District Court.

The witness, Edward Bruner, a speakeasy owner, named Thomas F. McCombs, a co-defendant and prominent figure in the political organization headed by Senator McClure in Delaware County as the "banker" for the sporting fraternity.

Frank Cohe, another co-defendant, a hotel keeper and operator of a club, was named by Bruner as being in charge of all bets on horses in the Third Ward of Chester.

An air of tenseness overhung court today as a result of reports that the government was ready to begin its offensive against the "big guns" in the case.

Hotel Dynamited In Hard Coal Strike

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Seven persons narrowly escaped injury and three buildings were damaged early today when a charge of dynamite was set off against the Finn Hotel, at Miners Mills. The blast tore away a door, shattered windows and scattered furniture in the hotel.

The proprietor's brother, Thomas Burke, who lives in the building, is a mine committee member at Keystone colliery of Conlon Coal Company, where there has been strike picketing recently.

Woman Cashier Eludes Police; Shortage Mounts

$16,000 Now Revealed As Missing From Elizabeth Bank

The missing spinster of Elizabeth is still missing today, and so are more of the funds from the bank of which she was assistant cashier.

The audit in the State Bank of Elizabeth today revealed that $16,000 remains mysteriously absent from the records of Miss Hazel B. Weigel, who vanished September 22. Last report was $12,000, and when Miss Weigel walked out of the bank weeks ago only $3,000 was first discovered missing.

The search for Miss Weigel, who lived alone in Elizabeth's Pangburn Hollow, has been intensive but futile, according to S. M. Carrington, of the American Surety Company, of New York, which bonded her.

A trusted employe for 17 years, Miss Weigel's disappearance was a shock. She walked out while auditors were checking the bank records. Several days later her car was found in a McKeesport alley, near the railroad station.

Britain Preparing Naval Increases

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(INS.)—Claiming Britain should build her navy up to the full strength permitted under the London naval treaty, the Daily Herald today reported the British admiralty is preparing a large increase in naval estimates for next year.

These, the newspaper said, provide for new capital ships of 25,000 tons carrying 12-inch guns as well as an increase in destroyers and submarines to replace obsolete craft.

ENGINEERS SEE TWO MILLS

Inspection of two Western Pennsylvania mills was the important feature on today's program of the convention and exposition of the Association of Iron and Steel Electrical Engineers in William Penn Hotel.

Special buses will carry delegates to the Allegheny Steel Company, at Brackenridge, and the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, Vandergrift. The tour will occupy the afternoon.

Technical sessions were held this morning in the mechanical, electrical and lubrication divisions with R. B. Shover, of Pittsburgh, chairman. Speakers included prominent engineers.

Doug Calls Divorce Story 'Invention'

RABAT, Morocco, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Those stories about an impending divorce between Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford are, Fairbanks insisted here, pure invention so far as he's concerned.

That was all the American screen star would say about the rumors.

Rudy, Feeling Fine, Leaving Hospital

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(Universal.)—Rudy Vallee, radio crooner whose nose was operated on Sunday, was to be discharged from the hospital today. His nurse said Vallee was "eating three meals a day and feeling fine."

FORD BRANCH BALKS PARLEY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Senator Wagner, National Labor Board chairman, in a statement today said that Ford officials, asked to confer with their employes and Labor Board representatives at Newark, N. J., this morning, had announced lack of authority to enter the conference and were seeking further instructions from Dearborn.

Simultaneously, Wagner made public an exchange of telegrams between himself and the Ford Motor Company regarding adjustment of differences with the striking workers for the Edgewater (N. J.) and Chester (Pa.) assembly plants, and said:

"We believe the Ford Motor Company desires to maintain the co-operative attitude indicated in its telegram of October 16. The board was gratified by that position yesterday and has reasons to expect results from the conference today."

The Ford telegram asserted that it was not the practice of the company to discriminate against applicants for work because of union affiliation and did not believe any such discrimination had taken place.

Maryland Repeal Ballot Confirmed

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 18.—(INS.)—Delegates to Maryland's repeal convention met here today and formally voted to renounce the Eighteenth Amendment.

John Philip Hill, former Congressman and wet crusader, was temporary chairman of the convention and appeared at the Capitol Building attired in a pallbearer's uniform.

Girl Swimmer Shows Up Pacific as Poor Jailer

Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—In announcing the selection of Alcatraz, in San Francisco Bay, for the American "Devil's Island," government authorities declared that the "swift, cold currents that swirl" would make escape virtually impossible.

Yesterday, a slender, 17-year-old San Francisco girl swam the "swift, cold currents that swirl through the Golden Gate"—a mile and a half between Alcatraz Island and San Francisco, and thought nothing of the feat.

Anastasis (Babe) Scott, recent graduate of Galileo High School, showed her contempt for the whole set-up after breakfast yesterday. She slipped into the water at Alcatraz Island at 9:50 a. m., swam across the currents with long, easy strokes, and emerged at the dock of the Dolphin Club, foot of Larkin street, 43 minutes later, which proves that Alcatraz is not such a hard place to get away from after all.

And then, being the first woman ever to navigate the course under her own power, she calmly told questioners:

"I could swim back again, right now. It was easy. The water was fine and I feel fine."

EDISON SCORNS SPIRITUALIST MEETING

Whispers Purported To Be From Spirit World Heard

The shades of Thomas A. Edison scorned the convention of the National Spiritualist Association last night.

At least that's what the medium said when a woman in the audience of several hundred persons addressed a message to the renowned inventor. But—by her own admission—another spirit answered the inquiry to the questioner's satisfaction.

No one of consequence beyond the grave spoke up at the meeting in the ballroom of the William Penn Hotel, but Charleys and Toms and Katies were there in great numbers, according to T. John Kelly, noted medium, who occupied the platform as conveyor of the purported messages from the beyond.

WHISPERS HEARD

The reason Edison remained silent, Kelly explained, was that his still was the great mind that would scorn such manifestation. He will, said Kelly, transmit his great powers to another who is living.

Everyone had an amusing time. Even skeptics were impressed. Those near the platform heard whisperings, and could clearly distinguish whispered names. The spiritualists offered the public demonstration of mediumistic powers as conclusive evidence that communication with those beyond the grave is possible.

There was no table rapping nor other physical evidence of the presence of supposed sprits, other than the vague whisperings. There likewise was no paraphernalia in evidence.

Some of the whisperers were quite insistent.

There was Charley, for instance. He wanted to tell Tom something—Tom McDonald. The medium tried putting him off while he thumbed through a huge pile of envelopes containing questions, but Charley finally gained the floor, and the medium called for Tom.

Enthusiastically, Tom McDonald, a delegate from Houston, Texas, made known his identity after the medium explained this particular Charley was electrocuted while crawling under his house.

JOB PROMISED

The medium told Tom that Charley assured him he would get his job back with the city of Houston, and not to worry. McDonald later said he had been wondering about that for some time.

There were scores of similar examples. One woman claimed to have heard her native Russian tongue spoken as she grasped the hand of the medium. Medium Kelly, a jovial fellow with an English accent, and securely blindfolded by a confessed skeptical representative of the press, said he wouldn't undertake to translate the Russian, so the woman supposedly got her communication direct from its source.

There was another Charley present in the flesh. He spoke up after the medium told him he was in the chicken business. He had left his wife at home, he admitted, when the medium inquired if that were not the case. Kelly told him to bring her along some time. Charley said he would.

WORD FOR NRA

In a written inquiry, "A. F. L." wanted to know "who has been taking the money." Kelly said the spirits were going to get someone "in Dutch," but he knew who it was. The questioner asked for an initial, so Kelly provided one. The inquirer seemed satisfied with the answer—particularly after Kelly added that the guilty one also took the jewelry.

There was little comment on present economic conditions. All the questioners were concerned with their own little problems. However, in reply to one question anent one man's business affairs, Medium Kelly painted that particular person's future as rather rosy, and added:

"The NRA is making a big difference."

Before the medium's demonstration, the Rev. Edward H. Lohman, pastor of the Universal Temple, Cleveland, spoke on "The Challenge of the Gods," an impassioned presentation of the spiritualist doctrine.

INDIANA TO SELL 'EPPY'-FOX BEER CARGO

Brew Seized on Tax Charge Will Pay Lawyers' Claim

The peaceful smiles which usually illuminate the aesthetic features of Henry (Young Eppy) Epstein and his colleague, Harry M. (Puncher-Proof) Fox were replaced today by gloom. You'd have thought those two boys had spent the night with Nietzsche.

Being members of the beer profession, these two gentlemen recently traveled in style into the state of Indiana, admiring the poetic flow of the Wabash and 122 barrels of beer which, by a remarkable coincidence, seemed attached to them.

But the soulless state of Indiana grabbed hold of the visitors and demanded to know why the state tax had not been paid on the beer.

The distinguished visitors beat that rap, although maybe it costs Puncher-Proof Foxie a sawbuck or two, and they come back home hopeful.

But today the Associated Press reports from Indianapolis that the courts have not only got a strangle on the beer, but have decided to sell the stuff and pay off attorneys and bondsmen who have claims against the stuff. And if there is anything left over, why this goes to Louis Groesman, of Pittsburgh, who is named as the real owner of the beer.

MAE WEST PEN PUTS HER ABED

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Mae West went to bed today for 10 days, but her affliction is only story trouble.

She has the title for her next film, "It Ain't No Sin," but no story to go with it, and one is due in three weeks.

Propped up on pillows in the bedroom of her Hollywood apartment, the star dictates to secretaries. She says she can't work in an office, as other writers do.

She'll stay in bed for 10 days, come out one day to pose for pictures, and then go back to work for another 10 days.

Mae hopes, at the end of her seclusion, to have the plot and dialogue for her next picture completed.

Ecuador President Reported Ousted

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Official telegraphic reports from Quito yesterday said the Senate had declared vacant the office of the president of the republic.

The reports said the motion, based on charges of malfeasance in office against President Martinez Mera, carried 19 to 4. At the same time, the reports added, Dr. Abeladro Montalvo was named to succeed Mera.

Man Guilty in Fire Deaths of Family

JACKSBORO, Tenn., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Floyd Johnson, 27-year-old LaFollette filling station operator, was convicted by a Campbell County jury today on charges of burning his wife and three children to death the night of August 30.

The jury recommended a sentence of 21 years in the state penitentiary.

Man Killed Running To Aid Injured Dog

WINDBER, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Running to the aid of a dog struck by an automobile, William Lint, 62, of Windber, was knocked down and killed by another car.

The accident occurred yesterday near Windber, where Lint was working on the highway. Lint leaves his widow and seven children.

Glenda Farrell May Wed Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Friends of Glenda Farrell, blonde stage and screen actress, and Robert Riskin, screen writer, intimated tonight the couple might wed soon. Neither Miss Farrell nor Riskin would discuss a possible romance.

Mrs. Edison Skeptical Of Spirit Contact

By DOROTHY ROE

(Copyright, 1933, Distributed by Universal Service, Inc.)

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 18.—Two years ago last night Thomas A. Edison lay on his death-bed. The servants had filed in, to bid their master a last silent farewell. His wife sat alone by the bedside, and thought of the great man's last promise:

"If there is a way for me to come back and talk with you, I will come."

Last night Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, sweet-faced, white-haired, still in deep mourning, spoke sadly of her husband's last dream—the possibility of communication between the living and the dead.

In the two years since the wizard of Menlo Park passed on, his widow has been beseiged by hundreds of spiritualists, claiming to have messages from the spirit of Edison. But Mrs. Edison shook her head sadly as she said:

"I can't seem to believe in any of them. Their letters come by the hundreds. They still come, in almost as great numbers as they did immediately after his death.

"If he could find a way to communicate with me, he would do it directly.

"And though he worked for many months on an instrument he hoped to make delicate enough to receive spirit communications, he did not complete it.

"I think death and the afterlife form one mystery too great for human minds to solve."

She smiled, and said:

"Perhaps some of his genius lives on in the minds of his sons—Charles, who runs the plants; Theodore, who shows some of his father's inventive power.

"I think in living up to the heritage their father left them, his sons may be able to carry on his work, and to find some kinship with his spirit."

PUBLISHER SAYS NRA PERILS FREE PRESS

Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Destruction of a free press is bound up in the form of newspaper code on which NRA executives are insisting, E. R. Harris declared yesterday before the Inland Daily Press Association.

Americans dismiss the destruction of a free press and free speech by the Hitler government with the remark, "but that's in Germany," he said, as if no such situation could develop in this country.

But, he asserted, the United States will be headed in exactly the same direction if publishers do not fight to the last against the censorship invited under the form of newspaper code demanded by Washington.

Harris, who is secretary of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, said:

"The newspapers of the United States now are being asked to sign an agreement with the government under the NRA which will abridge the right of a free press in this country.

"Organized labor is in command of the NRA and is attempting to organize every part of a newspaper plant, including even the news department.

"The application of a censorship of the press by organized labor is possible if the newspapers submit to the demands of unions as expressed in the NRA."

The committee of 24 newspaper representatives and officials of the NRA are deadlocked on Sections 11 and 14 of the code, with the NRA demanding their elimination, Harris said. He explained:

"Section 11 deals with the freedom of the press.

"Section 14 is the only protection which the newspapers have against an application of censorship applied through union labor officials."

Had newspaper publishers signed the voluntary agreement without reservations, he declared, "they would have speeded this country on its way to complete censorship and subjugation."

DANGER OF AGREEMENT

Concerning his fear of union "censorship," Harris said:

"If a general unionization of newspaper plants should be brought about, there is no question that union leaders would have in their hands the power of indirectly censoring the press.

"Under such an agreement, if a newspaper attempted to publish a news story or an editorial criticizing the union's policy, the union could refuse to allow the story to be printed."

Harris said that Donald Richberg, attorney for the NRA, had demanded specifically that Section 14 be removed from the newspaper code. He commented:

"You will recall that Donald Richberg has been an attorney representing organized labor for many years."

RADIO UNDER CENSORSHIP

The speaker asserted that the governmental attempt to control and censor the press had been extended to the other principal medium of communication—the radio—and for propaganda purposes. He continued:

"In the United States broadcasting is under indirect governmental censorship brought about through the fear of the government's power to revoke the license of any station which would permit a speaker before the microphone to criticize a governmental policy.

"A few days ago an official of one of the large chains made the statement that they are giving the officials at Washington everything they ask for, because if they do not do so, they may lose their license to broadcast.

"Thus the only wholesale means of reaching large numbers of people through the human voice are now under the censorship and domination of the Washington government."

KAMONS HELD ON NEW CHARGE

CLEVELAND, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Louis J. Kamons, of Pittsburgh, whose trial on a murder charge in connection with the Ellington Apartment fire was declared a mistrial, has been re-indicted by the grand jury on a similar charge.

With him were indicted Sam Neamons, Paul Childs and Jack Hirsch, also of Pittsburgh. The original indictments charged them with murder in the death of Clara Withers, one of the 12 victims of the blaze. The new indictments charge them with the death of another victim, William Withers.

Kamons' trial was halted by the declaration of a juror that he had talked with Childs during a visit to the jail. The prosecution said the men's lives could not be placed in jeopardy more than once in the same offense, and asked the new indictments in a separate case.

MRS. EILEEN BALTZER

COURT UPHOLDS CHILD'S MOTHER

Efforts made to have pretty Eileen Baltzer, 121 Morewood avenue, declared in contempt of court because of an action brought by her husband, Charles W. Baltzer, Spring Garden avenue, who complained his wife refused to let him see his child, failed.

Judge W. Heber Dithrich found on questioning Mrs. Baltzer, whose marital troubles have been aired a number of times, that little Carl, 4, was under quarantine for 10 days, suspected of having chickenpox.

On another occasion she had gone away for two days and on a third the husband was refused permission because he had failed to carry out the court's orders to pay $3.50 a week for the child's support.

The Baltzers separated last May and Judge Thomas M. Marshall made an attempt to have them reconcile their differences, when he awarded custody of the child to the mother, but could not. The father was at that time given permission to see the boy alone for two hours each Sunday.

The father, it was agreed, will be privileged to continue to do so, provided he makes proper arrangements with the mother.

THIRD INVOLVED IN BUS SLAYING

UPPER SANDUSKY, O., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—A report that a third person may have been in the medicine show bus operated by R. V. Brown, former Powhatan Point (O.) marshal and Mrs. Eva Timmer, shortly before Brown was slain near here early Saturday was investigated by police today.

Mrs. Timmer, a 42-year-old widow of Ferndale, Mich., against whom a first degree murder charge was filed yesterday in connection with Brown's death, denied the presence of a third person.

The charge was filed after Coroner O. C. Stutz said his examination showed Brown was killed in Wyandot County. Authorities quoted Mrs. Timmer as saying she shot Brown in self-defense near Lowell, O., but Stutz declared the victim had been dead only about five hours before the body was found.

Officials said they had received reports that a man, other than Brown, was seen in the bus when it passed through Marion last Friday.

12 Die in Battle On India's Frontier

GUETTA, Baluchistan, India, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—As a result of renewed fighting on the Northwest Frontier, 12 of the combatants were dead today and several wounded.

A band of Kharotas and Sulemankhels attacked the militia post at Nimparao, near Gulkach.

TROOPS CALLED IN MEXICO

International News Service.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 18.—Many rumors of impending political trouble circulated in Mexico City today despite official denials as precautions were taken to guard public buildings.

Three battalions of infantry occupied the patio of the national palace and machine guns were posted on the roof and also atop police headquarters.

All over the republic, the war department held troops in barracks. Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles in Tehuacan was keeping close tab on the situation.

A plot to break up Gen. Calles' political domination was reported.

Government Forces Triumph in Siam

BANGKOK, Siam, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Reports both from the north and south centers of the insurrection which broke out last week, indicated today that the government forces have triumphed over the rebels.

In the north, the rebels who attacked Bangkok have fled, while in the south the revolt at Petchaburi has been suppressed.

CUBA DENIES PRISON ROW

HAVANA, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Recurrent reports of trouble in the Isle of Pines prisons, where most of the officers captured in the National Hotel battle are imprisoned, were denied by the government today.

Maj. Raimundo Ferrer, military aide to President Ramon Grau San Martin, declared "everything is going fine at the Isle of Pines and contrary reports are just plain rumors."

The most persistent rumor was that some of the soldiers guarding the imprisoned officers had refused to obey orders of the newly-appointed leaders, declaring the imprisoned men were their rightful commanders.

Meanwhile, authorities continued their search for those guilty in a bomb explosion which shattered the window in an American-owned 10-cent store during a strike of store employes.

Putnam Son Wins Actress in 3 Days

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—After a three-day courtship, Nicholas Putnam, 23, New York, son of the late Maj. Israel Putnam, yesterday filed notice of intention to wed Miss Jessie Wakeling, youthful film actress.

Conductor Greets Amelia Putnam As 'First Lady'

LAWRENCE, Kas., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, aviatrix, has been congratulated for being the first woman to swim the English channel and has been mistaken for the first lady of the land.

Telling about the latter incident here, she said a train conductor asked her if her picture had not appeared in newspapers recently. Told it had, the conductor replied:

"Oh, I recognize you now, you're Mrs. Roosevelt."

Machado and Family Will Go to Florida

MONTREAL, Oct. 18.—(INS.)—Cerardo Machado, former Cuban president who has been in seclusion here, soon will take his entire family to Miami, Fla., and spend the winter months there, it was reported today. He visited his family in Philadelphia over the week-end.

Yesterday Machado was advised by the Canadian government that his three months' permission to stay in Canada could not be extended.

MACHEN HEADS NEW BOARD

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Naming the Rev. J. Gresham Machen, fundamentalist leader, as its president, the Independent Board for Presbyterian Foreign Missions is mapping a campaign to "promote truly Biblical and truly Presbyterian missions in clear opposition to modernism."

Recently formed to protest what leaders termed modernistic tendencies of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, the independent group organized yesterday and invited the Rev. Charles J. Woodbridge, a missionary in Africa, to act as general secretary.

In a statement explaining its aims, the board said it hoped to "set free for the carrying of the gospel to the ends of the earth" great resources of missionary zeal which are being left unused.

Mail Truck Hauling Currency Held Up

WILSON, N. C., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—A robber held up Hugh Hawley, contract mail truck driver, here early today, forced him to drive to a wood near the city, where he was tied up, and escaped with three registered mail pouches believed to contain currency shipments for local and Greenville banks.

Bullet in Heart 3 Years, Youth Healthy

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Periodically for nearly three years, Dr. Charles M. Steman has examined a patient who has a bullet in his heart. He said today the patient, Virgil Bennett, 21, is in good health.

On November 27, 1930, at the family home, near Halls Summit, Kan., where Bennett still lives, a rifle was accidentally discharged as Darrell Bennett, a brother, was taking it down from a wall. The bullet struck Virgil behind the left ear, pierced the mastoid cells there and was deflected downward through the esophagus, lodging in the pericardium, or fibrous heart covering.

Surgeons agreed an operation was unnecessary as long as the bullet gave no signs of moving.

Dr. Stemen said Bennett worked all last summer on a farm.

Opera Tenor to Wed Daughter of Patron

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—A marriage license was issued yesterday to Richard Bunns, 44, Metropolitan opera tenor known on the stage as Richard Bonnelli, and Mona Chapman Wood, 30, daughter of Mrs. Modina Wood, patron of the opera in Los Angeles.

GROUP BACKS 'METRO' PLAN

The Civic Club of Allegheny County today announced its formal indorsement of Constitutional amendment No. 11, sponsored by the Metropolitan Plan Commission and making possible a vote on a metropolitan charter for greater Pittsburgh.

Belief that forcible annexation of outlying communities to the city would inevitably follow the rejection of the plan, was expressed in the club's announcement.

In a statement issued in conjunction with the indorsement, Joseph T. Miller, chairman of the Metropolitan Plan Commission, said failure of the amendment would kill all hope of improvement along the plan's lines for a generation.

He pointed out that the amendment, to be voted on November 7, was merely an enabling act, not committing the county to anything but a future decision on the charter.

He advocated the passage of the amendment as opening the way to more efficient, less expensive government, and guaranteeing home rule.

We Have Your COAT at 59.95

Our customers are all different types of people. Different sizes. Different preferences for fabrics, colors and furs. Knowing this we've planned to please all of you. You won't find every coat trimmed in the same way with the same kind of fur. So do hurry in to see what we have just for you.

For Misses

We go in for the more exaggerated details. Shoulders carrying a bit of excitement in furs. Note the sleeves and shoulders of the two Misses' coats sketched? For youthful, slender figures.

For Women

Who wear average sizes 34 to 46. More mature figures—yet well-proportioned. The same interesting details—a bit modified for dignity.

For Short, Stout Women

These coats require experience in designing. If you're a little heavy for your height, you'll belong to this group. Flatter furs are used, collars are designed to give you height without width.

For Tall, Stout Women

Here proportions play a major part. The upper part of the sleeves are roomy, the hipline is easy and all the lines of the coat are longer to fit perfectly.

AMERICAN RUM TASTE POOR, DOCTOR SAYS

CLEVELAND, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—The taste of the average American tongue discriminates very little between "good" and "bad" liquor, Dr. Cyrus C. Sturgis, professor of internal medicine at the University of Michigan, said in effect.

Here for the Interstate Postgraduate Medical Association of North America, Dr. Sturgis bluntly observed yesterday on the question of the American taste in alcoholic concoctions:

"I hold no brief for prohibition one way or another, but people have not been scientific when they talked about the pros and cons of prohibition.

"Even in pre-prohibition days the people drank some pretty bad liquor, and we may expect a lot more bad liquor when it becomes legalized again."

Among the distinguished speakers at yesterday's sessions of the association were Dr. R. M. Allan, professor of obstetrics, University of Melbourne, Australia, and Prof. H. Beckwith Whitehouse, head of the department of gynecology and obstetrics at the University of Birmingham, England.

Widespread improvement in obstetrics, Dr. P. Brooke Bland, professor of obstetrics at Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, said, is going to reduce in number the women who become prey to cancer at the age of 35.

Anemia Death Rate Reduced 90 Per Cent

CLEVELAND, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Seven years ago pernicious anemia was "absolutely fatal," but now, says Dr. Cyrus C. Sturgis, of the University of Michigan, it has a death rate of only 10 per cent.

Feeding of liver and stomach preparations have brought about the change, he told the Interstate Postgraduate Medical Association of North America.

Prior to 1926 pernicious anemia, commonly termed a deficiency in the quantity of blood or its constituents, was "absolutely fatal," with patients living an average of only two or three years," he declared.

The use of liver and liver extracts became a part of the treatment developed since that time to combat the high death rate. The illness involves not only the blood, Dr. Sturgis said, but also the nervous system, and is intimately associated with the lack of certain secretions of the stomach.

Milkman, No Juror!

WILLIAM F. BERT . . . "JURY DUTY WOULD STIFFEN ME!"

Mr. Bert, 502 Sickles street, Brushton, excused from jury duty by a smiling Judge Dithrich when he explained that he had been a milkman for 40 years, but that he was afraid a day of jury duty would "stiffen me up" so that he couldn't work. He explained, though, that the company could get along without him.

Premature Liquor Ads Stir U. S. to Action

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Legality of advertising liquor prices "when, as, and if" repeal comes, will be taken up with Attorney General Cummings by Frank M. Parrish, of the legal staff of the Department of Justice, it is learned.

Two courses may be pursued, in the event it is decided the ads are contraband. A "stop order" may be issued, and if obeyed, the matter forgotten. Or there may be criminal prosecutions.

Commissioner of Industrial Alcohol Doran was reported to be incensed over appearance of the advertisements in all parts of the country, stating the probable prices of wines and harder liquors after repeal.

A large chain drug store was warned by the Internal Revenue Bureau that unless the advertisements were discontinued immediately, its medicinal liquor permits would be revoked.

Two or three days of conferences are likely before a definite policy is determined. After the Attorney General has threshed the matter out with Attorney Parrish, he will confer with Commissioner Doran, and finally with the Post-office Department.

ROCKEFELLER'S STUDY OPPOSES RUM LICENSES

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Recommending the absolute abandonment of the license system of controlling the sale of alcoholic beverages after repeal, the commission appointed by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to study liquor control, in the portion of its plan made public today says:

"Our investigations have convinced us that the weaknesses cannot easily be eradicated from the operation of the license system in America, and we recommend the frank abandonment of further legislative tinkering with licenses, and the acceptance of an altogether different method of control.

"It is not entirely unconceivable that a chastened liquor trade, operating under a sound licensing system, may come to see that restraint and honest cooperation with licensed control is the policy dictated by a truly enlightened self-interest.

"However, over against this promising new factor must be set the irresponsible codes of lawlessness of the bootleggers, many of whom will now be licensed."

The report says that even a licensing plan including all desirable features must still retain four vital weaknesses: the private profit motive; politics; incompatibility with temperance education, and the eventual entrenchment of "a far-flung proprietary interest."

33 States Show Repeal Favored By Vote of 3 to 1

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—The 33 states which have voted for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment have averaged a 3-to-1 margin.

These states contain more than two-thirds of the nation's population. The vote represented one for each 5.6 persons in those states.

The total population of those states is 85,630,000, estimated as of July 1 this year by the Census Bureau. The nation's estimated total population is 125,693,000.

A total popular vote of 15,034,570 has been cast thus far in passing upon the repeal amendment. That does not include Wyoming and Nevada which selected their convention delegates by precinct mass meetings or county conventions, and not by popular vote.

The population of those two states is 324,000. The total vote for president in the 33 states last year was 28,765,394, or one vote for every 3.2 persons.

Of the total popular vote on repeal, 11,304,970 were for the ratification of the amendment. That was 75.2 per cent of the total vote.

Votes cast against repeal totaled 3,729,600, or 24.8 per cent of the total vote.

The majority for repeal to date is 7,575,370.

New York's majority was the largest, 1,699,082; Tennessee's the smallest, 7,113.

REPEAL MOVE HURTS NRA, SAYS DRY

Advocacy of beer and phohibition repeal was the "stupendous blunder of the administration, and will interfere with the success of NRA," in the opinion of Edward E. Blake, of Chicago, chairman of the National Prohibition Committee. Blake was co-speaker with G. D. Harger, prohibtion candidate for Mayor, last night at a dry rally in the North Avenue Methodist Church.

Attacking repeal as an economic blunder as well as a moral failure, Blake disclosed plans here to build up a powerful Prohibition party to wage war on both the Democratic and Republican parties and "bring prohibition back to stay." In an exclusive interview with the Sun-Telegraph, the national dry leader said:

"We are going to get the drys together under one banner and get them to leave the old parties. If the Prohibition party had been in office there would have been no doubt of the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"Both party machines have been working on the wet side. We drys have been getting just as much prohibition as the wets felt like giving. We are now convinced that we cannot obtain any effective legislation through the old parties."

SEES NEW DRY ERA

Although refusing to admit that repeal is a certainty, Blake was quick to say that in the event that liquor comes back, re-establishment of prohibition will not be slow in following it. He is convinced that this re-establishment will be much easier than the original battle for prohibition, pointing out that:

"The present new voting generation will see for itself what the liquor traffic can do. Today one-third of the voters don't know what the conditions were before repeal."

WON'T AID CONTROL

There will be no compromise by the drys with "liquor control" factions, Blake said, asserting:

"The Prohibitionists are not going to have anything to do about liquor control bills. The only control is complete prohibition and a Prohibition party to enforce it. The wets have brought this new condition about; let them control it, if they can."

As for the assertion by anti-drys that speakeasies will be closed when repeal is accomplished, Blake believes that:

"If they haven't closed them out under the prohibition law, they'll never do it under any other law."

He sees the crux of the liquor question to be whether the attitude of the government is to be one of sanction, explaining:

"The Prohibition party doesn't attempt to abolish drinking but is concerned with the manufacture and sale of liquor. That is a government matter."

Returning to his challenge of NRA'S effectiveness under repeal, Blake concluded:

"Beer and liquor sales will make it more difficult for the return of recovery. For every dollar spent in the booze business another dollar is taken out of legitimate business in which the same dollar would employ more men."

HEARST VIEWS ON RUM LAUDED

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Edward P. Mulrooney, chairman of the New York State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, was enthusiastic today in his praise of William Randolph Hearst's views on liquor control. Mr. Mulrooney said:

"Mr. Hearst is absolutely right. He has struck the nail squarely on the head. First, he says that practically every state will agree on the necessity of abolishing the saloon, or rather preventing the return of the saloon. Then he sets forth that speakeasies must be abolished.

"I agree with him absolutely that speakeasies must be abolished. If there is any drinking it should be done in public. Mr. Hearst's statement that respectable institutions like established and recognized hotels and restaurants should be allowed to fill the ordinary drinking requirement of the public, in an open and regular and reputable manner, rings true."

TIP SPURS HUNT FOR BAG SLAYER

International News Service.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 18.—A mysterious "tip" from an unidentified woman today put police back on the twisted trail of Thomas M. Jones, 41, gigolo ex-convict from Ashland, O., charged with the mutilation murder of his friend, Mrs. Laura Ellen Straw, 75-year-old wealthy and eccentric widow.

Beaten and hacked and with her legs cut off, the body of Mrs. Straw was found floating in a duffle bag in San Diego Bay a few hours after Jones last was seen in her waterfront cottage where he had been a roomer.

Jones, police said, either was in hiding at the home of friends here, had fled across the border into Mexico, or possibly was returning to his former home in Ohio.

With him, the officers believe, was a red-headed woman identified as his wife, Vera Edith McQuate.

$5,000 TOP FEE IN MEDIC CODE

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—A maximum fee of $5,000 for a surgical operation is fixed in a fee table and code of practice indorsed by the St. Louis Medical Society. No minimum fee is fixed for major operations.

The table indorsed by the society last Friday was made public yesterday.

A committee to be known as the Code and Contract Board may suspend any member of the society, after trial, who persists "in unethical practices."

One provision provides "no member of this society shall make any contract, expressed or implied, to attend an individual family, club, lodge or other organization by the year, or any terms other than those authorized by these regulations."

Fees to be charged when the patient visits the doctor range from $2 to $5, and when the doctor visits the patient, $3 to $5.

Conversion Charged To Heiress' Mother

COVINGTON, Ky., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—An indictment charging conversion today faced Mrs. Madeline Corby Morgan Webber, of Cleveland, who has figured for months in court actions involving her daughter, heiress to a fortune left by Thomas F. Corby, Detroit capitalist.

The indictment, returned yesterday by the Kenton County grand jury, was based upon the removal of more than $300,000 in securities from the state without a court order.

GAS KILLS FOUR AFTER PARTY

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Two men and two women were found dead here in a flat yesterday, victims of illuminating gas asphyxiation.

The victims were:

Claude A. Hicks, former physical director of the Illinois Soldiers' and and Sailors' Children's School at Normal, Ill.; James McCabe, railroad employe; Marie Baxter, and Madelaine (Babe) Vanordstrand.

The bodies were found by a gasoline filling station attendant who smelled gas in the street below the flat and investigated.

Coroner Lloyd Shoemaker said that evidence indicated that a drinking party had preceded the deaths.

CALL ASSEMBLY PARLEY

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 18.—Political and legislative leaders will confer with Gov. Gifford Pinchot within the next 10 days on issues the Governor will include in his proclamation summoning the General Assembly into extraordinary session, it was reported on Capitol Hill today.

The Governor has suggested the conference prior to the session which must consider numerous important subjects, including liquor control and taxation, educational finances and possibly relief and highway construction.

Democratic leaders are expected to draft a liquor control plan at a conference here Saturday.

DEMAND PAVING OF BROOKLINE BOULEVARD

Improvement of the Brookline boulevard from West Liberty avenue to Edgebrook, a 4,000-foot stretch, was demanded in resolutions adopted by residents at a meeting in the Brookline school auditorium last night.

Paving of the Pittsburgh Railways Company's private right-of-way on the boulevard between those points is asked in the resolutions, copies of which are to be sent to Council, Mayor John S. Herron and the trustee holding the mortgage on the right-of-way.

A community holiday, including a parade to the City-County Building to present the demands, was proposed by resolution.

The cost of the paving project was estimated at $169,000 by Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, in a letter which was read at the meeting.

Speakers at the rally, held under the auspices of Brookline civic organizations, were Councilmen George S. Oliver and Frank Duggan; Patrick T. Fagan, president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers of America; State Representative John J. Kane, and Attorney William J. Blakeley. Conrad Yeager presided.

CARNEGIE GETS NEW BRIDGE

A contract for erection of a new bridge to span Chartiers Creek at Main street, Carnegie, has been awarded to the John E. Kunz Company, which bid $77,775.25, the lowest of seven bidders. Work is to start immediately. During construction, the present span is to be moved a few yards upstream to handle traffic.

The County Commissioners also awarded a contract to M. G. Moshithes, to clean and paint the steel work of the Sixteenth Street Bridge. Mashithes' bid of $5,723 was the lowest of nine.

The problem of cleaning and painting the Courthouse and jail, discussed for more than a year, was revived yesterday and the Commissioners decided to take separate bids on the two buildings. Previous bids for the work on both buildings were in exess of $25,000.

Junior Patrol Mail Box

Get new members in your patrols, captains!

Parties are more fun when there are lots of girls and fellows at them, and a football team should have 11 boys on it anyway. And if you have members in your clubs you can have more committees, and get more work done. In lots of ways, you can help others more.

Here's a swell letter today from Edith Brown, who lives in Economy Township, near Baden. She sends in pledges for her two brothers, Bobby and George Brown.

"I live in the country and go to the country school. You know how they are. I would like to join your patrol, and thought I could have one of my own with my two brothers. We live on the highway and I always watch the road. I study hard, because I want to be the best always. We have chickens and I always help to feed them. I'll get my brothers to live up to the pledge."

And why can't you have an even bigger patrol, Edith, with at least 10 members so that we can send the captain an armband? It must be a lot of fun to live in the country and have chickens. Once we had chickens and they were so tame they would follow us around like dogs and walk in the house and perch on the tables. We're glad you study hard, and we hope that you find time to read other books outside of school, too.

Clarence Miller, of 720 Copeland street, sends in five pledges. Now he needs five more and his patrol will be big enough to elect an official captain. Let's hear from you again soon, Clarence.

Now we have a letter from Betty Haber, of 1518 Fallowfield avenue, Pittsburgh. She writes:

"I am the captain of the Blue Eagle Junior Patrol. Sarah Binder is first lieutenant and Joanne Russell is second lieutenant. I have 10 members and we have our meetings every Tuesday. The dues are one cent. We are going to have a Halloween party. Please send me my armband immediately. Lois Gano is program chairman."

Don't forget, Betty, that we can't send you an armband until we receive the 10 pledges for your 10 members, and they have elected you captain. We have looked up our records and you haven't sent pledges for your members yet. Or, if your members are already enrolled in the Junior Patrol, you didn't send us a list of their names and badge numbers. When you send them in, Betty, you'll get your armband right away.

H. L. Mencken Drinks a Program

Henry L. Mencken, harsh critic of modern life and manners, realizes a life-long ambition tonight during his first radio broadcast over an NBC-WJZ network at 6 o'clock. He is going to conduct a brass band! But that's not all.

In an interview with William Lundell, Mencken will quaff several schooners of beer before the microphone, to prove his contention that the amber fluid is less harmful to society than hard licker.

When properly lubricated, the world's severest critic makes an old dream come true by leading a 25-piece band in an attempt to show by music what drinking of strong spirits does to the nerves.

Then, by another type of orchestration in which the slide trombone will figure prominently, the brau connoisseur illustrate the efficiency of 3.2 in soothing the savage breast.

John Royal, NBC program head, and Frank Black, musical director, provide the daring conductor with the band for the noble experiment.

No Foolin'

Have no doubts about the genuineness of the beer. NBC has conducted extensive experiments in the interests of authentic clinks, and has found that steins filled with water, ginger ale or even near beer produce a "clunk" sound that wouldn't fool a real beer quaffer.

Therefore nothing but high-test 3.2 must accompany the "Prosits!" of the interviewer and the interviewee.

The technical reason for this has to do with certain radio frequencies, a subject rather confusing to the dialer.

For that matter the whole program may be, if the frequency of clinks runs too high.

* * *

Spalding

Believing the best popular music worthy of a musician's greatest skill, Albert Spalding, America's foremost violinst, features numbers familiar to every radio listener during tonight's concert with Don Voorhees' orchestra.

"Traumerei," "Deep River," "Gypsy Airs" and "Apple Blossoms" are among his selections for this evening.

* * *

Listeners on Chestnut street, Sewickley, will be exactly halfway between Burns-and-Allen and Guy Lombardo's orchestra during their joint broadcast from New York and Chicago tonight at 9:30, over WJAS.

* * *

Melody Gems

It's KDKA's turn tonight for the "Gems of Melody" program, featuring John Herrick, Back Bay baritone from Boston, and Harold Sanford's orchestra. 7:15 is the time.

The program alternates between the NBC Red and Blue networks Sundays and Wednesdays.

* * *

Bert Lahr turns up on WCAE tonight at 8 in the guise of butler, hired for a fashionable musicale at which a great Russian pianist is to perform, and finds himself in worse complications than ever.

George Olsen's orchestra, Mildred Twain and Ward Wilson are among the guests.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I don't want to strike a blue note, but somehow I can't avoid it today.

No matter how much we talk of better times, there are some of us who have not benefited as yet by the President's recovery measures. And we can't forget those unfortunate people.

Today, and I know you will hardly believe it, I received a letter from a man who lives on the North Side, who is willing to submit himself for any medical experiment, though sickness and death might result, providing that he receives $500 at once.

Another letter from a lad who just finished his schooling and is now unable to find work of any kind. He wants to join the Civilian Conservation Corps.

From Murraysville, Peter Campbell tells that for a while, men were working on the roads for which they received welfare, and even this work has been discontinued now.

All this is not meant to discourage any one, but to point out that a job yet has to be done and we can't let up now.

One of our carrier boys from Crafton, Anthony Queiser, encloses the bloom of a hollyhock from his rock garden.

Speaking of strange things, E. L. Blystone, the rice writer, exhibiting at Ripley's Odditorium at the fair, mails a card picturing himself riding to fame on a 'rice' horse.

If by any chance the globe trotter slips into "eye-ther" or "neye-ther" this coming week, and begins to drop his R's, you'll know that he is thinking about that diction contest sponsored by the Microphone Playhouse.

But I'll probably spoil it all by saying something like, "Golly, listen to this, will ya?"

Junior Patrol Trio on WCAE Today

Wednesday is Junior Patrol day on the radio!

And there's a new treat in store for the Patrol fans this afternoon—a new violin, piano, cello trio, composed of junior musicians.

Here's the whole program:

Junior, Spike and Snuggins.
Junior Patrol Trio—"Gypsy Rondo." Trio is composed of: Walter Juba, violin; Charles Esser, cello; Peter Jirask, piano.
Vocal duet—Old Black Joe.
Soprano, Elma Petri; alto, Marie Waugh.
Piano solo—Gentle Breezes.
Lucy Borelli.
Piano solo—With Might and Main.
Billy Arnold.
Vocal duet—Adeline Massa and Rose Marie Caruso.
Piano solo—The Song of the Swallow.
Olive Stump.
Junior Patrol Trio—Ave Maria Stella.

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

Congressman Henry Ellenbogen is scheduled to deliver an important address at 8. His subject is "Immediate Action Is Necessary to Save Home Owners."

Paul Gannon asks the musical question: "Alice, Where Art Thou?" as the feature of his 6:45 program.

Two good features — Don Kennedy's basso songs at 10:45 and Eddie Peyton's band at 11:30.

Radio Tunes Becoming Tiresome

By AIRCASTER

It seems fantastic, mainly because it is difficult to envision an anonymous sponsor, but there are moments when one is almost ready to agree with Paul Sabin, the maestro, who scents a devilish plot.

In a somewhat facetious note, Mr. Sabin wonders whether there is a radio plot to jack up the statistics of matrimony by the power of song suggestion.

The longer you listen, the more willing you are to accept the notion.

It is barely possible that the hidden plotters make up a secret society of marriage-fee collectors!

Certainly, there is no doubt that the defenseless listener is being surfeited, if not hypnotized, by a bewildering repetition of ditties about love, necking and honeymoons.

* * *

Turning Sour

I counted 12 renditions in a single night of such affecting poems as "Love Is the Sweetest Thing" and "Honeymoon Hotel."

And whether by prearrangement or not, the canny broadcasters managed to accomplish thumb-to-nose gestures and grimaces at the economic bars to marriage by sandwiching in, "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf?"

Admittedly, the preponderance of tin pan alley products concern themselves with the tender passion and its inevitable climax—marriage.

If, at the moment the broadcasters are overburdened by a musical run on love, it's unfortunate. But that's no excuse for passing the burden on to the listener.

The gents who arrange programs should be humane enough to remember that a great bulk of the audience is already married and that the subject, to them, does not always come under the head of entertainment.

Plot or no plot, I wonder if it would be rude to ask the radio fellows what has become of the officials who used to get paid for avoiding song repetitions?

* * *

Job for S. P. C. A.

"The Last Roundup" is a splendid example of how a song can be tortured to death by constant repetition. And it is something of a mystery ballad besides. Its naivette seems to have fascinated thousands.

It has, naturally, its melodic virtues, but the lyrics, as in most modern songs, raise a nice question. Basically they concern a cowboy who is dying and who's anxious to get over the great divide to join the bronc-riding shades of the West's pioneers, singing all the while.

I've never seen a cowboy pass out, but this one seems to be a prodigy. He knows in advance that he's fading out. He gives voice to a dirge. Yet, in his dying condition, puts the bridle on his hoss, is able to ride, and actually becomes playful by coaxing along the little dogie.

Quite an intrepid fellow!

BUT IS IT ALL FAIR TO THE HOSS AND THE DOGIE?

On the Air Tonight

Music lovers—there's a rare treat in store for you tonight! Albert Spalding is going to play his magic violin.

This greatest of American violinists will give you the music everybody loves—played only as he can play it! Spirituals, airs from popular operettas, old "family album" tunes that you used to gather round the piano to sing!

Don Voorhees and his splendid orchestra will support Mr. Spalding. Also Conrad Thibault—the popular baritone—and a mixed chorus of eight vocalists.

Don't miss this program—sponsored by makers of Fletcher's Castoria. It is broadcast every Wednesday.

Ideals Race's Protection For All Women

Deeply in love; eager to marry; but they've waited so long—

And still there's no job in sight. So what?

"So, let's belong to each other; truly belong, even if we can't be husband and wife!" begs the man. "Prove your love by giving yourself to me. Let me have the comfort of knowing that you are mine, even if life denies us our chance."

But something in the girl's heart—all the purity of the fine women who have gone before her — cries out against such recklessness.

"I do love you; I do!" she pleads. "But—I can't do that! It's wrong. Nothing could ever make it right."

But he won't—can't see it that way. And she won't—she can't see it his way. So once more there comes this most common, most cruel problem of our miserably muddled days.

DESPERATE VICTIMS

Once it couldn't have been possible to print the following letter. It is pitiful and shocking that it should be necessary to print it now—yet it is necessary to print it, because the world must know and the world must help these millions of young, desperate victims of its selfish blundering.

And so, as you read Lillian's letter, I'm asking you not to judge or condemn, but to open your heart generously and, if you are older, bow your head humbly, taking your own share of the blame.

Dear Elsie Robinson—

Will you please help me? I am miserable. For about a year I have been going with a boy. He is 24 and I am 19. About two months ago he asked me to marry him, and I said "yes." But we won't be able to get married for a pretty long time, I am afraid. He is working, but for not much money, and he hasn't had any chance to save anything. With things the way they are, there is no telling when, if ever, he will get a raise or a better position.

But here is the big problem.

Not long ago we got to talking about the future, and how hopeless it looked, and finally he said that he wanted me to give myself to him. He said that it would be all right because some day, when things got better, we would be married. And he couldn't see any reason to wait, because we do love each other.

DIDN'T AGREE

I was upset and didn't agree with his idea at all. I told him that I did love him, and was willing to wait for him, but that I couldn't do what he asked, and I didn't think he should ask it. And then I got another shock.

He says that if I won't, it will prove that I don't really love him or trust him, and that if I don't love and trust him he can't see any reason for going on.

He seemed to be very angry and hurt, and told me that he just couldn't understand my attitude. He almost cried, and said that, whatever came, he would always be true to me if I would prove my love for him, but if I wouldn't he would walk out.

I don't know what to do. I love him deeply, but I don't honestly have the faith in him that I had before this argument came up. Someway he doesn't seem to me as fine as he did, and I want him to be fine. I want our love for each other to be fine. It seems to me that it won't be if I do as he wants me to. Am I wrong? Should I prove to him that I really do love him by trusting him as he wants me to? LILLIAN.

There's only one answer to you, child—you're right.

No matter how wrong or muddled this present world may be —no matter how cruel or unfair the dilemma in which you're caught — you're right. Stick by your refusal! Stand up for your ideals! And if the man is really worth your love, he'll come to see that you are right, and he will love and respect you all the more for your refusal.

For those ideals mean more than one woman's love and happiness, Lillian. They have cost more than one woman's sacrifice and tears. Those ideals are the race's protection for all women and children, all homes. And they have been bought by the bitter heartache and the noble battling of countless generations of women and men.

KEEPING THE FAITH

So you're doing more than make a decision for yourself, my dear, when you refuse to do this thing. You're keeping the faith for millions of weaker, helpless souls. You're lifting the torch which brave, dead hands, have dropped!

Why should you say "no"? That's why. And if the man is worth your love, Lillian, he'll come to see that reason, and respect and love you the more for your clean courage.

And if he doesn't, and won't? Then I am afraid that you had better let him go. For if he can't stand by you in this first test, he'd prove a mighty weak mate in the long battle that lies ahead.

However, don't judge him too harshly. If he is too reckless, perhaps you have been too cautious. Are you, maybe, demanding too much in marriage? Couldn't you marry now, even though it meant the leanest of pickings and hard sacrifice?

The husbands and wives who built this country often started without a penny.

That's my answer to Lillian. But what's your and my answer to the grown-up world—to our grown-up selves—who, by our blundering, have forced the younger generation into such a cruel corner?

If, in their hopelessness and hunger, they are tempted to wreck the old standards and defy the law, whose fault is it? And what should we do about it?

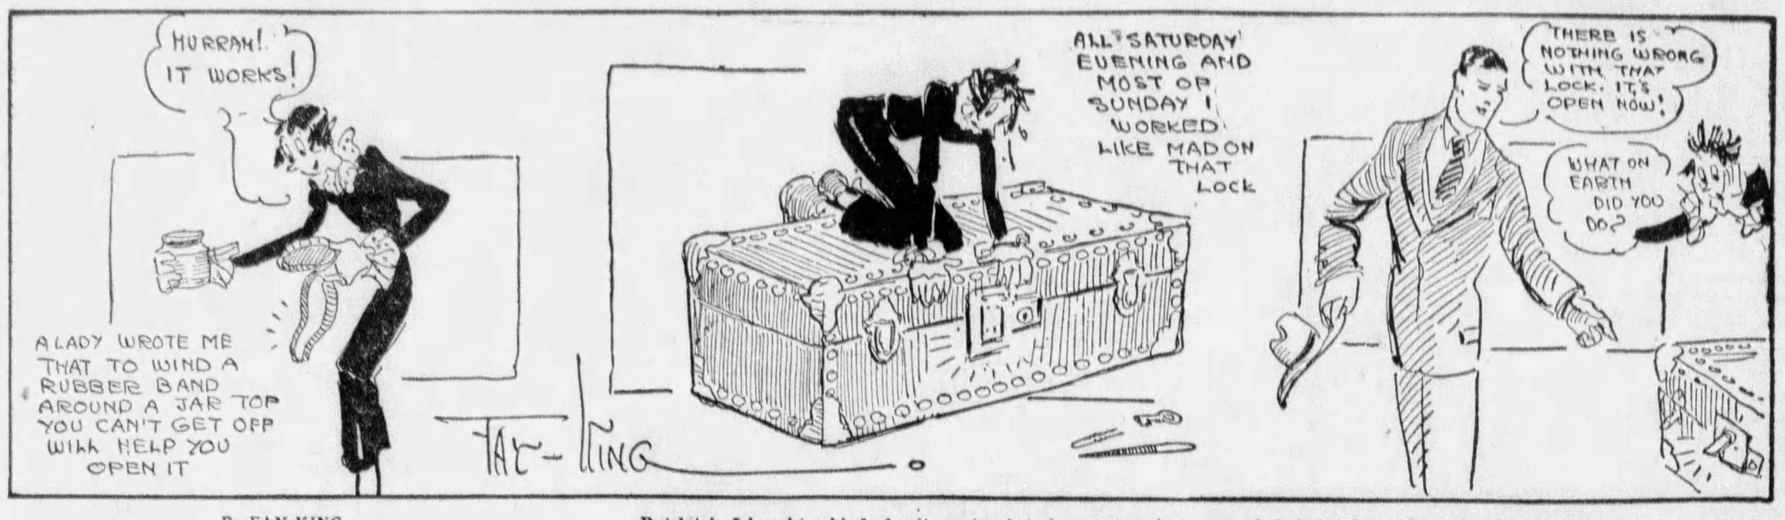
Fay King Learns the Simple Secret of Opening a Trunk



HURRAH! IT WORKS!
A LADY WROTE ME THAT TO WIND A RUBBER BAND AROUND A JAR TOP YOU CAN'T GET OFF WILL HELP YOU OPEN IT
FAY-KING
ALL SATURDAY EVENING AND MOST OF SUNDAY I WORKED LIKE MAD ON THAT LOCK
THERE IS NOTHING WRONG WITH THAT LOCK. IT'S OPEN NOW!
WHAT ON EARTH DID YOO DO?

By FAY KING.

When a kind reader wrote me that a rubber band wound around a jar top would help open it I tried that. It worked. I thought my troubles for opening anything were over forever.

But lately I bought a kind of suitcase trunk to keep papers in. I stuffed it, and snapped the lock.

But, wanting something out of it again, I couldn't get it open. I toiled and ranted and raved—no results.

Monday morning I rushed to the luggage store and borrowed one of their bright young men. Wisko! like magic he opened the lock!

The one thing I had not thought to do was the secret of success—to move a part of the lock slightly to the right! DUMB!—that's me!

Katie Cooks Her Own Idea of a "Pot Luck" Meal

Katie and Jim rose quickly at my entrance into the kitchen, but I immediately sat down in the nearest chair and waved them back to their seats.

"I am ashamed to tell you why I am here, Katie," I said, basely using what I know was the surest appeal to my warm-hearted little maid.

"Oh, Meesis Graham; my Meesis Graham!" Katie exclaimed reproachfully, putting down the fork she was rubbing. "Vot nonsense you talk to your poor Katie! You know I feex always vot you vant. Don't I feex?"

"Of course you do, Katie," I told her. "That is why I am ashamed. You have so much to do just now, and I'm here to put another little burden on you."

Katie chuckled.

"Dot's vy good God put big shoulders on me, so I kin shoost steeck all sorts of vat you call dem tings—burdens—on my back," she said. "So go ahead; shoot de yorks."

Jim—dependable, stolid Jim—always, as Lillian says, "three jumps behind" his more agile-minded wife, looked up reprovingly from his polishing.

"Katie, Katie," he said probably for the thousandth time, "how you talk!"

"Vot you mean, how I talk?" she demanded, springing to her feet and facing her husband with arms akimbo and hands upon her hips. "I talk shoost as goot as you efer did, und ten times better; for you nefer open your map unless to say, 'Yes, Missis Graham,' or 'No, Missis Graham,' or 'All right, Missis Graham.'"

JIM LEAVES KITCHEN

She was deadly in the accuracy of her mimicry of Jim's slow, drawling tones, and I saw a brick-red flush creeping up his neck. But Katie went on remorselessly.

"Shoost because I married doomb man vot only opens his face to shovel grub into eet, ees dot any reason vi I haf to act doomb, too? You tend to yourself, Jeem, und I tend to me."

Jim rose heavily, ignoring her.

"Ef you'll excuse me, Mis' Graham," he said with bovine dignity, "I'll be looking after the chickens."

"Go roost mit dem," Katie adjured him passionately.

And then I was treated to one of her amazing and amusing transitions. One second she was almost shrieking apparently angry taunts at Jim, then, as the door closed behind him, she bent really double in a paroxism of laughter.

"Poor old Jeem!" she gurgled. "Dot feex heem, und get heem out of vay. Now, you tell me vot you vant."

"Katie!" I almost shrieked the word myself in my amazement at this novel vagary of my little maid's. "Do you mean to tell me that you talked that way to Jim on purpose, so he would go out of the kitchen—that you thought I wanted to see you alone?"

"Sure ting," Katie answered, with superb aplomb. "Vot good mens round keetchen anyvays? Shoost clutter to sveep oop. Dey only in vay ven vimmens haf to talk about tings. Now vot you vant?"

MEAL UNDER WAY

I would have liked to remind her that she depended daily, almost hourly, upon Jim's efficient aid; for the strong, silent, highly efficient man did much of the heavier part of the housework, in addition to his regular duties outdoors. Only in times of stress like the present did he or she call in outside aid. But I know when "silence is golden."

"I want to talk to you about dinner tonight."

She looked at me shrewdly, but with a touch of annoyance in her eyes.

"I got my dinner all cooking on stove. You said ve shoost feed dem anytings, so eet filling, until vedding ofer."

"I know, Katie," I said hastily. "What are you preparing?"

"Vun nice stew," she replied. "Dot fill eferybody oop. I got me tomato cocktails first, und a nice salad, und some pie. Dot enough for anybody. Not so?"

There was no touch of belligerence in her manner, and for that reason I felt extra compunction for what I had to tell her. But I did not delay my answer.

"It's more than enough," I said, "only—Mr. Veritzen is coming out to dinner, and Mother Graham wishes something special for him."

Household Hints

Delicious mint sauce can be made, if instead of the usual vinegar and water with caster sugar, half lemon juice, half water and caster sugar to taste is used.

A leather suit case which is looking the worse for wear should have the dust removed with a cloth dipped in warm water to which a little vinegar has been added.

"QUALITY" Tells the Whole Story

Many extraordinary virtues have been credited to tea. Salada Tea claims only this—that it provides the finest cup of pure refreshment it is possible to secure.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

When the Expert Errs

Mr. John W. Jacobson, Canadian editor of The Bridge World, is acknowledged to be a brilliant Bridge player. According to a story he tells of himself, some of his friends in Toronto assert that many of the outstanding coups and defensive plays credited to him were made only on paper and that the errors of judgment committed by his opponents occurred more frequently on paper than elsewhere. To prove that he can tell a story on himself, he submits the following hand, played recently in Toronto.

North, Dealer.

East and West vulnerable.

	♠ A J 7 ♡ K Q 4 ◇ 8 ♣ Q J 9 8 7 3
♠ 6 4 3 ♡ 5 2 ◇ K 9 7 6 3 2 ♣ 6 4	North West East South	Mr. Jacobson ♠ Q 10 5 ♡ A J 9 6 ◇ A J 5 ♣ A K 10
	♠ K 9 8 2 ♡ 10 8 7 3 ◇ Q 10 4 ♣ 5 2

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Double	Pass	1 ◇
Pass	1 ♡	Pass	2 ◇
Pass	3 NT	Pass	Pass
Pass

South's Opening lead was a club, in response to North's bid, and Mr. Jacobson won it and led the diamond Ace. He followed with the Knave, intending to give up a diamond trick with the hope of making five diamonds, three clubs and one heart, and thus fulfilling his contract. However, on the diamond Knave, South, ignoring all the rules governing fourchette positions, played the Ten. Mr. Jacobson now asked himself, "What shall I do?" North seemed plainly marked with the lone Queen of diamonds and an unknown quantity of spades, so Mr. Jacobson put up the King in Dummy, and made a total of six tricks all told.

South's play is brilliant and also sound. His partner's play of the eight of diamonds at the first trick plainly marked the division of that suit. If he played the Queen on the Knave, then Mr. Jacobson, no doubt, would permit him to hold the trick, and, as the cards lie, there would then remain absolutely no defense at the contract of three notrump. The play of the Ten was the stratagem of a great player, and, while I commiserate with Mr. Jacobson, somehow I cannot regret that the stratagem succeeded. Brilliant plays, and particularly psychological plays, should reap a reward at the Bridge table, even against as fine a player as Mr. Jacobson.

Correct Manners

Wedding Announcements

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly tell me if the proper form is to send wedding announcements after the ceremony or announcements before the wedding? No invitations to the wedding are issued due to a death in the groom's family.

T.

Wedding announcements are sent AFTER the ceremony has been performed, when there is a definite piece of news to ANNOUNCE. It is the INVITATION that is sent BEFORE the wedding.

Since, in this case, there are to be no wedding invitations the marriage announcements should be all ready—engraved, addressed stamped, sealed—to be mailed directly AFTER the ceremony has taken place.

Bride's Initials

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When giving linen at a shower, which initial is proper, the bride's present initial or her future one? D.

Conventionally, traditionally, the bride-to-be uses the initials of her maiden name on her linens and on her silver. But many brides-to-be there are who have rebelled against this and insist on using the initials that will be theirs after marriage. It is for the bride herself to choose. Personally, I would urge her to abide by the fine old convention of using initials of her maiden name. And if I were taking embroidered linens to a shower I would have them embroidered with the initials of the maiden name unless I were sure tht she preferred the other form.

SMITH MISSES RALLY, 'TIGER' WORRIED

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Alfred E. Smith has a cold—and political observers were running a fever today trying to figure out the probable effect on Tammany Hall's health.

The men of Tammany gathered last night for the traditional "ratification rally" designed to start Mayor John P. O'Brien's campaign off with a bang and repulse the double threat of Fusion and the Recovery party to drive the Tiger from power.

Smith—for the first time in years—was absent.

The word was passed around that he was "home in bed with a cold."

The New York Times interpreted his absence as "a blow to the leadership of John F. Curry, Tammany chief, and John H. McCooey, the "Hall's" Brooklyn ally.

The absence, the paper said, "was accepted by observers as confirmation of the reports that the former Governor had refused to yield to Tammany's plans that he come to the rescue. Senators Robert F. Wagner and Royal S. Copeland were also missing from the platform last night, and announcements at the hall said pressure of official business kept them away.

The regime of former Mayor James J. Walker was kept in the campaign by Tammany, which adopted the attitude of disavowing responsibility for any extravagances of his administration.

Coupling this disavowal of Walker's rule with Joseph V. McKee, Recovery party candidate, a Tammany spokesman laid part of the blame on McKee for his acquiescence as president of the Board of Aldermen under Walker.

AUTO MAN SEES BUYING RUSH

Renewed confidence which will release dormant purchasing power is becoming more evident every day, in the opinion of C. H. Bliss, vice president and sales director of the Nash Motor Company, who addressed a group of Nash dealers here yesterday.

Bliss cited the increase in automobile buying this year over last as proof that business is definitely on the mend, asserting that 1933 will end with a production of 2,000,000 motor cars. After discussing the new Nash line, Bliss said:

"Several times during the past few months it has been necessary for certain manufacturers to step up motor car production."

NELL BRINKLEY PILLOW TOP PATTERN 519

Simple Embroidery in Dainty Colors

A head drawn by Nell Brinkley, the most popular illustrator of the American girl, is doubly fascinating to the needlewoman if it can be embroidered in dainty colors and used as a pillow top as in this pattern. This girl makes a trio of the Nell Brinkley girls offered for embroidery in this column. Only the simplest stitches are employed and directions and yardages are given for making either a round or square cushion.

Pattern 519 comes to you with directions and color suggestions so that the pillow can be made up into the daintiest of boudoir cushions or done on a dark background for use in living room or porch.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

COLLEGE FEE RULING UPSET

HARRISBURG, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Whether their enrollment and service fees are paid in advance or not, the Justice Department rules that Pennsylvania's Secretary of Revenue lacks the right to bar students from state teachers' colleges.

An opinion written by Harris C. Arnold, deputy attorney general, was forwarded to Leon D. Metzger, Secretary of Revenue. It said:

"We do not consider it within the jurisdiction of your department to refuse any student admission to a college or classes therein. That is a matter for control by the boards of trustees of the various colleges."

Amendment of the rules of teachers' colleges to provide for extension of the time for payment in meritorious cases and under reasonable restrictions was suggested in the Arnold opinion as a means of simplifying the situation.

Composer Presents Cantata's Premiere

The initial performance of "The Daughter of Jairus," cantata, by Reginald Ernest Letcher, will be presented at 8 p. m. tomorrow in St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Lockhart street, under the direction of the composer. Latcher, organist and musical director of St. Peter's church, has set to music the Biblical story of Jairus' daughter.

JAZZ 'STUNS' SAYS CREATORE

Americans do not enjoy the blaring jazz of a modern orchestra; they are merely stunned by it, according to Giuseppe Creatore, conductor and noted band leader. Creatore is in Pittsburgh to conduct the Pittsburgh Metropolitan Opera Company when it opens the local opera season in Syria Mosque Friday evening.

Maestro Creatore compares jazz to an opiate which deadens the nerves of the listeners. He likens the musician to the artist:

"When the artist makes a few rough strokes with his brush and calls the result a picture, we look at it and protest. We do not like it. When he takes time and patience and produces a truly lovely picture, we revel in its beauty.

"The same is true of music. Too many young people are satisfied with just enough lessons to enable them to play the primitive rhythms brought to us from Africa. They call themselves musicians. The real musician must produce beauty, not noise, and he cannot do this in a few days or weeks. Like the beautiful picture it takes painstaking time."

'SWAP' BONDS SNAPPED UP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt announced today that the Treasury's offer of $500,000,000 in a new bond issue had been oversubscribed nearly four times, with subscriptions still pouring in by mail.

With books closed on the cash issue last night, he said subscriptions amounted to nearly $2,000,000,000. The bonds mature in 12 years and are callable in 10. They bear interest at 4¼ per cent the first year and 3¼ thereafter.

The cash issue was in connection with an offer to exchange identical bonds for Fourth Liberty bonds, approximately one-third of which were called.

A gratifying response to the exchange offer also was reported.

ARTISTS PUSH BUILDING PLAN

Plans for a six-story building for the Associated Artists were set actively in motion when the association elected a building committee at a meeting in the Hotel Schenley last night.

Alexander J. Kostellow, of the Carnegie faculty of fine arts and chairman of the committee, stressed the building plan as adding to the association's already appreciable influence in making Pittsburgh art-conscious. About 125 attended.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Adults Are Subject to Whooping Cough

Contrary to common belief, whooping cough is not an ailment confined to childhood. It may surprise you to learn that it occurs in adults. At a recent meeting of the Royal Society of Medicine in England, a case of whooping cough in a man over seventy years of age was reported. Indeed, most cases of whooping cough in adults occur in elderly individuals, but it appears in every age group.

Dr. Copeland

It is often said that when we grow old we revert to childhood. This is true of our reaction to many diseases. When we are old the resistance of the body to certain diseases is lowered. Like the young child, the old individual is extremely susceptible to broncho-pneumonia and tuberculosis, and he may take whooping cough.

Let me correct another erroneous impression about whooping cough. Most parents accept whooping cough as a simple ailment. They do not consider it a serious disease and it happens sometimes that inadequate care is given the stricken child. This is unwise because whooping cough is a serious disease and must never be lightly regarded.

It is extremely contagious and quickly spreads from one child to another. As a rule one attack gives immunity, or protection, against further attacks. A child with whooping cough, or suspected of having this affliction, should be isolated and not allowed to play with other children.

Persistent cough is the first sign of this affliction. The young victim appears to be suffering from a cold. Within a few days the cough becomes more severe and the child vomits after severe spasms of coughing. Gagging is marked and this leads to repeated vomiting.

Some cases of whooping cough are mild and only last from three to four weeks. At times it may persist from six weeks to three months. During this time the child becomes weak, loses weight and is subject to other infections, especially pneumonia and influenza.

Guard the child against colds, drafts and everything that causes physical weakness. Adequate nourishment is essential for the weakened child. I cannot overemphaize the need of careful and prolonged nursing for the victim of whooping cough. Bear in mind all the time that, as I have said, it is a serious disease and requires expert attention.

In severe cases your doctor may advise carbon dioxide inhalations which are of great benefit in some cases. Another modern treatment is the use of ether in oil. This is given to the child through an enema tube. Both methods help control the severe spasms and quiet the child.

Do not resort to home remedies, but call your doctor as soon as possible. Today the treatment of whooping cough is different from the old fashioned methods of control.

RELIEF CHIEF TO FLY HERE

Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Relief Administrator, delayed in Washington today, was to fly to Pittsburgh late this afternoon in order to help launch the advance Welfare Fund campaign tonight at the Hotel Schenley.

The relation of federal relief to private social agencies will be the subject of this talk. Hopkins has been arranging for bulk purchases of cattle, butter, coal, clothing and shoes to meet the needs of federal relief next winter.

The meeting tonight has been arranged by the special gifts division of which William P. Snyder is chairman.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Apples today were added to the surplus products to be purchased by the government for relief purposes.

Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, announced that 1,000 carloads of grade C apples will be purchased in addition to butter, cattle and an undetermined amount of wheat. He has appropriated $300,000 to buy apples.

FARM INCREASE ROOSEVELT AIM

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt feels that, although farm prices have increased 32 per cent since the average for the year that ended March, they are not yet high enough.

An economist for the executive council has presented figures to the President showing that the products the farmer sold in September brought 82 per cent more than in the 12 months ending with March.

In the same period, it was stated in official quarters today that the economist had reported the cost of things the farmer buys has increased 11 per cent.

Despite these figures, the administration was described as feeling that the farmer's return is still far too low.

U. S. ACE HELD IN CHINA

TIENTSIN, China, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Bert Hall, American wartime aviator, was arrested today by United States consular officials on a charge of engaging in illegal firearms importations into China for sale to military forces.

Hall, according to the charges, obtained from an obscure Chinese military general and converted to his own use $10,000 Mexican, supposedly for a shipment of pistols.

The American, who at one time was aviation instructor for the Chinese government at Nanking, left for Japan October 9. Following his departure, a charge was brought by the general, and the Japanese authorities were informed. As a result, Hall was refused entry to Japan and was sent back to Tangku, where he was arrested.

SECOND PAROLE FOR SHOEMAKER

Peter A. Moore, 69-year-old Neville Island shoemaker, today started his second parole within the last year following two convictions on charges of immoral conduct with minors.

Judge Elder W. Marshall placed him on a two-year parole with the provision he must stay with his daughter in Ravenswood, W. Va., following the report of a medical commission that the old man was suffering from hardening of the arteries.

Last winter Moore pleaded guilty to immoral conduct charges, but was paroled because of his past character. When women residents of Neville Island protested to the court, he was rearrested on another charge and had served four months in the County Jail when paroled for the second time.

Wheat Export Limit Sought in Australia

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(INS.)—A bill prohibiting export of wheat and flour except under government permit was introduced in the Australian House of Representatives today by Minister of Commerce Stewart, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Canberra.

Stewart estimated the year's crop at 185,000,000 bushels, of which 50,000,000 bushels will be for home consumption. The export quota will be 105,000,000 bushels, leaving a 0,000,000 bushel carryover.

Don Cook's current heartache is Mary Brian.

Orchids to Courtney Burr, who, down to his last dime (all borrowed to produce "Sailor, Beware!"), raised all wages of the cast when it became a hit . . . Scallions to that Third Ave. trolley conductor who wouldn't stop the car at an uneven numbered street (rules) for a little old lady, totally blind, who asked to get off at 55th. He made her walk from 54th . . . Orchids to Ruth Etting's version of "You're My Past, Present and Future," a contagious tune . . . Scallions to the night places which are serving the worst giggle-water when it is so cheap! . . . Orchids to the new Paradise show with Whiteman and to the Hollywood's with Rudy . . . Scallions to all the musicians and leaders who were given jobs and breaks by Maynard Rutherford, who now needs one himself, but who rates snubs. Shame!

Peppino, the little Argentine, has been on Billy Leeds' yacht for a week in his dress clothes, and they won't let him off . . . The "Marta" who does the fashions for the newest tab is Gloria Braggiotti . . . The Chanins, who owned theaters and hotels, which were fickle, are now brewing lager . . . When the Gordon Moores are melted soon—she will marry Aidan Roark, the polo player, who works for the shelved groom in the Hollywood studios . . . Agnes Hill, whose good looks left too many local hearts a wreck, is now a model in Washington.

Judge Landis will shelve his baseball czar job this winter, and the moguls seek a man who can handle that $75,000 post . . . Sam Untermyer has six new taxes up his sleeve, to be sprung on the public within a fortnight . . . That Sally Rand conviction in Chicago was a well-arranged gag by a Chi att'y . . . Tammany's alleged tie-up with certain brewery interests will be the subject of a blast by La Guardia before the campaign ends . . . "The Romance of a People" will go on tour, including European countries—the mob scenes being recruited where it plays . . . O'Brien is running last on every straw vote, including the secret one which Tamman itself conducts . . . Harold Lloyd will shortly flag Paramount and have his flickers distributed by another outfit . . . What really settled the Stern-Nathan suit was $600,000 which Mrs. N. paid Mrs. S.

Elise Bartlett, who divorced the late Horace Liveright—insured his life with her last coin—and now is rich again . . . The heiress to the "3 G" shops and H. Kuchai of the chain stores are merging . . . The smart bar in the St. Moritz grill features this placard: "In anticipation of December 6th—in the meantime bring your own" . . . Rosa Ponselle of the opera houses, has determined to marry G. Russo of the Lancia motor outfit, who once was a professional bike rider . . . Walter O'Keefe wonders what the nudists do for pocket money? . . . A song exclusively for the new Cotton Club show is titled: "Keepin' House for a Louse" . . . Alfred G. Vanderbilt, 3d, is stage-adoring the prettys at 43rd Street rear entrances . . . La Guinan resumes in 6 wks at her old spot . . . e. e. cummings, the playwright, and Marion Morehouse, the model, will middle-aisle it any moment. His 4th bride . . . It's a boy at the Francis McNeil Bacon, 3ds at the Doctors Hosp. (she was "Toni" Frassell) . . . The Capt. Elliotts (Laura Wilck) will be three at Xmas . . . The Robert Warwicks expect theirs next month . . . "Shanghai Lil," the new tune, is practically "Cryin' for the Carolines" . . . The A. Sandlers are telling it to a London judge, the corespondent he is naming will shock the concert world . . . June Parks, just back from Reno, and William Gaston (Rosamond Pinchot's ex) are blazing . . . Mae West's best line: "It's not the men in your life—it's the life in your men!" . . . The Arthur Traceys (The Street Singer) exploded yesterday. She'll charge abandonment.

PHOTOGRAPHIC ART STUDY OF AILEEN MacMAHON MADE BETWEEN STUDIO SHOTS OF MOVIE, "THE WORLD CHANGES"

Sally Rand and Her Fans To Appear On Screen

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 18.—Unless more jail doors yawn, it's on again for Sally Rand and her fan dance, at least a fan dance to go into a Paramount picture.

The studio reached this decision after so many weeks of argument and changes of mind that the poor officials are wincing at the sight of an ostrich.

Sally's famous dance is scheduled to be one of the features of the screen version "Murder at the Vanities." Before that, however, she may try to top the dance that shocked Chicago in the new Carole Lombard-George Raft picture, "Bolero."

Miss Rand

It will be Sally's first visit to the Paramount lot since she went over one bright Sunday morning to let the newsreel men photograph her with the 12 other Wampas baby stars.

In long-tailed coat and high hat, Jack Warner was one of the more dapper figures at the performance of "Pagliacci" and "The Emperor Jones."

The producer's wit was in nimble form, too.

"Imagine!" he quipped, "even the operas are playing double features now."

Slenderer than when she left here, and wearing the latest from Paris, Patsy Ruth Miller had them all staring when she entered the Clover Club the other evening with Lila Lee, Ross Clark and Ernie Toggler.

Miss Miller

Contrary to reports, Pat says she came back from Europe heart-whole and fancy-free. She's moved into the Beverly Wilshire Hotel, and Tay Garnett has taken an apartment, at the Chateau Marmont. One actor who snubbed Pat in favor of Tay (the director you know), can tell you that they're still very friendly, however.

If a film job turns up, Pat will grab it. She's got the yen to get before the camera once more.

Two hot rumors current today are that Ronald Colman will join Twentieth Century pictures with the full consent of Samuel Goldwyn, and that the Marx Brothers henceforth will release their pictures through United Artists.

He's laughing about it now, but Gordon Westcott was furious when a suspicious motorcycle policeman carried him to the Hollywood Jail, where he had to remain for an hour before he could establish his identity. Gordon didn't have his driver's license, and when he reached into the pocket of his car in search of the registration certificate, the copper discovered a pistol there.

The trek to the desert has begun. Dozens of movie celebs drove or flew down to Palm Springs Saturday to put up at the Desert Inn and later to don evening clothes and attend the opening of The Dunes, novel night club. Interesting to see Carl Laemmle, Jr., with Irene Bentley, Jeanne Howard with Charles Feldman again, Gregory Ratoff paying marked attention to Helen Flint and Mae Clarke with Sidney Blackmer.

The Clarence Browns flew down after the St. Mary's-U. S. C. football game, and beat the motoring contingent by three hours.

From now on, Palm Springs will draw many week-enders from the film colony. Ruth Chatterton and George Brent expect to be down so often that they are taking a house.

Necks craned when Marlene Dietrich was seen dining with a strange young man at Sardis. He was Martin Kosleck, and he once was la Dietrich's leading man in Germany. Rather remarkable, his recent experiences. Not long ago, he began to study painting. Dietrich posed for him. The picture was put on display in the Paramount Theater here and a collector promptly bought it for $1,000.

Latest couple to intrigue the gossips are Florence Desmond and Eddie Hillman. They are together constantly . . . Broadway producers can whistle for Paul Muni. He's gone rancher, and will stay here until Warners need him again for a picture . . . Showing how bridge fans are, a group of film celebs went to Grace Moore's party after the opera and played cards for hours. And the opera wasn't out until nearly midnight.

Barrymore-Hepburn Film Postponed

The proposed Katharine Hepburn-John Barrymore co-starring film, "Break of Hearts," has been postponed. Miss Hepburn has been assigned the starring role in the recently purchased Lulu Vollmer play, "Trigger." "Long Lost Father," G. B. Stern's novel, will serve as Barrymore's starring film for RKO Radio Pictures.

Comedy With Music In Mt. Lebanon

"College Sweethearts," a South Hills Community Players' production, will open tonight in the Washington School, Mt. Lebanon. The play, by Edward W. Blaine, with music and lyrics by Kenneth Wrigley, has a cast headed by Doris Kreiger and Jay Jarrell, of Mt. Lebanon. This is the first Community Players' production of the season and it will continue throughout the remainder of the week.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

In "Music in the Air," operetta coming to the Nixon next week, Reinald Werrenrath, a leading American baritone, is making his first appearance in the popular music field, his work heretofore having been confined largely to the concert stage. His opera experience includes an appearance at the Metropolitan. He has been soloist of numerous concerts of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Werrenrath is a native of Brooklyn, whose father, born in Copenhagen, gained celebrity as a singer before coming to America. Seats for "Music in the Air" will go on sale in the Nixon box office tomorrow.

The Theater Guild is giving equal prominence to the names of Helen Hayes, Philip Merivale and Helen Menken in announcements concerning "Mary of Scotland," which will come to the Nixon the week of October 30. With any other producer the significance of that would be three stars, but the dear old Guild has a horror of the word "star" in connection with its production, even though it does put the names of other players in smaller type, including that of Fritz Leiber, noted Shakespearean star. Among others in the company are Anthony Kemble Cooper, Ernest Lawford, and Ernest Coaassart. Maxwell Anderson, whose "Both Your Houses" won the 1933 Pulitzer prize, is the author of "Mary of Scotland." He also wrote "Elizabeth the Queen." The new play will have its premiere in Washington next week.

Madeleine Skelly Foust and Richard Rauh have been added to the advisory board of the Pittsburgh Civic Playhouse, M. E. Fierst, general manager, announces. Mrs. Foust has long been identified with local dramatic and little theater activities, while Mr. Rauh has been associated with the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra.

Mae West has a new contract that will make her a Hollywoodite for four more years, in which she will do two pictures a year, being now engaged in writing her next, "It Ain't No Sin" . . . When Will Rogers completes "Mr. Skitch" this week he will take a flying vacation that will include stops in Washington and New York . . . The famous DeSylva, Brown and Henderson are on the Fox lot in Hollywood, but not as a partnership, all being at work on different films for which music and songs are demanded.

John Lodge of Boston Lead to Marlene

Marlene Dietrich's leading man for her next Paramount production will be John Lodge, one of the screen's newer young actors and scion of a prominent Boston family. "Scarlet Pageant" is the tentative title of the piece. Olive Tell, prominent luminary of the silent screen now seeking fame in the talkies, will play the role of Princess Johanna. Marie Wells, light opera and musical comedy star who first won acclaim on Broadway in "No, No Nanette," will play the role of Marie, a subject of Catherine II of Russia. Manuel Komroff, author of "Coronet," wrote the story, based on the life and exploits of Catherine II of Russia.

Gifts to Dix Include Cure-All Powder

During his 10 years of stardom on the screen, Richard Dix, RKO Radio Pictures star, has received a varied assortment of gifts from his fans all over the world.

Most interesting of these are a novelty bag-pipe made of toy balloons and drinking straws, a home-made diving helmet with explicit instructions as to its use, a sprig of heather from Scotland, a sandalwood box containing powdered reindeer horn guaranteed as a cure-all by the Chinese donor, and a lama's prayer wheel.

Aviation

Elizabeth Allan plays opposite Richard Dix, who is the "Ace of Aces" in the war aviation picture of that title that will come along later.

The Final Hope

(By Thomas Lacy, 9 St. Mark's Place, New York City, Winner of the third prize in the Joe Green Column Contest.)

JOE GREEN walked slowly in the direction of his home after a pretty dull day. Passing him, you would never give him a second glance. For Joe Green was so essentially the average man that a second glance was never necessary.

Everything about the man spelled the average. The way his clothes fitted him. That plodding look in his eyes. The very manner in which he walked. Average; that was Joe Green. And it was a thousand to one that he would go through life exactly as he was.

He worked in an office in the city. Each morning he left his average home in the suburbs to take the train, and each evening he took the 5:15 back home.

He had an average wife who fixed his average breakfast for him in the morning, and kissed him goodbye as he left for work. In the afternoons, she worked around the house, or went shopping, or visited her friends. She and Joe got along, but for one thing; she irked him with her continual nagging.

It seemed to Joe that she never stopped. She talked and scolded and nagged. She scolded him about the letter he had failed to mail, about the cretonne curtains he had forgotten to pick up for her at the store, about mowing the lawn, about cleaning the cellar.

Poor Joe didn't have much peace at home. But in his way, he loved this woman. She was a good wife, with all her nagging . . .

On this particular day, Joe arrived to find his wife complaining about various aches and pains. Since this was by no means an unusual occurrence, he thought nothing of it. But in the morning, he was genuinely alarmed to find that she was really very ill. A doctor, hastily summoned, found the woman in pretty bad shape.

Joe did all he could. He paid for the best medical attention, and he nursed her tenderly. But that wasn't enough. When he awakened one morning, he found himself a widower . . .

For several months, Joe Green mourned the loss of his wife. But when things had again become established in their normal routine, he began to feel that there was something lacking in his life. He was alone in the house, and there was no one to take care of him. The void became more acute, and he made up his mind that he needed to marry again.

He needed a woman to cook for him; someone to fetch his slippers and his pipe, and to offer him companionship. Yes, he needed a wife—but the thought of again living with a woman who would nag him continually filled him with dread. He had no desire to go back to the old life of being scolded morning, noon and night.

One day, while riding in the subway, he became interested in a couple sitting opposite. They were conversing in the sign language, and were obviously deaf mutes. As he watched them, an idea struck him suddenly. Why not marry a deaf mute?

The more he pondered the idea, the more it appealed to him. With a deaf mute as a wife, he would have peace and quiet and contentment. There would be no scolding and no nagging. To Joe Green, the entire thought seemed very wonderful.

The following day, through a friend, Joe had himself introduced to a congenial chap who was deaf and dumb. He made it his particular business to cultivate this man's friendship. He invited him to his home, took him places and made himself very amiable in general.

In due time, Joe took the mute into his confidence and unfolded his plan to him. The man looked upon it as a huge joke but, when Joe assured him that he was in earnest, he promised to help him. After all, no harm could come out of it—and he liked Joe immensely.

All this time, Joe had been taking lessons from his friend in the sign language, and now they went at it seriously. Joe practiced talking with his hands and listening with his eyes until he became quite adept at it. And it was then that he went in search of a wife.

Eventually he found her. He liked her, and she felt that Joe wasn't so bad on his own account. And so they were married. Joe took his second bride home and settled down to enjoy a thoroughly peaceful life . . .

Shed a tear at this point for poor Joe! It wasn't long after the honeymoon that Joe began to discover new traits in his wife, which is what generally happens to all men after honeymoons. To Joe's supreme chagrin, she turned out to be an even greater nagger than his first wife!

Lack of speech was no handicap to her. She used her hands with great dexterity and, if we may say it, fluency. She had a more extensive vocabulary than his first wife. She threw harsh words and phrases at him with those hands that almost drove him mad.

As if that wasn't bad enough, the second Mrs. Green also had a culture bug. She went in for reading and for painting. Very often she trundled the unwilling Joe off to some lecture or art gallery or museum—which were things in which he took not the slightest interest.

One day at the art museum, while his wife was, puttering around among the sculptures, Joe stopped before one of the statues and became mightily intrigued. Into his eyes there came a new gleam. He stood and he stood, staring at the statue.

Almost an hour later, when his wife had exhausted all the exhibits, she turned to look for Joe. There he stood, still gazing intently at the figure that had caught his fancy.

His wife came toward him impatiently. And when she reached his side, she let loose with her hands.

"Listen, Joe Green," her fingers snapped out. "Are you coming along—or are you going to stand gazing at that Venus de Milo all day?"

Roamer

Frankie Darro is one of the group of roving lads in "Wild Boys of the Road," photoplay that will begin a week in the Davis and Sheridan Square Friday.

Pretty Czech In Picture

Steffi Duna, prominent Czech stage actress, who recently appeared in the New York stage presentation of "Three Penny Opera," is to make her American film debut in one of the leading character roles in "Man of Two Worlds," which is to introduce also a prominent stage star, Francis Lederer, to American film fans. Miss Duna, who is said to be popular throughout Europe, began to dance at the age of 8. Four years later she was dancing with stock companies as "Steffi, the Child Wonder."

At 16 she had already appeared in most of the important cities of the continent, and had played a number of prominent film roles. Later she played opposite Mr. Lederer in the Berlin presentation of "Die Wunderbar," a musical production.

Noel Coward enticed the beautiful Czech to England to play one of the leading roles in his musical comedy, "Words and Music." Then she was signed by Gifford Cochran to come to America to appear in the Broadway presentation of "Three Penny Opera," based upon the 200-year-old "Beggars Opera," a success throughout Europe. With the close of this production she went to Hollywood. She will play an Eskimo woman role opposite Lederer in "Man of Two Worlds."

Governors to Attend 'Big Top' Feast

The Variety Club's annual "Big Top" banquet will be held Sunday night in the Hotel William Penn. The event will be in honor of John J. Maloney, the organization's outgoing president.

Among those who have sent in reservations are Gov. White, of Ohio; Gov. Kemp, of West Virginia; Mayor Whorley and Sheriff Anderson, of Columbus, O., and 35 members of the Variety Club, of Columbus; John Royal, of the National Broadcasting Company; Joe Carr, president of the Professional Football League; Ned Depinet, Felix Feist, George Schaeffer, A. B. Montague and Frank McCarthy, general sales managers for RKO, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Paramount, Columbia and Universal, respectively; Joe Bernhard, head of the Warner Brothers theater department; George and Spyros Skouras, W. G. Conley, former Governor of West Virginia; Judge John Kephart and Mayor John Herron.

The guest list is being limited to 600.

Astaire Finishes Film And Goes Abroad

Fred Astaire, internationally known stage star, who recently completed his featured role in the RKO Radio musical film, "Flying Down to Rio," has sailed for London, where he has a stage engagement. Prior to his departure from Hollywood he signed a new contract calling for his appearance in two photoplay productions on his return from abroad. In London he is to appear in a presentation of his recent Broadway stage success, "Gay Divorce."

MINISTER FIRED UPON IN JAIL

JONESBORO, Ark., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Gunfire interrupted peace efforts in the Jonesboro Baptist tabernacle fued last night when an apparent attempt was made to assassinate the Rev. Dale Crowley in his cell in the county jail. The pastor, asleep on his cot, was not injured.

Officers had expressed fear for Crowley's life soon after he was arrested for the slaying of J. W. MacMurdro, church janitor, last week, and spirited the minister to an unannounced jail but returned him here later.

Last night a hail of bullets, apparently from automatic pistols, poured into Crowley's cell and nearby residents said they heard an automobile speed away. The shooting followed efforts of a committee representing the faction headed by Crowley and supporters of the Rev. Joe Jeffers, an evangelist, to work out a plan for sale of the tabernacle building.

URGE BEAUTIES AS LIBRARIANS

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—If people don't borrow enough books, the American Library Association was told yesterday, get a snappier looking librarian.

It should help, said Frank L. Tolman, director of library extension, Albany, N. Y., even more than getting in a new supply of books.

The librarian's choice of clothing should not be restricted, Tolman said, except that it must be becoming and must add to the good looks which the librarian presumably should possess in order to get her job. Tolman said:

"The day of cotton stockings and severe dress as standards for the librarian are ended, and more people are borrowing books as a result."

ARREST FIRED OFFICER'S KIN

David Gray, 32, brother of the recently dismissed Lieut. James Gray, of the McKeesport police, was held for court today on a charge of violating the Snyder Act and selling beer without a license.

His hearing, before Police Magistrate James J. Lundie, followed a raid at his residence, 1925 Tube Works street, McKeesport, where, police say, they confiscated a quantity of moonshine and beer.

Former Lieut. Gray recently protested before McKeesport Council that he had been dismissed for political reasons. He supported Dr. H. S. Arthur against Mayor George H. Lysle.

Society to Hear Early State History

Papers dealing with early Pennsylvania history will be presented by Dr. John W. Oliver, head of the department of history, University of Pittsburgh, and Charles W. Rabbi to Discuss 'After NRA, What?'

Rabbi Edward L. Israel, of Har Sinai Congregation, will speak at the Thursday night dinner in the Downtown Y. M. C. A. His topic will be "After the NRA, What?"

OPPOSE BIG PAY IN RELIEF WORK

Resolutions calling upon relief administrators to eliminate high salaries, make greater use of volunteer workers and reduce "red tape," were adopted by 20 clergymen of the Manchester district yesterday. Copies were forwarded to Welfare Fund heads.

At the meeting in Emmanuel Episcopal Church, every Protestant and Catholic church in the district was represented. Speakers were unanimous in stating that churchmen long have been called upon to aid in collecting relief funds, but that their assistance in distribution has been overlooked.

They objected to payment of salaries of more than $4,000 to employes of relief agencies, and recommended work relief rather than a food dole.

Rear Bumper Fall Results in Death

A fall from the rear bumper of an automobile resulted in the death early today of Philip Brondo, 58, of 1033 Fall street, in St. John's Hospital, according to a Coroner's report. Brondo suffered a fractured skull October 11 when he fell from the bumper on an automobile driven by Charles Danesi, 1111 Shelby street, the report said.

Homicide detectives are investigating the circumstances surrounding the accident, which happened in Brighton road.

Prize Recipes Offer Food Canning Ideas

Interest in the Sun-Telegraph-Prudence Penny favorite recipe contest grows more intense every day. Hundreds of housewives are not only sending in directions for preparing and cooking appetizng things to eat—recipes that have been used with success among their friends—but hundreds of others are clipping the prize-winning recipes as they are published in the Sun-Telegraph every day.

M. Jousse

Here is a letter from Marjorie Barnes, 356 Mitchell avenue, Charleroi, characteristic of the many Prudence Penny gets every day:

"I have enjoyed reading the Sun-Telegraph for a long time and I have used many of the recipes in your column of prize winners. I have had many friends ask where I procured such good recipes and I gladly tell them that I clip them from the Sun-Telegraph."

Today the chefs seem to have been partial to canning recipes, a fact which will be much appreciated by the housewife who is always looking for just a little better way to put up her tomatoes and other vegetables and fruits.

Eleven cash prizes totaling $15 are awarded every day for the best recipes submitted by the housewives of Pittsburgh and vicinity—66 prizes every week. The first prize every day is $5 in cash and there are also 10 other $1 daily awards. All prize-winning recipes are printed. If you have a favorite that has been enjoyed by your family and friends, send it to Prudence Penny, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Louis Jousse, chef de cuisine at the Schenley Hotel, and Camille Mauclar, chef de cuisine at the William Penn Hotel, are the judges in this contest.

WEDNESDAY'S $5 PRIZE WINNER

MRS. HARRY C. HARMELL,
Maple View, Charleroi.

GRANDMA'S SPICY PICADILLY

One peck green tomatoes.
Twelve onions.
Three green peppers.
Three red peppers.
One large bunch celery.
Two heads cauliflower.
Two pounds sugar.
Three-fourths cup salt.
Three-fourths cup mixed whole spices.
Two quarts vinegar.

Cut tomatoes and vegetables in small pieces. Soak tomatoes and salt over night. Drain in morning. Add all the vegetables. Parboil for 10 minutes with one quart vinegar and two quarts water. Drain again. Make syrup of remaining vinegar, sugar and spices tied in a bag. Add vegetables and cook 15 minutes.

WEDNESDAY'S TEN $1 PRIZES

MRS. CHARLES E. SWEADNER,
R. D. 2, Box 15, Sharpsburg.

SWEDISH NUT WAFERS

Four tablespoons shortening.
Three-fourths cup sugar.
One egg.
One and one-third cups flour.
One teaspoon baking powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Two tablespoons milk.
One teaspoon vanilla.
One-half cup chopped nut meats.

Cream shortening. Add sugar gradually and cream together. Add well-beaten egg. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Add to the creamed mixture alternately with milk and add vanilla. Spread as thin as possible over two greased baking sheets. Sprinkle with chopped nuts. Bake one pan at a time, each pan requiring 15 minutes in an oven 350 degrees. When done, remove from oven and cut in strips 2x4 inches. While still hot place each strip over rolling pin. If strip becomes crisp or wrinkled before rolling, soften by warming in oven. Use two 12x16-inch baking sheets. Makes 40 wafers.

MRS. HARRY S. KING,
144 N. Grant avenue, Kittanning.

TOMATO AND PEACH PRESERVE

Four cups tomato pulp.
Five cups sugar.
Two cups sliced peaches.
One-half teaspoon vanilla.

Cook tomatoes down a little before adding the sugar. Add sugar, cook till thick, then add sliced peaches, cook till peaches are done, then add vanilla. Pour into glasses, when cool cover with parafin. When tomatoes are too juicy add more sugar.

MRS. THOMAS B. WEST,
2208 Lehigh street, Swissvale.

GOLDEN HARVEST GRAPE PIE

Three cups Concord grapes.
Two tablespoons minute tapioca.
Salt.
Two egg yolks.
Three-fourths cup sugar.
Wash grapes.

Separate pulps from skins. Cook pulps until they separate, rub through sieve onto grape skins, add sugar, salt, tapioca and beaten yolks, mix well. Cook mixture slowly, stirring to keep from sticking, until tapioca is transparent. Pour into baked pie shell, cover with meringue made from the whites of two eggs. Brown in oven. Serve cold.

MRS. BERTHA BITTINGER,
111 Walnut street, Uniontown.

BAKED SWEET POTATO MARSHMALLOW BALLS

Two quarts mashed sweet potatoes.
One-half cup butter.
One teaspoon salt.
One-fourth teaspoon pepper.
Eighteen marshmallows.
Brown sugar.

Take two quarts sweet potato mash, add one-half cup butter, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper and mix together thoroughly until smooth. Form into 18 balls, placing a marshmallow in center of each. Roll in brown sugar until completely covered. Take two square cake pans, melt a tablespoon of butter in each pan, place nine balls in each pan, placing a small piece of butter on top of each ball. Put in oven and bake until nicely browned. Serve while hot. Serves nine.

MISS CARMELA G. DE CROCE,
46 Highland Ave., McKees Rocks.

ITALIAN SPAGHETTI

One and one-half pound veal stew.
One and one-half heaping tablespoons lard.
Two pieces garlic (if desired).
Two teaspoons black pepper.
One small onion.
One large can strained tomatoes.
One-half can tomato paste.
One-fourth pound grated Roman cheese.
One cup water.
Two pounds spaghetti.
Salt to taste.

Salt and pepper meat, brown in melted lard and when almost done add garlic to brown, but be sure not to burn. Then add strained tomatoes, tomato paste, water, whole onion and salt. Mix well and cook slowly for about one hour, till meat is cooked and sauce is of desired thickness. When done remove from fire until ready to be used. Cook spaghetti in about eight quarts salted, boiling water for 10 or 15 minutes. Strain in a large colander and it is now ready to go into a platter. Add cheese and sauce alternately. Makes about 10 servings.

MRS. W. R. METCALF,
234 Alice street, Knoxville.

CHOCOLATE ANGEL FOOD CAKE

One and one-half cups granulated sugar, sifted five times.
Three-fourths cup Sandsdown cake flour, sifted three times.

Put flour back in measuring cup and fill balance of cup with cocoa, and sift five times.

Twelve egg whites, pinch of salt, beat until foamy, then add one level teaspoon of cream of tartar, beat until stiff, but not dry or until it stands up in peaks, then add the sugar, folding it in one tablespoon at a time, then fold the flour in the same way as the sugar. Add one teaspoon vanilla. Pour in angel food cake pan. Bake one hour in a very slow over. Have your oven as low as possible, then increase the heat about 10 minutes before cake is done. Turn regulator to 275 to 300 degrees.

MISS MYRTLE CHALFANT,
212 Market street, Brownsville.

QUINCE AND RAISIN MARMALADE

Six cups quinces.
Four cups water.
Three cups sugar.
One and one-half Sun-Maid puffed raisins.

Wash, remove seeds and cut up enough quinces to make six cups. Cover with water and cook slowly until soft, about one hour. Rub through a strainer. Add sugar and raisins and cook slowly until thick, about 15 minutes. Stir occasionally to prevent burning. Pour into sterilized glasses, seal with parafin.

MRS. J. C. BENDALL,
4615 Oakwood avenue, Homestead.

BEST WAY TO CAN TOMATOES

Put a pan of water to boil. Enough to hold 10 or 12 tomatoes, when it is boiling drop whole tomatoes in and let boil a few minutes, then spoon carefully in hot jars, seal and put in hot water and let boil about five minutes. You will not have any water in jars like the cold pack.

MRS. J. C. GRIFFITHS,
827 Van Kirk avenue, Clairton.

CHOCOLATE WALNUT FUDGE

Melt three rounded tablespoons of butter and three squares of chocolate. Add slowly one cup milk, one teaspoon vanilla, three cups granulated sugar and one-eighth teaspoon salt. Stir until dissolved. Boil to the soft ball stage. Let stand undisturbed until cool, then beat gently until creamy and add one cup chopped walnuts. Spread on a plate and cut in squares.

MRS. LOUISE DEMETER,
467 Eighth street, Donora.

CHRISTMAS FRUIT CAKE

Four and one-half cups of cake flour.
One teaspoon of baking powder.
One-half teaspoon of cloves.
One-half teaspoon of cinnamon.
One-half teaspoon of mace.
One pound of butter or other shortening.
One pound of brown sugar.
Ten eggs, well beaten.
One-half pound of candied cherries.
One-half pound of pineapple.
One pound of dates (seeded and sliced).
One pound of raisins.
One pound of currants.
One-half pound of citron (thinly sliced).
One-half pound of candied orange and lemon peel.
One-half pound of nut meats (chopped).
One cup of honey.
One cup of molasses.
One-half cup of cider.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and spices and sift together three times. Cream shortening thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add well-beaten eggs. Then add molasses and honey, beating them in thoroughly; add prepared fruits and beat thoroughly. Add cider when batter becomes too thick to handle easily. Add sifted, dry ingredients gradually, beating thoroughly after each addition. Bake in greased, paper-lined pans in a slow oven (250 degree F.), three to three and one-half hours. Small loaves may be baked two and one-half hours, or until done.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

After the large tea yesterday afternoon, given at the Twentieth Century Club to present Margaret Rowe, the debutantes will have a get-together today. What's more fun after a party than getting together the next day with some of your set, and talking things over?

Mrs. John Z. Collier will give a bridge-tea this afternoon in that secondary home of the 1933 debs, the Twentieth Century Club, for Barbara Verner, debutante daughter of Mrs. Alexander Wilson Verner.

Bridge-Tea

The 40-some debs in town will be the guests. The guest of honor will wear a wine-red dress having red velvet at the high V neckline. And she'll have a corsage of the 1933 deb's favorite flowers—gardenias.

Tomorrow will bring a luncheon at the same clubhouse which Mrs. Pitt McCoy Nutty will give for two of the debs, Florence Willock and Patricia Witherow.

The Pittsburgh Symphony Society, entering its eighth year this fall, is proud of its program for the fall. And with reason, too.

Mrs. Henry Maclay Hall has been president of the society ever since it was founded. She and her committee are concentrating now on symphony week, November 6, when they will enroll new members.

* * *

Stella Coulter will be maid of honor at the marriage November 4 of Lucia Manneschmidt, daughter of Jacob Manneschmidt, of Brooklyn, N. Y., to her brother, John Head Coulter, of Greensburg. The bridesmaids will all be Brooklyn girls.

Attendant In East

Richard Coulter III will be his brother's best man, and among the ushers from nearby are Robert McCabe, Jr., of Pittsburgh, and John Rial, of Greensburg.

* * *

Evelyn Freeman's debut will be made at a tea in the home of her parents, the John M. Freemans, November 13.

Debut Nov. 13

* * *

And just a reminder—tonight brings the traditional press night, the formal opening of the International at Carnegie Institute. The hours for this private view are 8 to 10 o'clock. The exhibit's open to the public tomorrow.

Margaret S. Forrester Becomes Bride of C. W. Runnette, Jr.

At a pretty ceremony last evening at 7:45 o'clock in the First Presbyterian Church, Margaret Shaw Forrester and Charles Wilson Runnette, Jr., were married by the Rev. Dr. George Taylor.

The church was decorated with ferns and crotons. The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Alexander Forrester, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a princess gown of ivory satin made with a high neckline, buttoning down the back, and sleeves puffed from shoulder to elbow, then close-fitting to the wrist. Her veil of ivory tulle was severely simple, with a cap of tulle, and another veil cascaded to the waistline in front, and was draped back over the shoulders, giving an aura effect.

Miss Jane Forrester was her sister's maid of honor, and wore Schiaparelli blue satin, having a three-way train, lined in eggshell satin. Mrs. Harry K. Runnette, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was matron of honor, and her gown was of mulberry satin with the train lined in eggshell satin. Their hats to match the gowns, were in the new "baby bonnet" model.

The bride's mother wore blue lace and Mrs. Runnette chose black satin.

The bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson Runnette, had as his best man, his brother, Harry K. Runnette, and ushers included another brother, Tom Runnette, a brother of the bride, William A. Forrester, Jr., of New York; George W. Provost, Jr., James T. O'Connor, Crawford Conrad and Donald M. Campbell.

There was a reception in the Forrester home. Mr. and Mrs. Runnette, Jr., are to make their home in North Euclid avenue after a honeymoon in Bermuda.

Gossipy Chat — By NANCY JANE

The Dorrance family almost went vegetableless one evening.

Mrs. Harold J. Dorrance drove home from a shopping trip with the back of the car full of tomatoes and the like. Before the maid had time to take the vegetables to the kitchen, the debutante daughter of the family, Eloise, went off in the car, tomatoes and all.

She did return, however, in time for dinner with the vegetables safe, although she didn't even notice that they filled the back seat!

* * *

Pretty Barbara Verner is busier even than the debutantes who are combining college with debbing—she's working on Pittsburgh's society weekly and attending all the parties, too, which are both work and play for her. The only drawback is she can't sleep until noon!

* * *

When she was a child, debutante Louise Collier had as a pet a horned toad.

Louise is one of our most attractive debs, particularly when she laughs, for then she reveals two dimples.

* * *

Pittsburgh's fashionables never did succumb to the Bushman's style of hairdress, the long bob. And this year they are wearing their hair shorter than ever, and closer to the head.

* * *

The white orchids Annette Chester carried at her debut were a gift from her grandfather.

Many to Enter Needlepoint Exhibition

Needlepoint artists are busy completing ambition creations to be on display at the fourth annual needlepoint loan exhibit in the studios of the Misses Rebbetts, Sheridan avenue, East Liberty, November 7, 8, 9 and 10.

Among those who'll exhibit their handiwork are Mrs. John S. Unger, Mrs. John H. Waters, of Johnstown; Mrs. Robert D. Totten, Mrs. W. T. McCullough, Mrs. James B. Armstrong, Mrs. W. F. Hill, Mrs. Harry Zimmerman, Mrs. Russell Munce, Mrs. William Murbach and Mrs. J. W. Williams.

Mrs. Felix B. Snowden will be an exhibitor, Mrs. E. J. Frauenheim, Mrs. Charles E. Dinkey, Mrs. Louise M. Packard, Mrs. George Holliday, Mrs. W. H. R. Hilliard, Mrs. Thomas R. Hartley, Miss Mary Waring, Mrs. R. R. Singer, Mrs. Roy H. McKnight and Mrs. R. T. Rossell.

Still others will be Mrs. William Larimer Mellon, Mrs. William McConway, Mrs. T. A. Mellon, Mrs. W. U. Follansbee, Mrs. Edward Pitcairn, Mrs. Louise M. Rogers, Mrs. W. S. McClintic, Mrs. George B. Berger, Mrs. Silas N. Benham, Mrs. Robert Book, Mrs. Grace C. Hooker and Mrs. George P. Rhodes.

Miss Fannie Silverman Marries Goodman Yorkin

Tannehill Silverman, of Dinwiddie street, announces the marriage of his daughter, Miss Fannie Silverman, to Goodman Yorkin, son of Mrs. Anna Yorkin, of Munhall road. The ceremony took place at 10 o'clock Sunday morning in the study of Rabbi B. A. Lichter, who officiated.

A CHIC BLOUSE IS HALF A COSTUME

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE coat and skirt ensemble is one of the most useful and versatile ones that fashion has devised. Whether it is of stalwart stuff intended for hiking or golfing, or of finest velvet and fur, headed for an afternoon out, it is good style and comfort combined if it has been well chosen—and complemented with the proper blouse.

There is a heartening revival of the tunic blouse this winter, the sort of model that transforms the smart long-coated suit into a swell afternoon costume, good for indoors and out.

* * *

SLEEVES of costume blouses are very important, as they are depended upon in the total ensemble to lift it from a shirt-waist outfit to one of more formal uses. Peaks, fins and puffs are all useful decorations for them, and sometimes a neat trick is used in attaching them to the shoulder, such as the lattice work above.

Through the Spyglass

Viewing the New

We've stared through our spyglass until it's a wonder that we aren't entirely glassy eyed. But when our staring brings items like these below, we'll gladly risk growing googly in the eyes! For information on where to find these items, call Grant 6500 and ask for the Spyglass . . . or send a self-addressed stamped envelope.

* * *

Orchidee lace . . . as luscious as it sounds! This is the new dark lace which has a mysterious orchid cast when you look at it one way . . . and which, by the way, all Paris is ranting about for their undies! From what we gather, one isn't a smartser in these parts unless clad in orchidee lace-trimmed panties and such (it being Paris they WOULD go in for something of the kind). But anyway, what we're interested in, is the fact that a store here has the self same undies . . . lace and all . . . as low as $2.95.

* * *

We women love to snuggle—thusly we introduce the new handstamped silk scarfs for women — which, strangely enough, are to be found in a men's department classed as men's handkerchiefs! They're large white silk squares . . . with the gayest array of doggy bow-wows running about helter skelter . . . scotties, terriers, and others whom we love but can't name! Anyway . . . you'll take them to your heart immediately upon laying eyes on them . . . and the scarf (handkerchief) they adorn to your neck! $2.50.

* * *

Follow your nose and you'll come to the cute little nook on a corner where a brand new shop has sprung up like a mushroom (almost overnight) and now promises some of the newest, strangest, and most inspiring perfumes and French toiletries found in town!

There are little spots like it in New York and Paris . . . now WE have one! A trick place where you can pop in and sniff until groggy . . . finding each scent lovelier than the last . . . and the prices SO sensible—50c to $6 (and you know what MOST perfumes cost!)

* * *

The seals which make these startlingly low-priced coats hailed from the North (they're Northern Seals, you see) . . . and apparently they had "lived right," because the pelts are all one could ask in a swagger or full length coat for $49.50! In fact, they're MORE than one expects for such a sum. Besides . . . their present owners think so much of them that they are offering free storage and service on them for 1 year.

* * *

Thrust this new men's magazine at your fond swain! 'Cause it's one of those "mags" which tell a man everything he should know to be smart! Such as what's being worn . . . such as good cartoons, bits of humor, fiction—every bit of which is thoroughly de-bunked reading which appeals to busy round-the-towners! of today! It's 50 cents . . . or $1.50 for four issues.

Intensive Membership Drive Conducted by Needlework Guild

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Pittsburgh Branch of the Needlework Guild of America, which will have its annual ingathering at Calvary Parish House, Shady avenue, on November 15, is conducting an intensive membership campaign.

Every once in a while one runs across somebody who believes that the Needlework Guild is a sewing society. Such, of course, is far from the truth. The object of the Guild is to collect and distribute new (only new) garments and household linens to hospitals, homes and other charities. Once every year each local branch has its ingathering, its only meeting, and at times of local, national or international disasters, special ingatherings are held. Last year the Pittsburgh branch collected and distributed 13,000 articles.

Through the hospitals these garments are given to needy convalescent out-going patients and in the homes and other institutions they are retained for the use of the residents, many of these depending almost entirely on the Guild for their new garments.

The Guild is unique in that it requires no money of its members as dues; two or more new garments or pieces of household linen or a contribution of money constituting membership. Not only women, but men and children as well, belong to the guild, which has junior auxiliaries in many cities. All officers are directors, and anyone may become a director by obtaining contributions from 10 persons and one money-member. The guild is, of course, non-sectarian in membership and is affiliated with the American Red Cross.

Mrs. Anna McQ. Collins is the local president, Mrs. H. C. Bell, secretary, and Mrs. V. H. McClure, treasurer.

At the Allegheny County League of Women Voters' monthly conference on Thursday, October 26, the living cost committee will present Miss Lucy R. Mason, of Washington, executive secretary of the National Consumers' League, as speaker during the luncheon session. The conference takes place in the Congress of Clubs.

* * *

Dr. Max Schoen, of Carnegie Tech, will speak at the first meeting of the fireside group of Junior Hadassah this evening at the home of Miss Ann Bilder, Hays street, East End.

P. T. A. Council To Conduct Institute

A parent-teacher institute will be held by the Pittsburgh Council of Parent-Teacher Associations on October 30, 31, and November 1 in the Board of Education Building.

Mrs. Arthur C. Watkins, secretary of education, National Congress of Parents and Teachers and a member of the faculty of Columbia University, will conduct the intensive three-day institute.

* * *

The sealed program prepared for the Bellevue Round Table yesterday turned out to a beautiful and unusual celebration of the club's twenty-fifth anniversary. Living pictures showing the school girl, the college girl, the graduate, and a "Looking Forward" episode were posed by Janet Metzger, Katherine Garner, Rhea Corby, Ruth Rodgers McCready, Sara Wrenshall and the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Ralph B. Urmy.

Motion pictures of the club members were shown also and as a setting for the pictures there were old fashioned songs sung by the club trio, with Mrs. George MacLeod as accompanist, and musical readings by Mrs. Frank Corby, her daughter, Rhea, accompanying her.

Mrs. John H. Bragdon, of Teece avenue, was hostess.

Le Foyer Francais will hold a "bal masque" as its initial affair of the season in the International Institute, Dithridge street, Saturday evening.

Tuesday Musical Club Honors President With Reception

The Tuesday Musical Club honored its new president, Mrs. David V. Murdoch, at a musicale and beautifully appointed reception in Memorial Hall yesterday afternoon. Receiving with Mrs. Murdoch were Mrs. T. C. Donovan, national board member; the new board members of the club and the past presidents.

A charming musical program was given by Helen Bell Rush Davis, soprano, with Marion Bollinger at the piano, and a chamber music group, composed of Mary Redmond, violin; Charlotte Suliot, viola; Christine Adams Jones, cellist; and Mrs. Harvey Schwab, pianist.

During the reception hours music was provided by Ruth Bowers Gibson, violin; Christine Adams Jones, cello; and Grace Blenko Martin, piano.

At the tables were Mrs. W. C. Dierks, Mrs. James Stephen Martin, Mrs. L. C. Myers, Mrs. William McClay Hall, Miss Adele Reahard, Miss Anne Griffiths, Mrs. D. A. Pitcairn, Mrs. Joseph W. Marsh, Mrs. H. Talbot Peterson, Mrs. T. C. Donovan, Mrs. E. B. Lee, Mrs. A. B. Siviter, Mrs. Charles Johnston Cassity, Mrs. F. F. Rohrer, Mrs. Will Earhart and Mrs. James W. Rickey.

McNair Converts May Appear at Inaugural

By MARK SHIELDS

There is a probability that at tonight's Democratic mass meeting in Frick Training School, Fifth avenue, inaugurating the municipal campaign, some of the recent converts to the candidacy of William N. McNair and his Democratic councilmanic ticket will show themselves.

Mr Shields

That would make their influence somewhat more tangible than is a mere statement, and it would be advantageous to the ticket if some of these men would make speeches.

Should this occur, and should Francis S. Guthrie, especially, appear prominently in the picture, the year 1925 will be recalled, when Mr. Guthrie himself almost was a candidate for Mayor. That was the year in which the Republicans, torn by factional strife, finally called upon W. L. Mellon as an umpire, and the choice for the mayoralty fell upon the late Charles H. Kline, then a judge of Common Pleas Court.

Democrats and Independent Republicans promptly began the discussion of a fusion movement, hoping that to its banner would be drawn some of the organization Republicans who did not relish the Kline candidacy. Mr. Guthrie was selected as the logical foe to Judge Klein, principally because his uncle had been the last Democratic Mayor of Pittsburgh, and had established an enviable record.

Leaders of the Democratic party talked things over with Independent Republicans and left the impression that Mr. Guthrie would not be difficult to persuade. In a meeting which followed, at which Mr. Guthrie was present, there was a general discussion of the whole situation, and Mr. Guthrie was lauded and applauded.

* * *

Belief in Santa Claus Is Perennial

This went on for some time, and then Mr. Guthrie upset the works by a flat refusal to run. He cited the pressure of business.

And, as every one knows, the subsequent campaign was a parade, with Judge Kline an easy winner.

Independent Republicans after they caught their breath began to put what they called two and two together, and some of those engaged in the maneuvers at that time now assert that it was the influence of Mr. Mellon with Mr. Guthrie, the Mellon desire to clear the path for Judge Kline, which resulted in the fiasco. One of them said yesterday that they should have known all the time that this would occur, but belief in Santa Claus is perennial.

At any rate, in the light of the conclusions held by some of the Independents, it would be interesting to see Mr. Guthrie now out fighting a candidate of the Republican party who is approved by Mr. Mellon. It is also interesting to see some of these friends of Senator David A. Reed helping to make things tough for the Senator next year.

And thought about the Senate furnishes a peg on which to hang the story, revived, it is true—but from sources which have more than a shadow of reliability to warrant the revival — that had Senator James J. Davis for any reason been forced out of the Senate his place would have been taken by Gov. Pinchot. This story does not come from the Governor's enemies.

It has been heard before, and there was some reason to scout it a year ago, when Senator Davis was first jeopardized. A resignation by Gov. Pinchot then to accept the Senate seat would have meant leaving the executive office two years ahead of the expiration of his term. That would have subjected hundreds of his appointees to reprisal in the middle of their attachment to the public payroll.

Resignation Would Have Changed Situation

But the situation would have changed had the Governor resigned early next year, at the end of the special session. He would have had that opportunity to create issues for the next statewide primary, when he would have been a candidate—and when he probably will be anyhow. Concessions would have been gained for his appointees, and even if these were not great, there still would be a shorter period in which they would be in jeopardy.

Fulfilment of this plan depended for execution upon Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon. It is understood that the issue never reached a point where it was discussed between the Governor and the Lieutenant Governor. But it is well known, and a matter of political comment throughout Pennsylvania, that the Governor has been for the past two years exceedingly gracious to the second in command.

He has made appointments to high position at the instance of Gen. Shannon, and the latter has admitted a kindly and appreciative feeling toward Mr. Pinchot.

The relation between the two is all the more remarkable when it is recalled that, after the 1930 primary, Mr. Pinchot said Gen. Shannon, as a result of speeches of criticism in that campaign, would not be permitted to enter the Governor's office until the General apologized—a knee bowing of which there is no record.

It all fits into the picture, and may account for the extreme eagerness with which the Governor followed the trial of Senator Davis.

U. S. WINS FIRST TILT IN VOTE FRAUD CASES

Motions of 3 to Quash Indictments Lose In Court

The first skirmish in attacks made upon the legality of indictments returned by the Federal Grand Jury that conducted a probe of alleged vote cheating in the Congressional elections last fall, was won yesterday by the government when Judge F. P. Schoonmaker dismissed motions to quash indictments as to three of the 107 men and women indicted.

The court, after hearing arguments, took under consideration motions for bills of particulars, and on demurrers and a plea in abatement. First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh and Attorney Earl F. Reed, special government prosecutor, opposed the various motions and demurrers. Five defendants figured in the proceedings.

RESERVES DECISION

The court reserved its decision on demurrers and motions for bills of particulars filed by Alderman John J. Verona and John A. Fugassi, of the Board of Mercantile Appraisers, who were represented by Attorneys John E. Evans, Sr., and C. J. Marigotti.

A decision in favor of demurrers filed in behalf of Verona and Fugassi, attacking validity of the statute under which the indictment was brought, would probably affect indictments against other defendants, according to defense attorneys.

In the case against Sam Mattes, real estate clerk of the Board of Assessments and Revision of Taxes, represented by Attorney John Duggan, Jr., the court dismissed a petition to quash the indictment, but reserved its decision on a plea of abatement.

The motions of Attorney John J. McGrath and Burton J. McKee, Mt. Lebanon real estate dealer, for quashing of an indictment and an inspection of testimony before the Grand Jury as to them, were denied.

Attorney McGrath was represented by his brother, Attorney L. P. McGrath.

REQUEST OVERRULED

The latter said Grand Jury record would show that there was no evidence given that justified indictment of his clients. He had subpenaed six members of the Grand Jury, but the court overruled his request to place them on the stand.

Attorney Duggan argued that his client's constitutional rights were violated when he was subpenaed and compelled to testify before the Grand jury and questioned on a matter material to the indictment, without being advised of his constitutional rights.

Medical Men Get Immunization Data

The Allegheny County Medical Society today had a report of a study on the susceptibility to and immunization against scarlet fever conducted with 779 children of various ages as subjects. The report was submitted at a meeting of the society last night in the Schenley Hotel and was heralded as an important contribution to the knowledge of scarlet fever.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 18.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

In order to see what little information I can pick up during these "loco" days, I talk and ask questions of everyone I meet. Yesterday I ran onto a fellow who had hitch - hiked his way out here from New York. Rather dignified looking old bird, but kinder down at the heels.

Will Rogers.

He give me about the most information I have had. He hopes they won't inflate, in fact hopes they announce they will soon go back on gold, then everybody will know what their money is worth, had optimistic hopes of our future, thought too many people, both large and small, looked too much to the government to fix their troubles, and do nothing themselves.

He wasn't sore at the world, and had a good word for everybody. As I let him out of my car to catch a ride with someone else, I asked him his name, said his name was Baruch, Bernard Baruch. So pick up all old men you meet, some of 'em are mighty smart.

Yours,
WILL.

HINT NEW FIGURE IN WESTWOOD 'FIX' CASE

Park Delays Action On Information Against Squire

District Attorney Andrew T. Park today said he was delaying until a later hour the filing of an information against Justice of the Peace James J. Westwood, of McKees Rocks, charging embracery. Park said he wanted to question one more witness who was not available yesterday.

The story of this witness, it was understood, would decide whether the information would be made against Westwood alone, or another man, not thus far identified with the case, would be named as defendant.

Westwood will be charged with attempting to influence members of jury panels last week when he went on trial charged with defrauding the county by collection of nearly $5,000 costs in alleged fictitious cases.

The case was halted by Judge Elder W. Marshall after James Connors, a county truck driver, had been arrested on an embracery charge. Park said Connors confessed, after being arrested, that he had gone to an Oakdale woman, drawn for jury service, and asked her to favor Westwood should she be selected on the jury.

The County Commissioners announced today that Connors had been furloughed until disposition has been made of the charge against him.

Connors, on the county payroll since 1924, was a holdover from the previous administration. He was retained by the present County Commissioners because he was a war veteran. He is married, has four children, and resides in Oakdale.

HUNTER PLAYS SOLOMON ROLE

There was a sudden commotion in the District Attorney's office. A Negro woman and one of those men who talk with their hands as much as with their lips, suddenly entered, talking and gesticulating. Between breaths both said they wanted to see District Attorney Andrew T. Park.

William Collins, major domo without the portal where Park was in conference, ushered them into the office of Assistant District Attorney Ralph H. Hunter. The latter, after much questioning, elicited that the woman had picked up $2 on the sidewalk in front of the courthouse, and the man had demanded it, saying he had dropped it from his pocket. They came to the District Attorney for a decision.

Hunter went back to early English law, deciding that since possession is nine points of the law, and since the woman had the money, it was hers.

When District Attorney Park heard someone later refer to Hunter as a Solomon, he said:

"Nix. Solomon would have taken the two bucks as a fee."

CRUIKSHANK KIN NAMED IN WILL

The will of Frank W. Cruikshank, preserve manufacturer and banker, offered late yesterday for probate, leaves an estate valued at $100,000 principally to his four children.

Mr. Cruikshank, who died last Friday, left only his household effects to his wife, Ella Shannon Cruikshank, explaining that she had been provided for.

Bequests included $1,000 to the Suburban General Hospital and $300 each to the Methodist Episcopal Deaconesses Home and the Salvation Army and $200 to the Volunteers of America. Essie Shay and a nephew, Richard Cruikshank, were given $2,000 each and a niece, Virginia Arnold, $3,000.

He left $1,000 each to his three daughter-in-laws and to his son-in-law. The residue goes to his sons Allan W., Frank and Vinton W. Cruikshank and Mrs. Ruth Emory. Allan Cruikshank was named executor.

Police Arrest Man In Pigeon Theft

Privately investigating the disappearance of 30 homing pigeons from his coops at 7625 Susquehanna street, Frederick Rasch today had caused the arrest of Robert Connors, 29, Negro, of 7449 Finance street, according to East End police.

Rasch told police the reason the pigeons could not live up to their name was because the accused had cooked them into a pigeon pie.

Drys Welcome To Two Daisies Out of the Chain

By ARTHUR (Bugs) BAER

The drys swing one from the floor and claim South Carolina and Utah.

That will be a break in Jim Farley's gin daisy chain.

Jim now has a string of 33 perfectly matched pearls and only requires three more to complete the round trip.

We know that Utah is thoroughly contented with the Great Salt Lake. But what is South Carolina going to drink?

Nobody begrudges the drys' attempt to save two brands from the burning.

We can spare them and welcome. It's a big bonfire.

VAN DYKE HITS MARTIN CLAIM

HARRISBURG, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Warren Van Dyke, Democratic state chairman, said today in a statement that failure to vote for a majority of Republican candidates at next month's election would not jeopardize the voter's right to cast a ballot for that party's candidate next spring.

Answering statements by Gen. Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, within the past two weeks, Van Dyke said a section of the digest of Pennsylvania election laws provides:

"Any person who is registered and also enrolled as a member of a political party may vote the ballot of the said party at the primary or primaries succeeding such registration without being subject to any challenge regarding his party membership."

Van Dyke's statement continued:

"It affords me great pleasure to inform all Republican voters that they can vote the entire Democratic ticket on November 7 and not run the risk of interference from Gen. Martin or any one else when they ask for a Republican ballot at the primary next spring."

Restaurant Owners Make Liquor Plans

Laws regulating the sale of liquor in restaurants similar to those in Canada are being advocated by the Western Pennsylvania Restaurant Association. A committee to seek the enactment of such legislation by the State Legislature was appointed by the restaurant men at a meeting last night in the H. J. Heinz Auditorium, North Side.

BAPTISTS OPEN STATE MEETING

The twenty-sixth annual convention of Pennsylvania Baptists opened today in the Sandusky Street Baptist Church and the First United Presbyterian Church, Union avenue, North Side. Sessions will continue until tomorrow night.

Four meetings preliminary to the official opening of the convention were held in the church yesterday. Speakers were the Rev. M. Joseph Toomey, of Philadelphia, president of the association, who presided; Mrs. Horace Atwood Pyle, of Chester; the Rev. Frederick W. Tomlinson, of Philadelphia, director of the department of education; the Rev. David W. Witte, director of religious education, Pittsburgh, and Miss Pearl Rosser, director of children's work, American Baptist Publication Society.

The sixty-seventh annual meeting of the Ministers' Union of Pennsylvania was held last night. Speakers were the Rev. Max C. Wiant, president of the union, and the Rev. A. C. Archibald, of Columbus.

FLOWER STYLES GO 'MAE WEST'

New flower styles, like fashions in clothes, are going to go Mae West.

The voluptuous movie star, who has revived the ruffles and laces of the Gay Nineties, has popularized again the feminine mode. Flowers, too, fashion arbiters have decreed, must follow the new lines of gowns and coats.

Florists from all over the country applauded when the new styles were shown recently at the convention of the Florist Telegraph Delivery Association in New Orleans, according to Ed Ludwig, Pittsburgh representative.

For example, Tech co-eds, attending the Tech Notre-Dame game this Saturday, will wear their bouquets in a new way—small pom-poms and African daisies tied with plaid ribbon and pinned to their jabots or lapels.

Dresses with high collars and full sleeves, in the Mae West manner, designers point out, leave little room for flowers at the shoulder, and smart women pin them across the waist instead. Then, too, the black dress, so popular this season, needs flowers to brighten it.

Another new flower note is garlands of flowers for the hair. Colonial bouquets for the debutantes now are the fashion.

With an afternoon dress, a tiny bouquet fastens like a huge jewel on the scarf or jabot, or perhaps provides a decorative touch to a pocketbook.

And for the bride there is the bridal "muff" of flowers instead of the usual bouquet.

HARRIS PROBE REPORT BEING PREPARED

New Findings Awaited As Beamish Makes Recommendations

Following closely the report of Richard J. Beamish, Secretary of the Commonwealth, that the county's voting machines can safely be used at the November election, the Harris investigating committee today prepared its recommendations for submission to the County Commissioners tomorrow. The committee expected to meet late today to prepare the report.

Indications are that the Harris committee probably will recommend that the machines be used in only a portion of the city of Pittsburgh and not in the three third-class cities. By doing this the Elections Bureau will be able to give closer mechanical supervision to operation of the machines throughout election day and give the machines a fair trial.

THREE MINOR CHANGES

Beamish in his report yesterday declared that if the county makes three minor changes he sees no reason why the machines cannot safely be used. The elections department mechanics already have corrected these minor defects on the machines now available and will begin work on all the machines to be used, as soon as the machines used in the primary election have been made available.

Beamish recommended that the wedge shield on the upper part of the front of the machine be so placed and fastened to prevent tampering. This was done on a machine demonstrated Monday and B. B. Sklar, vote machine expert, was balked in his attempt to "cheat" by voting more than once for one candidate.

OTHER DEFECTS

The other two defects pointed out by the Beamish committee dealt with the buttons on the machine. When the Beamish committee examined the machines here it was possible to force six votes for Council candidates when only five should be selected. The other defect was that buttons once turned prior to voting, might remain "cocked" and when turned back to neutral, register a vote for that particular candidate.

The elections department also announced that these adjustments on the buttons also can be remedied for election.

Secretary Beamish said that he would withhold his approval of the machines until after the repairs have been made. However, his approval will not have to come before election to have the machines used on that day, election department and county solicitors said.

PRAISE FOR OFFICIALS

All the defects uncovered by the Beamish committee were pointed out to the Harris committee in testimony heard during the last three weeks.

Beamish also stated that he had been informed by Sklar that the last 200 machines manufactured by the Poole Engineering and Machine Company contained defective wedges. He stated he felt this was a matter which should be investigated by the county mechanics. Beamish further praised Director William T. Rees, of the Elections Department, and Chief Mechanic Albert Lauer for their ability and devotion to their duty.

Asks Police Search For Missing Man

When relatives of Jack Rosenbloom, 32, of 5863 Hobart street, failed to hear from him as he had promised when he started Sunday on an automobile trip to New York with five other men, they asked police to institute a search for him. The missing man had promised his relatives to call them Monday. He failed to do so.

Evangelist Junior Lehman will speak on "The Second Coming of Christ" in the Second Presbyterian Church, Eighth street, tonight. At a special meeting Friday night the young evangelist will recite the story of his life.

'Singing Poet' Hikes Here And Speaks His Pieces

Julian Lee Rayford, "the Singing Poet," is in Pittsburgh today.

His name is not known to you? Probably not, for he is one of America's younger poets, still groping somewhat haphazardly to express himself in poetry and sculpture.

And yet James Montgomery Flagg has sent Rayford his portrait as a gift, the tribute of one artist to another.

Rayford hitchhiked his way to Pittsburgh at the invitation of the Bookfellows Library Guild and the Poetry Society of Pittsburgh. Last night, at the home of Mrs. Marie Phillips, 6427 Darlington road, he presented some of his poetry before an audience of 75 persons.

A small private edition is the only printed volume of his poetry. The rest of it fills fat notebooks. Rayford's repertoire includes dozens of lyrics which he has memorized letter perfect.

Now Rayford has begun a new art—sculpture in color relief. On eight huge panels he plans to depict "The Gods of America," beginning with the cartoon for "The Gods of the North American Indians" and ending with "The Gods of Smokestacks."

For somt time he worked with Gutzon Borglum, the mountain sculptor, and concerning Stone Mountain, which Borglum never completed, he says:

"I hope it stands forever as a monument to the stupidity of the people of Georgia."

And as a hitchhiker, he has traveled over 10,000 miles.

1,000 EXHIBITS IN TABLELAND FAIR HERE

Mayor John S. Herron officially opened the second Allegheny Tableland fair this morning at Gimbels with its 1,000 individual exhibits representing the produce of one of America's richest farming sections.

Also taking part in the opening ceremony were Fred J. Reed, of Kingwood, W. Va., president of the Tableland Association, and Jaques Blum, president of Gimbels.

A large group of interested spectators immediately began the rounds of the prize products the finest and the best from eight counties: Fayette and Somerset in Pennsylvania, and Grant, Mineral, Monongalia, Preston and Tucker in West Virginia, and Garret in Maryland.

111-POUND PUMPKIN

Among the exhibits causing unusual comment is a giant pumpkin, weighing 111 pounds. One woman, after looking at it, exclaimed:

"Think of all the pumpkin pies that would make for Halloween!"

A cabbage 3½ feet in circumference, a 20-pound stock beet, and a sweet potato, weighing 3½ pounds, are also attracting attention.

Especially colorful are the apple and canned goods exhibits. Red apples, green apples, sweet and sour, all have their place, as do jarred jellies, preserves, and vegetables.

TABLELAND ART

The display is not limited to farm produce, for a varied exhibit of native art is shown in paintings and in handcrafts. A 100-year-old quilt, embroideries, baskets woven by bedfast Carrie Lyon, of Elk Garden, W. Va., and a hand carved table and chairs, are highlights in this section of the display.

Completing the Tableland Fair are growths of laurel, rhododendron and azalea which attest to the natural beauty of the participating counties.

The fair is to continue through Saturday.

CITY PROTESTS MILL WATER

A protest against the pouring of 1,000,000,000 gallons of black, inky water into the Allegheny River and then into the city's filtration beds will be made today at a conference at Johnstown by two members of the Pittsburgh Bureau of Water.

The discolored water is caused by the paper mills at Johnsonburg, Pa., on the Clarion River. Flowing into the Piney Dam of the Pennsylvania Electric Company near Clarion, the water is let out of the dam at various times in unregulated quanties, it is said.

It is the purpose of James H. Kennon, chief water engineer, and Charles M. Reppert, in charge of filtration for the city, to protest this latest flow of polluted water and see that it is regulated. Kennon said that in a few days the black water will turn the city's drinking water a brownish color and give it a vegetable taste.

State engineers and officials of the Pennsylvania Electric Company are also attending the conference.

BIRD LORE TOLD BY NATURALIST

Jack Miner, famous Canadian naturalist, lecturer and author, showing motion pictures of his Canadian bird sanctuary, opened a series of lectures in the Pittsburgh district last night in Dormont High School.

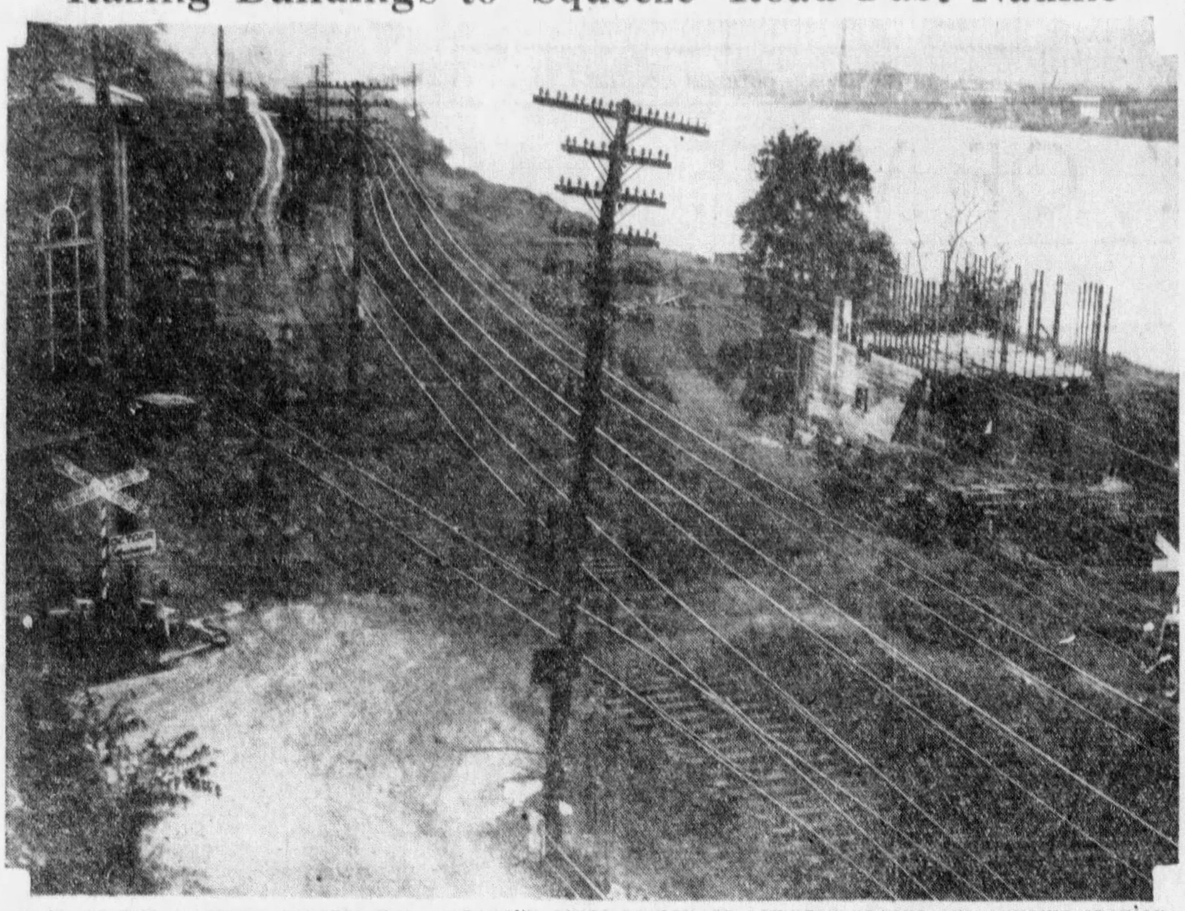
Tonight he talks in Monessen. Tomorrow afternoon he will speak over Radio Station KDKA, and in the evening at the Y. M. and Y. M. H. A., Bellefield avenue, Oakland.

Estate Executor Removed by Court

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Judge A. R. Chase has ordered the removal of H. B. Powell, president of the County National Bank, as trustee and executor of the estate of Thomas H. Forcey.

Powell was directed to turn over to H. L. Forcey, co-executor and co-trustee, all the assets, books and records of the estate.

Razing Buildings to 'Squeeze' Road Past Nadine



START OF THE WORK TO SQUEEZE THE ALLEGHENY RIVER BOULEVARD BETWEEN TRACKS AND PUMPING STATION

The "Nadine bungle"—the bottleneck between P. R. R. tracks and the Pennsylvania Water Company pumping station—relieved at last by negotiations that have started the work of moving the tracks nearer the river, permitting construction of the unbuilt stretch of the highway. Excavating is to start at once and concrete will be laid in the spring. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

MRS. FELIX CONFIDENT

By JOHN P. COWAN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Anne E. Felix, who is contesting the election of Representative Michael J. Muldowney in the Thirty-second Pennsylvania District, appeared with her attorney, John M. Henry, before South Trimble, clerk of the House of Representatives, at the opening yesterday of the sealed testimony in the case.

Representative Muldowney was accompanied by his attorney, B. Robert Averbach.

The testimony will be ordered printed and briefs will be filed by counsel for the contestant and the contestee after which the matter will be submitted to the speaker of the House. Upon his order at the opening of Congress, January next, the case will be submitted to the Committee on Elections. Mrs. Felix, who is making her headquarters at the National Women's Democratic Club, declared that she felt sure of unseating Muldowney.

EINSTEIN FLEES N. Y. WELCOME

International News Service.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 18.—Making no effort to seclude himself, but insisting he will "make no public appearances, grant no interviews nor issue any statements," Prof. Albert Einstein, noted scientist, today prepared to begin his activities at the Flexner Institute of Advanced Study at Princeton University.

The famed physicist and mathematician and Mrs. Einstein were expected to move into permanent quarters today or tomorrow—a small, brown shingle house in the west end of town. In the meantime they were the guests of friends whose identity was not disclosed.

Prof. Einstein came here last evening after he had debarked from the liner Westernland and hurried to Princeton by automobile, leaving a New York City welcoming committee "waiting at the dock."

Originally it had been planned that he would be welcomed by Mayor J. P. O'Brien, of New York, and spend a day there as the guest of the Mayor.

Odd Fellows Lift Ban on Beer Sellers

OMAHA, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Grand Sire James S. Davis, of Tacoma, Wash., said today sellers of 3.2 beer were again eligible for membership in the Odd Fellows' Lodge. He explained an earlier ruling which made them ineligible had been reversed.

Boulevard at Nadine's 'Bottle Neck' Speeded

Temporary Roadway For Winter Use Planned

Losing no time in pushing work so that the Allegheny River boulevard may be opened through the Nadine bottle neck, before the snow flies, the John F. Casey Company has already began tearing down buildings on property which will soon be the new roadbed of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

The buildings, two brick buildings, are owned by the Pennsylvania Water Company and are on property between the present railroad tracks and the river. As soon as the land is cleared the tracks will be moved closer to the river bank and the present railroad bed will become part of the boulevard.

Engineers on the project said that excavation work will be started before the end of the week and will be completed in 90 days. It is expected that a temporary roadway will be open to vehicular traffic this winter and in the spring the concrete will be laid.

The County Commissioners yesterday took steps to repair the "bungle" at the Shades Run Bridge, part of the boulevard. Since the bridge and approaches were constructed, the sidewalk has bulged and the roadbed is puling away from the curbing. The commissioners directed the Planning Commission to recommend ways of repairing the "bungle."

Commissioner C. M. Barr said:

"What we should do is put dynamite under the whole business. Its a shame the county got hooked like it did. Its not the fault of the contractor in this case but the fault lies with the people who planned the bridge and approaches."

The plans were prepared by county engineers of the previous administration.

Khaki Shirt Chief Flees to Hideout

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—(INS.)—Gen. Art Smith, commander-in-chief of the Khaki Shirts of America, was in hiding today, and his attorney admitted his concealment was partly a safety measure.

James P. McGranery, the attorney who surrendered Smith to police on a charge of fraudulently converting some of the furniture at the Khaki Shirt headquarters, averred, however, the general was completing plans for a march of 10,000,000 Khaki Shirts on Washington to proclaim President Roosevelt "dictator," a project already once interrupted by police.

THOMAS FIGHTS FOR MOONEY

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Norman Thomas, New York Socialist leader, said here yesterday he would take the case of Tom Mooney, convicted of participation in the San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing in 1916, directly to President Roosevelt.

Thomas visited Mooney in San Quentin Prison. He said:

"At the first opportunity I will take the Mooney case direct to President Roosevelt and urge that he intercede in Mooney's behalf. His continued confinement is a symbol of the spirit that threatens the world with war and disaster."

Mooney, incarcerated 17 years has steadfastly declared his innocence. He has been denied a pardon and refuses to ask for a parole, which request was made last week by Warren K. Billings, who was convicted with Mooney. Billings is in Folsom Prison.

RANCHER SLAIN, LEFT TO HOGS

DELTA, Colo., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Robert Browning, 45-year-old bachelor, was left dying by his hog pen after his skull had been crushed and his house fired.

His hands and feet were bound with barbed wire. Officers believe his assailants planned to toss him to the hungry hogs. He died en route to a hospital.

Neighbors, seeing his house burning yesterday, rushed to his aid. They found the rancher 200 yards from his burning dwelling. County officers were notified.

Sheriff Ray Lockhart expressed the belief robbery was the motive and that the house was burned to destroy evidence, but believed an inquest might provide some information leading to the apprehension of the assailants. A coroner's jury may be called today.

Pittsburghers Named By Equity Knights

DETROIT, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—John Atkinson, assistant city attorney of Detroit, was elected supreme sir knight of the Knights of Equity in the closing session of the annual convention here.

Other officers include James J. Durning and Edwin C. Barr, both of Pittsburgh. Pittsburgh was chosen as the next convention city.

HEARST STOCK INVESTORS TOP 40,000 MARK

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—Reflecting increasing recognition as a sound and conservative investment, Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., today established a new all-time high record for the number of investors in its Class "A" 7 per cent cumulative participating preferred shares, totaling in excess of 40,000 shareholders.

This record has been achieved in the face of over three years of drastic depression conditions. There has been an average of more than 1,000 new investors monthly added to the stockholders' records of Hearst Consolidated since the initial offering of its preferred shares in July, 1930.

These shares are owned by investors in every state in the union and in England, France, Germany, Switzerland, Scotland, Canada, Newfoundland, Philippine Islands, China, Hawaiian Islands, Alaska, Mexico, Canal Zone, Central America, Virgin Islands, Porto Rico and other parts of the world.

The widespread popularity of Hearst 7 per cent preferred shares is essentially due to the remarkable showing made by the company, especially in sucessfully passing every rigid test of the past four years.

The attractiveness of this security is based upon the substantial earning power during depression times, promptness in paying uninterruptedly, quarterly cash dividends of 7 per cent per annum; the highest income return commensurate with sound investment.

In addition these shares present the highest type of vigorous and able newspaper management and nationwide diversification of these great profit-making properties, plus nearly a half century of steady progress that has placed this organization as the leader of the newspaper industry.

Hearst shares have been in active demand for investment portfolios, because of their attractive yield, diversification of security and proved earning power as best evidenced during the last three years, when net earnings averaged $7,737,217, or 2.21 times dividend requirements for the entire issue of 2,000,000 class "A" 7 per cent preferred shares.

Lieut. Massie Silent On Divorce Rumors

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, husband of Mrs. Thalie Massie, central figure two years ago in assault and slaying case in Honolulu, declined today to discuss reports his wife might seek a divorce.

Lieut. Massie, on duty aboard the U. S. S. Oklahoma, said he did "not care to discuss the report," and added, "it is a matter entirely in the hands of my wife."

'CYCLIST HURT IN CRASH WITH TRUCK DIES

Kirk Holmes, 20, of R. D. No. 2, Elizabeth, was fatally injured when his motorcycle collided with a coal truck in Lovedale Hollow, near Elizabeth, last night, the Coroner's office reported.

Holmes and a companion, Alex Session, 18, of the same address, were hurled 30 feet when the motorcycle, driven by Holmes, collided with the truck. Holmes died in McKeesport Hospital shortly after his leg was amputated. Session's condition was pronounced critical. The driver of the truck was ordered to post bond at the Coroner's office.

Frank Connelley, 38, of 247 Reifert street, Knoxville, was in South Side Hospital today with a possible skull fracture suffered when a truck he was driving crashed into the rear of a Carrick street car at Brownsville road and McKinley avenue last night, police reported. The truck was wrecked.

Mrs. Rose Bectel, 40, of 64 Merritt street, Carrick, a passenger in the car, suffered shock and was treated at a physician's office.

Struck by a police radio car driven by Patrolman Earl Smith in South Fifteenth street late yesterday, Chester Weir, 12, of 1706 Fox way, suffered lacerations. He was taken to South Side Hospital. Police said the boy darted from between two parked automobiles into the path of the radio car.

Charges C.C.C. Meat Imported by U. S.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Prof. H. J. Gramlich, of the Nebraska Agricultural College, today charged that corned beef from the Argentine had been purchased by the federal government to feed C. C. C. camp workers.

Prof. Gramlich said he had it on good authority that the imported meat was used. During the first six months this year, he said, corned beef brought to this country from abroad exceeded by 83 per cent the quantity imported during the same period a year ago.

New Optimism Seen By Marie Dressler

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Marie Dressler, film star, returned home last night after a visit in New York and Washington, and said she had found a "new optimism and spirit of sacrifice" throughout the country.

Miss Dressler visited with the President in Washington.

INVESTIGATORS OF POOR BOARD TO GET PAY

Attorneys E. H. Wicks, P. E. Hutchison and G. M. McDonald, who served as the board of visitation while compiling a report on the Allegheny County Poor Board, will be glad to know that the County Commissioners have finally approved their bills, amounting to $4,107.

The Commissioners yesterday also approved the $120 bill of Attorney John O. Wicks, who represented the other three attorneys in litigation.

Judge James H. Gray appointed the three men to check the operations of the poor board. He ordered the county to pay their bill. The county refused.

The attorneys sought a court ruling, but it was adverse. They appealed to Superior Court, which upheld Judge Gray and said the county should pay. The county sought an appeal to the State Supreme Court but was refused.

Chairman C. C. McGovern, informed of the Supreme Court's attitude, inquired:

"What about taking it to the kangaroo court?"

Commissioners C. M. Barr and W. D. Mansfield voted to pay the bills, with McGovern opposing. Then Barr proposed to bill the poor board for the amount. He was supported by McGovern, with Mansfield voting negatively.

Asking Divorce

MRS. EDWARD M. BIDDLE

M'GRATH, UNION CHIEF, DIES

Patrick J. McGrath, 60, fourth international vice president of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes of America, and financial secretary and treasurer of Division No. 85, in Pittsburgh, for 28 years, died late yesterday in St. John's Hospital. His home was at 1527½ Davis avenue, North Side.

He was born in Wales, and for more than 30 years had been active in labor union activities in Western Pennsylvania. He was a prominent figure in the street car strikes of 1909 and 1919.

Mr. McGrath was a member of St. Xavier's Catholic Church, was president of the Holy Name Society of the parish, and secretary of the church committee, and a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Besides his wife he leaves a son, Attorney Lawrence F. McGrath, attorney for the State Workmen's Insurance Fund; two brothers, Michael and Mortimer McGrath, and a sister, Mrs. Margaret Murphy.

GARBAGE ACTION FRIDAY HINTED

Councilman Frank L. Duggan and Dr. William W. McFarland, director of health, today were collecting data on garbage and rubbish disposal in other cities in preparation for letting Pittsburgh's 1934 contract.

Dr. McFarland late yesterday announced he and Councilman Duggan likely will have "an important announcement to make Friday."

In Council's Health Committee, of which Duggan is chairman, is an ordinance providing for a long-term contract, such as has been advocated by civic and business organizations, which believe it would attract more bidders and better rates than one for a short period.

WOMAN, 100, NO 'GADABOUT'

SOUTH FORK, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—No "gadabout," Mrs. Lavina Varner is observing her one hundredth birthday anniversary today by staying home—just as she has throughout most of her century of life.

Puffing away at her favorite clay pipe, she told birthday greeters she has spent all her life in an area of 20 miles and has never had a train ride of more than seven miles.

She says she has no recipe for longevity, unless it might be quiet living—quiet living just now at the home of her "oldest boy," Gilliam, who is 76.

Born at Stoyestown, Somerset County, Mrs. Varner has spent all her life in Somerset and Cambria counties; has never been south of Stoyestown, east or north of South Fork, nor west of Johnstown—that seven-mile train ride was from South Fork to Johnstown.

Two Shot to Death As Romance Ends

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Miss Lillian Wells, 31-year-old bank employe, and Sam J. Cleeton, 36, were found shot to death in a hotel where police said Miss Wells told friends she was going to meet the former Kansas City attorney and end their friendship.

BIDDLE'S WIFE SEEKS DIVORCE

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Socially prominent Nannie Hope Dale Biddle, of Philadelphia, who sought adventure in Alaska's trackless wastes two years ago, is in Reno seeking a divorce.

She filed suit yesterday against Edward M. Biddle, charging cruelty.

In December, 1931, the young society matron created a sensation by leaving her three young children and setting out from New York to spend a winter "roughing it" in Alaska.

During her sojourn there was snowbound several days in an isolated cabin, and although an attempt was made to rescue her by plane, she spurned the rescuers. She finally returned to civilization by dog team.

On her arrival home, she was both acclaimed for her daring and criticized for leaving her children, the youngest, Richard Dale Biddle, failing to recognize her.

Mrs. Biddle has been away from home most of the time since then, but it was not until two weeks ago that it became known she had separated from her husband.

The Biddles were married at Bryn Mawr, Pa., in May, 1922.

$15,000 Verdict For Truck Injury

A Common Pleas Court jury yesterday awarded a $15,000 verdict to James W. Linton, of Wilkinsburg, in his suit against the Ideal Towel, Coat and Apron Company.

Linton testified he suffered a leg farcture when hit by one of the company's trucks at Tunnel street and Fifth avenue. He sued for $50,000.

SLEUTHS SEIZE DOPE IN 'CHEW'

Two alleged drug addicts were arrested in the Hill district last night, one after he was forced to "cough up" a narcotic.

Bob, alias Ben Miller, 43, who said he lived in Main street, Sharpsburg, popped the contraband drug into his mouth along with his chewing tobacco at the approach of Detectives Walter Kaiser and Edward Bailey, the officers reported. They made him disgorge and seized the "chew" as evidence.

The other suspect was docketed as Margaret Carter, 38, of 817 Anaheim street. The detectives reported she bought the drug on a government permit with Miller's money and shared with him. Both prisoners were taken to Mercy Hospital and will face arraignment in police court later.

Author of Mystery Stories Found Dead

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Foxhall Daingerfield, 46, author of several popular mystery stories, was found dead yesterday in a field at Haylands, a thoroughbred farm, near here. A bullet wound, believed by authorities to have been self-inflicted, caused his death.

Daingerfield was the author of "Ghost House" and "Murder in the Gay Nineties."

PLANE RUNWAYS TO BE EXTENDED

Seeking an advanced rating for the County Airport, the County Commissioners have outhorized bids on extension of the runway. One will be extended 1,600 feet, the other 900 feet.

County engineers estimate the cost of the fill at $52,000. Slag will cost $20,000, and labor more than $12,000.

The Union Railroad tracks must be moved at a cost of $19,500, but there will be a salvage value of $16,000, making the actual cost of the track job $3,500.

The runway extension will make possible an AA-1 rating for the airport.

The commissioners also directed bids be asked on moving two hangars from Rodgers Field to the County Airport, making it the base for the local bombardment squadron. Cost of moving the hangars is estimated at $15,000.

TARTANS DRILL ON DEFENSE AGAINST IRISH PLAYS

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Clairton Lad With Irish. | Familiar Faces Missing. | Cissell in Showdown Spot. | Gridder of 1927 Returns. | Coach Takes Defeat Blame. | Revival of Heston Glory.

NOTRE DAME TEAM GIVEN COUNTY TOUCH

The first Allegheny County color seen on a Notre Dame football team in a long time will be presented in the big game at the Stadium Saturday, with Kenneth Stilley appearing in the Irish lineup against Carnegie Tech. Stilley's home is in Clairton, and his early gridiron experience was gained at fullback for Clairton High School. At Notre Dame he was converted into a lineman, and he has come along so fast that, though only a sophomore, he is first replacement at left tackle for the famous Ed Krause, having forged ahead of such other candidates for the post as Dick Pfefferle, a letter man, and Carl Esser and Cary DeVry, sophomores who came up from Illinois prep schools. Stilley started the Indiana game last Saturday with the shock troops.

Kenneth Stilley

The only other tri-state district players on the Notre Dame squad are Al Costello, of Akron, O., a right halfback, and Reyman Bonar, of Bellaire, O., a quarterback, both of whom were members of the 1932 reserves.

Graduation has erased many familiar names from the Irish roster since Hunk Anderson's gridders played here last year. The players to depart were Capt. Paul Host and Ed Kosky, ends; Joe Kurth and Mike Liding, tackles; Jim Harris, Norm Greeney and Bill Pierce, guards; Ben Alexander, center; Chuck Jaskwhich, Laurie Vejar and Emmett Murphy, quarterbacks, and Mike Koken and Joe Sheeketski, halfbacks. Add a fullback, and you could construct from the players Notre Dame has lost since last season a team that any college would be glad to call its own.

RYAN CROSSES EVEN RECEPTION COMMITTEE

Blondy Ryan, Giant shortstop and sparkplug, made himself one of the hardest players to figure during the baseball season by doing unexpected things, such as making basehits when the opposing pitcher had him tabbed as a soft spot in the batting order, and coming up with ground balls which nobody thought he could reach. In the World Series, when he couldn't get hold of the ball in time to make a throw, he showed the experts a new kind of play by just batting the ball over to Hughey Critz with his hand.

Ryan didn't stop when the season ended. He even crossed up the reception committee that had arranged a big welcome to him in his home town of Lynn, Mass. Instead of going along with the program, Blondy blew into town unexpectedly, ahead of time. He caught them all napping, so the committee had to change its plans, and instead will give Ryan a great send-off when he leaves for training camp in February.

LAST CHANCE FOR COSTLY PLAYER TO STICK

American League fans are speculating as to whether the latest shift of Chalmer Cissell, traded to the Red Sox by the Indians last week for Pitcher Lloyd Brown, will have any effect toward helping the infielder to live up to his early reputation. Discarded first by the White Sox, and a bust all this year in Cleveland, Cissell will get in Boston his last chance to stick in the majors.

Chalmer Cissell

This player's disappointing career shows the chances the big league clubs take in paying huge prices for minor league stars. To obtain Cissell after the 1927 season the Chisox had to pay Portland $75,000 in cash and players valued at $48,000 additional. He never hit better than .280 for the Pale Hose, and early in 1932 they traded him to Cleveland for Bob Seeds and Johnny Hodapp. Now Cleveland is glad to pass him along. Singularly, both Seeds and Hodapp, the players for whom Cissell first was traded, also are now with the Red Sox and will be Chalmer's teammates.

GRIDDER COMES BACK AFTER FIVE YEARS

Football players who returned to college gridirons after being out as long as two years have been considered rare exceptions, but the University of Detroit, which plays the Dukes at Forbes Field Friday night, reports a probable all-time record-breaker in that respect. Louis Becker, a tackle, came out for the team this fall after an absence of five seasons.

Becker played tackle for Detroit in 1926-27, winning a letter the second year. Then he dropped out of school and went to work, apparently satisfied to forget about the diploma and the third year of varsity football for which he was eligible. But when practice started this fall, there was Becker back again among the candidates, prepared to put a belated finish to his long abandoned college career.

MADIGAN TAKES BLAME FOR TEAM'S DEFEAT

Slip Madigan, former Notre Dame star guard now coaching at St. Mary's in California, where Ang Brovelli played before coming to the Pittsburgh pros, has been an unusual coach in more than one respect. Now he has made himself notable in another direction in which he is not likely to have much opposition, by taking the entire blame for a defeat suffered by his team in the game preceding last Saturday's 14-to-7 reverse at the hands of Southern California.

After leading, 13 to 0, St. Mary's was beaten out by California, 14 to 13. In a message to Edwin Dooley, eastern football critic, Madigan wrote: "In an effort to conserve our first team for the University of Southern California game to follow, I personally lost the California game by withdrawing the players from the contest when they were ahead 13 to 0 in the first quarter." There's a public confession that will not be tied soon for courageous honesty and frankness.

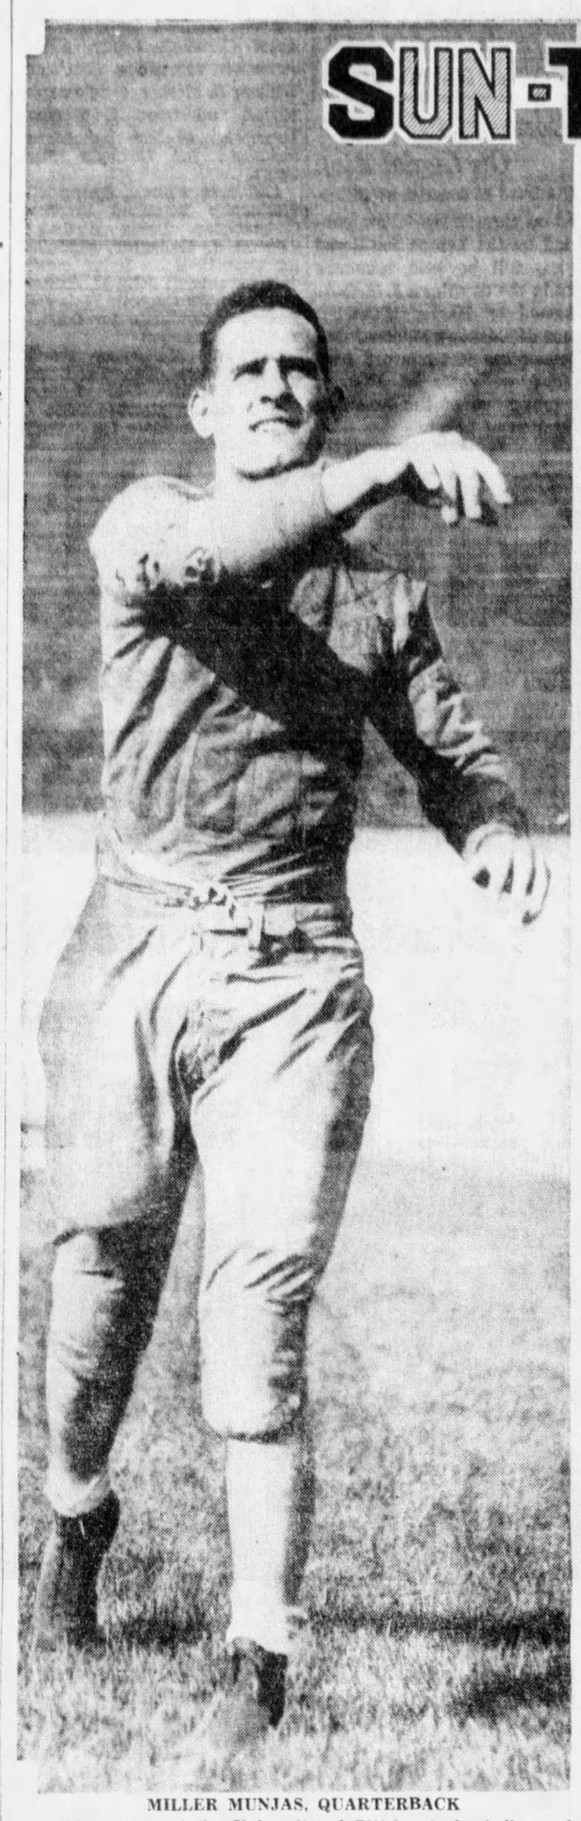
ANOTHER HESTON AT LAST SHINES ON GRID

After all, football history is not to be without another brilliant Heston chapter. When Willie Heston, Jr., oldest son of the all-time all-America back of three decades ago, failed on the Michigan team and turned in his suit, it was thought the famous family football line would not shine again. But Michigan now has new hope. Jack Heston, the second oldest son of the original star, is coming through with a vengeance on the Wolverine team. Perhaps he won't duplicate his father's deeds—it is doubtful if even the once great Willie himself could do it in these days of much stronger opposition and more equal competition—but at least he is said to be headed for unusual heights.

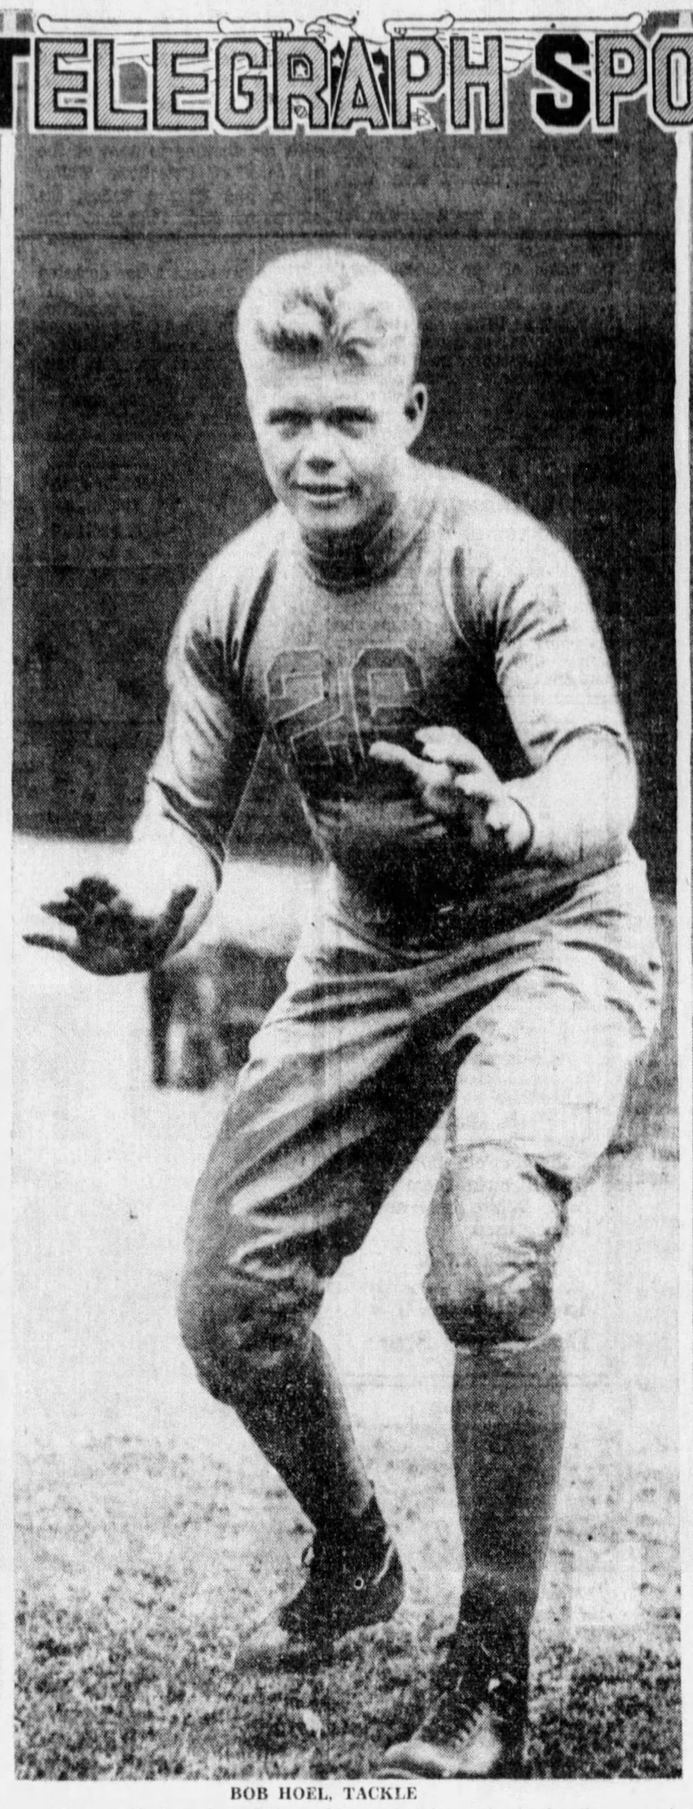
Jack Heston

The new Heston is pronounced the hardest fighting back on the Michigan squad, the hardest for tacklers to stop, because he never stops trying. He is absolutely reckless of his body, and runs with the same disregard of self as marked his father's play in the old days. The youngster has the speed to evade most tacklers, and the build and the power to crash right on past others.

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS



MILLER MUNJAS, QUARTERBACK



BOB HOEL, TACKLE

HENRY WEISENBAUGH, FULLBACK

Three stars of the University of Pittsburgh football squad who have been working on the first team this week and are likely to displace regulars for the start of the battle with Minnesota at Minneapolis Saturday. It is significant that it was in the fourth game of the season last year, with Army, that Hoel was displaced at tackle by Frank Walton. Now he is in line to take Meredith's post at left tackle in the fourth game of this year. Munjas and Weisenbaugh have been pushing Bob Hogan and Izzy Weinstock all season for starting berths. DUKES STRIVE TO MAINTAIN FAST PACE

If the Dukes can maintain the winning stride and spirit which has kept them ahead of the East's major teams in victories thus far, they should take Detroit Friday night.

But the third week in October always has been the time for unfortunate let-downs in Duquesne teams of the past. It is for that reason that considerable speculation is rife on the campus concerning football work this week.

Elmer Layden, the Dukes' head coach, bars everyone from the practice field and the rule is being enforced even more stringently this week. If this were not so Layden would have the campus bleachers lined with interested spectators every afternoon. The students, alumni and other fans want to know "what is Layden doing about Detroit in there?"

DUKES WORKING HARD

What the Duquesne coach is doing about Gus Dorais' Titans is plenty. In fact, Layden says it will have to be plenty. He is corroborated in these statements by Joe Bach and Buff Donnelli, who scouted the Titans in their game against Wash-Jeff.

Neither team is taking anything for granted this week. The Titans are giving it added emphasis by arriving here a day early. Dorais will bring his squad to Pittsburgh early tomorrow and has arranged for a night workout under the Forbes Field lights.

GAME IS PRIZE

Friday's game definitely is prized by both clubs. Representing leading Catholic universities and marking the second time the Dukes and Titans have met (the first game having been played in 1922) the teams will offer a standout attraction for the night football fans.

The regular Duquesne team is slated for action this week, including Art Strutt at right halfback, the Dukes' best bet as a ball-carrying threat; Al DeLuca, passer and short-run specialist; Sil Zaninelli, line-plunger and punter, and Frank DeCoster, the wily little quarterback.

Watching Douglas Nott, the Titan triple-threat left halfback is to be the big Duke chore this weekend. And Nott will have the assistance of the biggest line Detroit has ever had.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Was Coach Hard Hat Howard Harpster, of the Carnegie Technicians, burning up yesterday, when he read that his fellow scribe, Hunk Anderson, coach of Notre Dame, was picking the Irish to lose to Tech here Saturday? . . . He's thinking of enlisting the aid of the sports writers to help him upset Hunk's own dope . . . You'll remember that Hunk said it was the Pittsburgh scribes who played the best game for Pitt in the Panthers' victory over the South Benders last year? . . . He said, in effect, that his team ate up "bear" stories about Pitt's poor condition and then went out on the field and just simply felt sorry for Pitt and let Pitt win . . . It may have been so, but I dunno.

Well, there's a way for Tech's four-letter man—the only HHHH man in the Plaid's history, incidentally—Hard Hat Howard Harpster to get even with his fellow-newspaper slave, but he won't do it. . . . Elsewhere in this section you'll read his screed about what a tough game it's going to be Saturday, etc, etc., etc. . . . What he ought to say (and we'll say it for him) is something like this:

"Tech win? . . . You're darn tootin' Tech'll win. . . . Who's this Notre Dame, anyway? . . . Just another setup. . . . Those Irish can't beat Tech . . . Now, that Xavier game, last Saturday—that WAS something. . . . But Notre Dame? . . . Just a breather. . . . Just a breather, that's all. . . . We are pointing to the W. & J. game of next week." . . . That's what he ought to write to make good reading and give the fans a jingle or two, but he won't do it. . . . The poor fellow has fallen into the same rut as the fans and is predicting a tough fight, with the other team winning. . . . He doesn't even realize that he has two strikes on the Notre Dame coach to begin with, with his four H's against only two for Hunk Handerson.

Story from Annapolis says half of the Navy players are banged up after the game with Pitt here . . . Which half—Chung Hoon, or the other half? . . . The Detroit team that plays the Dukes at Forbes Field Friday night is not the one for which Charley Gehringer plays second base . . . This is a good team . . . The National A. A. U. cross-country run will be staged in Chicago, October 28 . . . Carnegie Tech is planning to enter its halfbacks, who haven't scored from anywhere inside the 25-yard line so far this season . . . All they do is gallop . . . When they get inside the 25, they go back to get a new start and then follow the road signs to the goal line.

Just how good a fullback Izzy Weinstock, of Pitt, happens to be may be judged from the fact that so far he's been able to keep Heinie Weisenbaugh, the Tarentum Flash, out of a regular job . . . Heinie showed so much stuff when he got into the game against Navy that he'll probably start against Minnesota Saturday, and, with the pair of them alternating, the last thing in the world Coach Jock Sutherland has to worry about is a fullback.

They had Moran and Mack acting as judges at the Moose Temple boxing show the other night—Mike Moran and Jimmy McCoy . . . Bill Donohoe, co-hero with Howard Harpster of that 1926 victory by 19 to 0 over Notre Dame at Forbes Field, now is coaching Central Catholic High School . . . Edmund Powell, of the Dukes, is a brother of Tiny Powell, the former Davis and Elkins end and heavyweight boxer, who is trying to catch on with the Pittsburgh Pirates, after having started the season with Cincinnati . . . A letter awaits Col. William Dunn, the well-known custodian of boxing gloves, at this office . . . And Lurid Lew Raymond, the boxing promoter, is back from that dear Detroit.—HARRY KECK.

Berlenbach Refused New Ring License

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(INS.)—The New York State Boxing Commission has refused to grant a boxing license to Paul Berlenbach, former light-heavyweight champion of the world.

Jim Browning, recognized in this state as wrestling champion, filed a signed contract with the board through Promoter Jack Curley to meet Jim Londos for the world's championship at any date. Browning also agreed to accept the challenger's end of the gate.

Ripley's Believe It Or Not cartoon appears today on page 24.

HUNK NOT SET ON LINEUP FOR GAME HERE

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Developments here have made Coach Hunk Anderson undecided whether to start Notre Dame "shock troops" Saturday against Carnegie Tech. Dummy scrimmage against Tech pass plays revealed many weaknesses.

Anderson shifted John Young to left halfback and Joe Sullivan to left tackle yesterday. They replaced Bill Shakespeare and Ed Stilley.

Western Briefs

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—(AP.)—The Illinois varsity squad settled down to hard work yesterday and went through a lengthy scrimmage during which they worked against offense and defensive tactics of the Army eleven. Capt. Herm Walser returned to the squad after being out for a few weeks because of injuries.

COLUMBUS.—(AP.)—Ohio State's regulars went through a pass defense practice yesterday, competing in a short drill against a freshman team garbed in copies of Michigan's uniforms and armed with Michigan's plays. The drill again was secret, but J. L. Reston, the publicity link between newsmen and the team, said the regulars did not show so well.

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—(AP.)—For the first time in years outsiders will be barred from the Wolverine football drill this afternoon as Coach Harry Kipke perfects his strategy for the Ohio State game Saturday. The gates of Ferry Field will be locked even against newspapermen.

Pirate Club Seeks Good Replacements

President Art Rooney, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has begun negotiations with two clubs of the National Professional Football League for the purchase of at least two players of top grade to help out the crippled locals, due mainly to the injuries of Angelo Brovelli and Tony Holm.

Neither Brovelli nor Holm was able to play in the game at Green Bay last Sunday and it is doubtful whether either will be able to accompany the team to Cincinnati for the game next Sunday with the Reds.

The Pirates will continue to practice in Greenlee Field daily until Saturday morning, when they will depart for Cincinnati.

Tiny Powell, who played end for Cincinnati last week and has since been released, was in town yesterday seeking a tryout with the Pirates. He is a former Davis Elkins star and played a good game against the locals last week.

Former Captains Pledge Support To Harman

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Twenty-five men of the gridiron—captains of University of Pennsylvania football teams from 1885 to the present, gathered round a banquet board last night and pledged support of Coach Harvey Harman's regime.

The oldest of the leaders of Quaker teams at the banquet, given in Harman's honor by the Alumni Society was Paul Thompson, captain of the '85 eleven, and the youngest was Roy Engle, center on the 1933 squad.

Nine of them were all-America nominees in their day.

COCHRANE NEW TIGER PILOT

DETROIT, Oct. 19.—(INS.)—Gordon S. (Mickey) Cochrane, catcher on the Philadelphia American League club, will be the next manager of the Detroit Tigers, it was learned on reliable authority today.

The information could not be officially confirmed, however, as neither Frank Navin, president of the Detroit club, nor Charles F. Navin, secretary, could be reached.

Mickey spent last Saturday and Sunday in Detroit conferring with Tiger officials. The local club has been angling for him for some time. Cochrane not only can act as manager, but also take over the catching job. The Tigers long have sought a good catcher.

MACK SURPRISED

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—(INS.)—Connie Mack, venerable manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, today expressed surprise over reports from Detroit that his star catcher, Mickey Cochrane, has been signed as manager by the Detroit Tigers. He said:

"It's all news to me. As far as I know now, Cochrane will be with the A's in 1934."

Pitt Track Meet Scheduled Today

Weather permitting, a university track and field meet will be held for Pitt students at the Stadium late this afternoon. The Pitt cross-country team meets Miami University, of Ohio, over the Schenley Park course Saturday morning.

STEWART ABLE TO WORK OUT WITH TEAM

Concerning themselves but little as to whether Coach Hunk Anderson starts his Notre Dame shock troopers or regulars against them in the Pitt Stadium on Saturday, Carnegie Tech's Tartan gridders are seeing to it these days that which ever array gets the call for the Irish, also will get plenty of trouble.

The Plaid mentors are somewhat handicapped by the fact that a number of the star performers are being forced to take it easy in the preparatory drills. Bunny Burzio and his strained back were on the sidelines yesterday, but Capt. Red Stewart was able to run through signals, and Clyde Heinzer, injured in the Temple game and out of the lineup against Xavier, was back on the first eleven.

PITT LEAVES TONIGHT

Coach Harpster is anxious to get as much weight into his lineup as possible, for at best, the locals will give away pounds per man to the Notre Dame.

Tartan scouts have taken great pains to impress the boys with the fact that in Pilney and Elser, the Irish backfield the Techs will be facing tough hombres. Both are big and fast and hard hitters. Elser, especially, is a hard man to stop, for he has the stride of a sprinter, and the speed, too, along with 215 pounds of bulk.

A light scrimmage yesterday just about completed the rough work for the game.

Tonight, Pitt's varsity squad will entrain for Chicago and its first stop en route to Minneapolis and the game with Minnesota on Saturday. The Panthers will visit the Century of Progress tomorrow, drill at Stagg Field and then leave tomorrow night for the Minnesota metropolis.

MAY SHIFT LINEUP

It is possible that Coach Sutherland will make some changes in his starting lineup. Miller Munjas may get the call over Hogan at center and Weisenbaugh may play fullback in the place of Izzy Weinstock, who has a slightly bruised leg. Hoel is pressing Meredith hard for the left tackle job.

The Panthers will leave Minneapolis at 9 o'clock Saturday night and will arrive back home at 8:30 o'clock Sunday evening.

DUKE, GEORGIA DIXIE GRID SURPRISES

ALEXANDER'S CHOICES

Auburn over G. Washington.
Florida over N. Carolina.
Georgia over Mercer
Georgia Tech over Tulane.
Kentucky over W. & L.
Alabama over Tennessee.
Vanderbilt over Miss. State.
Maryland over V. M. I.
Navy over Virginia.

By W. A. (BILL) ALEXANDER,
Member, All-America Board of Football.
(Registered U. S. Patent Office.)

Dope exploded with a bang the past Saturday games in the Southern and Southeastern Conferences.

Tennessee, ruling favorite to win the Southeastern crown and considered by all the experts as having the premier team in the whole South, met unexpected defeat at the hands of the Duke University Blue Devils. Wallace Wade put an inspired team on the field, and the best efforts of the great Tennessee backs, Brackett and Feathers, were of no avail. This result as a whole was extremely popular over the South, as some of the Tennessee rooters were becoming a little too noisy over their continued success.

Bill Alexander

The defeat should prove a tonic to the Tennessee players, but I rather favor Alabama to take them in their game Saturday. The first defeat in three years leaves a team so shocked that it rarely recovers in one week. Alabama has a big, powerful team that has been having trouble, but seems to have found itself last Saturday in its 18-to-0 win over Mississippi State.

AUBURN STOPPED

Georgia Tech upset the championship Auburn team of last year for its first loss in 14 starts. Auburn gained all the ground, but Tech gained the points. The result of this game makes Georgia Tech favorite over Tulane Saturday.

In intersectional games the South did not fare any too well. Ohio State defeated the plucky sophomore team from Vanderbilt, 20 to 0; Yale beat Washington and Lee, 14 to 0, and Virginia did well to hold Columbia, 15 to 6. From these results it looks as if Virginia will drop another to the Navy this week.

The University of George continued to show great strength by walloping the University of North Carolina, 30 to 0, at Chapel Hill. In its last three starts the Red and Black from Georgia has scored 20, 26 and 30 points against North Carolina State, Tulane and North Carolina, and from this angle it appears as if Georgia is the dark horse in the South this year.

GEORGIA IMPRESSIVE

If they continue to improve it is not beyond reason to see them winning from Mercer, N. Y. U., Florida, Yale, Auburn and Georgia Tech in their ensuing engagements. The backfield of Key and Grant at halves, Chapman at full and Griffin at quarter is one of the best ever developed in Athens.

In the Southwest, Texas was disappointing in losing to Oklahoma. The Texas Aggies and Texas Christian University look the best out, that way now.

Duke, in its defeat of Tennessee, accomplished another good thing in that some of the folk in Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee had the idea that the Carolinas could not put out good football teams. A Tar Heel given an even chance can play football along with the best of them.

TIGERS DRILL ON OFFENSE

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 18:—The Princeton varsity tried out its intricate system of offense for the Columbia on a muddy field in a half hour scrimmage yesterday with the freshmen. No score was kept, but the regulars ripped off several good gains while keeping the yearling backs bottled up.

Kats Kadlic, regular quarterback who has been injured, called signals for the first time in three weeks.

Eastern Briefs

NEW YORK.—In another secret drill, Columbia's "A" and "B" team went through an offensive dummy scrimmage against the freshmen yesterday. Coach Lou Little made two changes in the varsity backfield, sending Frank Chippendale in at the halfback post held by Al Barabas and returning Sam Maniaca to fullback, where Otto Schwartz replaced him Monday.

ITHACA, N. Y.—Bob Grant alternated with Walt Switzer in the Cornell backfield as the Big Red went through a short scrimmage between the first and second teams in preparation for Saturday's game, but at the end Switzer appeared to have the call.

HAMILTON, N. Y.—Andy Kerr, Colgate coach, lined up his revamped forward wall to be used against New York University for the first time yesterday. Capt. Winnie Anderson and Bogdanski were at ends, Lew Brooke and Charley Wasicek at tackles, Bus Blum and Joe Pasquale at guards and Glen Peters at center.

NEW YORK.—New York University's Violets had little trouble checking the Colgate aerial attack as put on by the freshmen. Three sophomores, Siegel, Smith and Machlowitz were in the varsity backfield along with one senior, Albee.

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Rain limited Yale's outdoor work to a brief limbering-up drill. Most of the time was devoted to blackboard work by the coaches.

PHILADELPHIA. — Pennsylvania's coaches laid much stress on timing as the Quakers had a dummy scrimmage and signal drill in preparation for meeting Dartmouth. Paul Stofko was returned to tackle after a tryout in the backfield and John Lima was given the fullback post.

HANOVER, N. H. — Three Dartmouth elevens went through a long signal drill in the rain. All three backfields were tried, but Coach Jack Cannell hinted that George Stangle, Jack Hill, Jack Kenny and Harry Deckert would be the starters.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Harvard's freshman team, drilled in the Notre Dame style of attack, gave the varsity a taste of what it may expect from Holy Cross in a stationary scrimmage. Coach Eddie Casey appeared satisfied with the showing of the regulars.

What IS good gasoline... What MAKES it good... And WHY Blue Sunoco is superior...

What IS Good Gasoline?

A good gasoline must be QUICK STARTING, give FAST ACCELERATION and LONG MILEAGE, possess KNOCKLESS POWER and Burn Clean. Any good gasoline must depend upon the precise balancing and blending of these qualities.

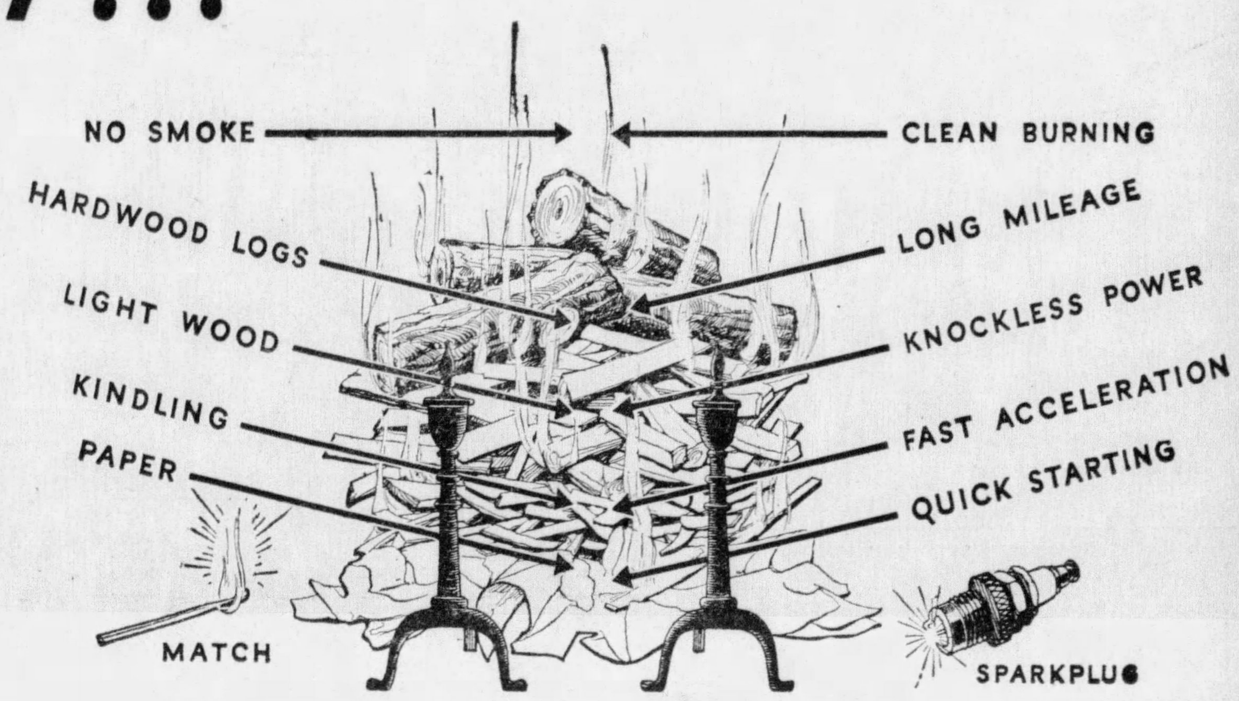
But a gasoline must not contain harmful gum, which causes sticky valves, dirty spark plugs and other engine troubles; must not contain any harmful sulphur compound or other corrosive substance. And it must not be unstable, changing its form between the time it is manufactured and the time that it reaches you.

What MAKES It Good?

Gasoline is a liquid composed of only two elements, Carbon and Hydrogen. However, these two elements are present in a great number of combinations, called Hydro-Carbons.

The chief difference in these Hydro-Carbons is in their volatility (the ease with which they evaporate), in the speed with which they burn, and in the heat units produced by their burning. The very "light" parts (those which evaporate readily at low temperatures) are necessary for quick starting. Rapid acceleration depends upon other slightly heavier parts which are sufficiently volatile to distribute themselves evenly and quickly to all cylinders, and sufficiently heavy to burn powerfully. Knockless performance depends upon the speed with which Hydro-Carbons burn. If they burn too quickly they cause knocking. Power and mileage result from other and heavier Hydro-Carbons.

Good gasoline is made by the combinations and proportions of Hydro-Carbons in such a way that the finished motor fuel will produce the ideal performance for which your motor was designed.



Gasoline must be built literally like a well-laid fire in your fireplace. A complete, perfectly proportioned assembly of Hydro-Carbons, ranging from the very lightest, quick-firing portions to the very heavy units laden with power, must be present. They must be there for the same reason that swift-burning paper or shavings, kindling and light wood must be used to set afire the great logs which throw out long-lasting heat.

And WHY Blue Sunoco is Superior!

Although a refiner may have the skill, knowledge and determination to make the finest motor fuel, still the excellence of gasoline depends largely upon a mechanical factor—namely, the accurate control of heat and pressure in the refining process.

Sun Oil Company engineers have developed certain exclusive features that make possible an accuracy of control that we believe is not duplicated by any other petroleum refiner.

As a result, Hydro-Carbons are combined in a manner best suited to give Blue Sunoco its recognized balanced superiority in the four all-important qualities:—Quick Starting, Rapid Acceleration, Knockless Power and Economical Mileage.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: STRANGE FATE OF AN ICE SITTER—The ice-sitting contest was held in the White City Casino, Chicago, and lasted 27 hours and 10 minutes from July 29 to July 31, 1933. Previously all of the contestants were examined by a trained nurse and their temperatures were found to be normal. But, after sitting on ice for 26 hours, Gus Simmons, one of the contestants, was found to have developed a temperature of 102 degrees and was immediately disqualified. THE CENTENARIAN'S NEW TEETH—Mrs. Harriet Breedlove, who is 102 years old and has been traveling as a missionary for the Mount Maria Holiness Church for 27 years, can well remember when she was a slave on the plantation of Charles McLure, of Spartanburg, N. C., less than 70 years ago. After the Civil War she settled with her husband on a little farm on Bay's Mountain near Morristown. After being widowed she went to Knoxville to live with her son, John. Now, at the age of 102, she is cutting a new set of teeth and displays her new dentition proudly to visitors.

GRID LEADERS QUALIFY FOR LAURELS

By JULIUS LEVIN

Scott High School, of North Braddock, leader in the race for the class A crown, and Elizabeth High School, coached by Russell Byler, pace-setter in the class B titular chase, are the first W. P. I. A. L. schools to play the required number of games needed to figure in championship ratings.

The rules of the W. P. I. A. L. were revised last winter when the officials voted to reduce the number of class games in both divisions to five contests instead of six. Two years ago the limit in class A was seven, while in class B it was six.

SIXTH FOR SCOTT

Scott High, coached by Johnny Reed, will be playing its sixth class A opponent Friday night when Homestead High School, coached by Bill Campbell, is the attraction at North Braddock. The five class A opponents already disposed of by Scott are Uniontown, Canonsburg, McKees Rocks, Mt. Lebanon and Midland.

Elizabeth High School likewise has played its five class B opponents to qualify for championship consideration. Elizabeth has played six games so far this season and has not had a single point scored against it. The game with Rostraver last week did not figure in the W. P. I. A. L. ratings. South Huntingdon, Bentleyville, Brentwood, East McKeesport and West Newton are the five class B teams beaten by Elizabeth.

Elizabeth meets its sixth class B opponent Friday when East Pittsburgh is tackled.

REDUCTION CERTAIN

Duquesne, California, Butler, Monongahela and Ambridge are the remaining contenders for the class A title. The list of survivors is bound to be reduced before the end of the season as Duquesne must meet Scott and California must battle Monongahela.

All of the class A contenders will see action this weekend with the exception of Ambridge, which has an open date.

Besides the Scott-Homestead game Friday, Duquesne entertains Swissvale the same afternoon.

Saturday afternoon Butler plays at Beaver Falls, Monongahela at Monessen, while California engages Redstone. All are class A games with the exception of the Monessen-Monongahela duel.

Irish Due to Explode, Perhaps Here—Harpster

By Howard Harpster

(CARNEGIE TECH FOOTBALL COACH, ALL-AMERICA QUARTERBACK, 1928.)

Out at Carnegie Tech this week we are stressing our defense against Notre Dame plays.

We are not taking seriously predictions that Tech will upset the dope again and win over the Irish.

We honestly do not think we will win, and see no reason why we should be the favorite over a potentially strong team which has been held to a scoreless tie by Kansas and barely won, 12-2, over Indiana, and may be expected to break loose like a Vesuvius almost any day, and probably will here.

READY TO EXPLODE

Notre Dame must be plenty fighting mad by now after its mediocre start. And in its next two games it meets two of its annually tough foes — Carnegie Tech and Pitt. Pitt won over the Irish last year. Tech was snowed under at Notre Dame. Can't you picture the Irish holding their punches in their early games and loading up for us, and especially for Pitt to obtain revenge for what happened in the game with the Panthers last year?

Howard Harpster

It is my conviction that Notre Dame will develop great strength as the season rolls on, and I believe it has enough to "take" us right now. That's why we are stressing defense. We do not expect to win, but we do hope to avert a repetition of the track meet of last year at Tech's expense.

IRWIN TOUTS IRISH

Al Irwin, Tech scout, who has seen Notre Dame play for the last eight years, says this year's team in one of the best of them all. In Pilney, sensational left halfback, from Chicago, Irwin says we will see a player who as a sophomore is as good a ball-carrier as Marchy Schwartz. The other player in the backfield who has been outstanding is the highly publicized Don Elser, who can carry his 220 pounds over the 100-yard distance in 10 seconds flat. Elser is 6 feet 6 inches tall, and, besides being a bone-crushing fullback, is the best kicker on the team and one of the best defensive men.

Last week at Cincinnati, I had a long chat with Nordy Hoffman, Notre Dame scout, who was watching our game with Xavier. I asked him if Pilney and Elser were as hot as the newspapers said they were, and Nordy was very emphatic in declaring that they were great players. It must be so.

STEVE FARRELL DROPS DEAD

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 18.—(AP.)—Stephen J. (Steve) Farrell, peerless story teller and an athlete and track coach of international reputation, has run his last race, spun his last yarn.

Steve Farrell

Death came as suddenly as the start of a 100-yard dash. Farrell, who retired as track coach at the University of Michigan in 1930, stepped to the first tee on the university course yesterday, drove off, and then dropped dead from a heart attack. He would have been 70 years old on December 26.

In the professional running game, which flourished in the 80's and 90's Steve Farrell exelled at all distances. He earned a substantial living by betting on himself against the best men in Europe and America. He used to outrun a horse as a circus stunt.

Farrell coached at Yale, University of Maine and Ohio State before coming to Michigan in 1912.

Steve was captain of the professional championship hook and ladder team of Massachusetts in the days when races between fire brigades held the public interest like football games do now.

Linday Scores Kayo In Esplen Ring Show

Fred Linday, of the Frawley A. C., scored the only knockout of the amateur boxing show staged last night at Lithuanian Hall by the Esplen Community Club when he stopped Mike Mancini, of the Pastorius Club, in the second round. The summary:

135-pound class—Ray Eberle, South Heights, defeated Jack Wallace, Frawley A. C., three rounds. 126-pound class—Carman Ditta, Valley A. C., defeated Stanley Bohski, Duer A. C., three rounds. 147-pound class—John Diedl, Duer A. C., defeated Walter Carr, Pittsburgh Lyceum, three rounds. 126-pound class—John Gallo, Pittsburgh Lyceum, defeated Joe Dolaski, Duer A. C., three rounds. 135-pound class—George Julius, Willow A. C., defeated Steve Walter, Pittsburgh Lyceum, three rounds.

PIRATES ATTEND FEAST

William E. Benswanger, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and Honus Wagner, coach, were guests at a turkey dinner given by the Fraternal Order of Eagles at Charleroi last night.

CHAMPS HONORED

The Immaculate Heart baseball team, local amateur champion, was honored at a testimonial banquet held last night in Falcon Hall, Brereton avenue. Mayor John S. Herron, members of Council and several judges were among the speakers.

Thoroughbred Victim Of Trainer's Blunder

CHAPTER VIII—HORSE DOPING

By FRANK G. MENKE

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Strange documents, those detailed reports of undercover agents of the Federal Narcotic Bureau, who watched the "doctoring" of about 250 horses on different race tracks of the U. S. A.—strange but almost monotonous in their repetition.

One case—another—dozens—scores—each so much alike.

"I observed a stable . . . horse . . .two men . . . one of them the trainer . . . mixing glass . . . solution (or white powder) . . . syringe . . horse grabbed by head . . . mouth forced open . . . syringe nozzle inserted in mouth . . . contents emptied into mouth . . . nervous horse . . . fidgety in paddock . . . sweating . . . fractious at barrier . . . ran like wild thing . . ."

Sport of kings!

Sometimes there is a variation. Not all horses have a natural chance to "increase the breed." The trainer blunders—gauges the dose improperly, or is unaware of the frightful havoc already created within the horse by earlier "hopping." Then the poor beast drops on the track, to keep a rendezvous with death.

Wins on Two 'Shots'

As for instance, this report among the official records at Washington:

"At 1:30, I was making observations in the receiving barn at the —— track in ——. I had been told to bet on the filly —— in the second race because the horse had been given a 'big shot' and was to get another 'big shot' before the contest.

(Note—Dates, names of horses, track and all statistics are contained in reports filed with bureau, but deleted from these articles at request of bureau).

"I strolled over to the barn. I saw two men working about the stall of the filly. One man had a long syringe. He was drawing some liquid up into it from a cup, then squirting it back. He then sprinkled into the glass the contents of a small, white paper he took from his pocket and stirred the mixture. He drew this finally into a syringe and sprayed it into the mouth of the horse.

"The filly was permitted to be alone in her stall for a while. Then she was led to the paddock for the second race. The horses reached the post at 2:33 p. m., and were at the post about 1½ minutes.

"—— —— got away ninth in a six-furlong race. She was pulled up at about the half (three furlongs), collapsed on the track, rolled over — was dead."

Drops Dead on Track

A chart dealing with the race merely noted: "——, internally distressed before going a quarter, was pulled up in the stretch and died shortly before approaching the finish."

Another report—so much like so many others — concerning a 4-year-old bay gelding which ran this year, stated:

"My attention was directed to a stall at —— —— occupied by the horse ——. One man in the stall had a syringe. He poured liquid from a bottle into a cup and added a little powder from a paper he took from his pocket. He stirred the mixture, drew it into the syringe, injected (sprayed) it down the throat of the horse.

"A man known to me as a drug addict, standing near me, who also had watched the proceedings, remarked to a man alongside him, who also had seen the administration to the horse:

"'That's the second shot; they must be going to win today.'"

The horse did win his race.

Apparently horse trainers are known not merely for their ability to condition horses honorably for a race, but also for their "skill" in preparing "winning ingredients" of narcotics. As witness this report—which gave the name of the horse, which was a 4-year-old gelding, campaigned last winter on a southern track.

Heroin Wins Race

"Two men were in the stall of the horse. One poured liquid into a cup, added white powder, drew the mixture into syringe and sprayed the concoction into the mouth of the animal. I asked a man standing nearby if —— —— would win the race for which he had been entered. The answer was:

"'He always wins when he gets "sent" like that. That guy (the man who administered the liquid) knows how to do it.'

"When I asked if he knew what the stuff was, he answered:

"'Heroin. No other stoff is worth a —— except to mix with it.'"

That horse won his race.

Concerning a turf contest on July 4, 1933, the agent reported:

"At 2:30 p. m., today, a man walked out of barn—and entered stall No. ——. A colored stable boy was grooming the horse for a race that afternoon. As the man entered the stall, the Negro walked out, picked up a small bench and carried it into the stall. The man who had come from the supply room took a metal syringe from his person, stood up on the bench and plunged the nozzle into the mouth of the horse ——. That horse ran in the third race and won in a field of 12."

Insane in Paddock

A horse was doctored for a race late in June. He, too, ran crazily and not fast enough to win from another racer, which caught him on the stretch run. Apparently, a betting coup had gone wrong. The "insiders" determined to recover their losses. A few days later, the horse was entered again—"doctored" again, perhaps, with an extra dose of "tonic"—and won.

After that contest, the sweating, nervous, highly-excited animal was hurried to his stall. There two syringesful of an amber-colored, oily liquid (presumed to be olive oil by the agent) was sprayed into the back of his mouth. The animal then was led around for about 40 minutes and returned to his stall.

One report told about a filly which was "doctored" prior to a race in June, 1933. Apparently, the dose was given a little too soon, or perhaps too large a portion was administered.

Anyway, this filly became quite violent in the paddock, began kicking wildly and it was necessary for her handlers to hold her by the nose as well as bridle to quiet her partially. But she won her race.

'Needle' Artists

A report turned in by the agent in Florida stated:

"Hopping (the doping of horses) is a recognized institution and there is widespread use of narcotics at the tracks. They all know the operation is not legal, but common usage has made it the thing to do. The custom, as practiced in New Orleans, I have not noticed here. Over there (New Orleans) I have seen horses 'doped' in open sheds while many people were looking around and offering advice.

"Many horses here as known as 'hop horses'. Rubbers (of horses) have told me that if their horses were not doped before a race they probably would refuse to run."

An agent reports standing outside a stall wherein were a horse and two men. One of them, a trainer, whose "doctoring" skill perhaps had been under question, snarled:

"Look here, you! When I needle them they win races. You've got to do it to hold your job."

The narcotic man reports that the individual then jabbed a hypodermic needle into a big vein in the horse's neck, and, when he extracted it, snapped:

"That'll do it. It always does when I give him that."

The agent does not detail the outcome of that race.

No Guilty Feeling

One agent reported:

"We were able to see so many cases of horse doctoring because, at the tracks we visited, no one seemed to think that 'hopping' an animal was wrong, and they considered the use of drugs no more of a crime than putting on a saddle."

SHARES ON 'BIG BOARD' SAG WEARILY

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Stocks sagged wearily today, apparently having lost the spirit of recovery which sent them bounding upward late yesterday in the wake of rallying grains.

The cereals proved a neutral element, as did foreign exchange movements and trade and industrial news. Some traders, strong proponents of the advance at the conclusion of the previous session, were not so sure when prices of leading equities displayed slipping tendencies during the early hours. Stock transactions were extremely dull, and the side-lines appeared to be the favorite position of the more important speculators. Wheat, corn and other staples moved in a narrow range. Copper sounded a depressing note with another decline. The dollar held to a fractional range in foreign exchange dealings. Bonds were irregular.

Shares of United States Smelting dropped 5 points, and losses of around 3 were suffered by Union Pacific, Allied Chemical, Santa Fe, United States Industrial Alcohol and National Distillers. Other recessions of 1 to 2 or more were recorded by United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, American Can, Du Pont, United States Steel preferred, American Telephone, Deere, Chrysler, Johns-Manville, Liggett and Myers B, American Tobacco B, American Smelting, Dome, McIntyre Porcupine, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, Commercial Solvents and American Commercial Alcohol.

GRAIN PRICES TAKE RISE

CHICAGO, Oct. 18. — Grain prices turned sharply upward today after a hesitant start. A majority of traders acted on opinions that the government buying of wheat had ended a critical situation, and that a much healthier market outlook was apparent. Opening at ⅜ decline to ½ gain, wheat sagged somewhat, and then rose all around. Corn started ¼ off to 1 cent up, and subsequently showed a general advance.

Wheat soared three cents above yesterday's finish and to about 10 cents over yesterday's low point. The government policy was asserted by trade leaders to have turned the liquidating market into a rapidly advancing one. Corn and oats soared with wheat. Provisions averaged higher.

TURN IN MONEY POLICY SCARES SPECULATORS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The apparent swing of the administration somewhat to the right in monetary policy threw a scare into those who were speculating on "inflation" hopes.

Mr. Rukeyser

Yet it is important to go beyond appearances into reality. Though the federal bond conversion plan indicates a respect for orthodox financial considerations, it does not necessarily mean an abandonment of the effort to expand the circulating medium. Rather the surface indications are that reflationary efforts will be made through the orthodox channels of credit expansion or through rash printing press schemes.

The announcement of the plan to advance cash to depositors in closed banks is reflationary in character. Other schemes of an analogous nature include: Making government capital available to other banks; direct loans to railroads, housing projects, etc., and the public works program.

HEEDS RIGHT WING

To the extent that the administration is now listening to its right wing financial advisers, an effort will be made to assuage the nerves of capitalists who have purported to be up in the air as to the value of the monetary unit. Parenthetically, it should be emphasized that there is no assurance that the administration will long continue to look to the right instead of to the left in matters of monetary policy.

In giving an exposition of the orthodox objectives, H. Parker Willis, professor of banking at Columbia University, in effect concedes that for a time there may have been some advantage in monetary uncertainty "on the ground that it stirred some groups out of their lethargy, compelled them to use their funds in some way and started activity." Mr. Willis adds:

"But if there be argument of this sort, it has now at least lost its force, and run its career. The path toward good business now lies in the direction of safe banking and conservative currency methods."

SOUND MONEY ADVICE

In rephrasing the "sound money" formula in terms of advice for President Roosevelt, Mr. Willis, in the Independent Journal, said:

"He must, in the first place, make up his mind to declare the actual gold content of the dollar, and to fix it on a definite basis. Eventually such a decision will necessitate his resuming redemption of the dollar, at least for the purposes of settling balances in international trade, by permitting gold again to be exported.

"It will be needful next to bring about a sounder condition of the banks by insisting that they recapitalize themselves and 'write down' their assets to market value, so that their statements may possess definite meaning. Finally, it will be needful to take every possible precaution to enforce upon the banks the maintenance of liquidity through the confining of their attention solely to sound loans without concessions to expediency or to transactions which lack complete protection."

Dollar Turns Weak.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(AP.)—The American dollar lost 5⅝ cents in today's moderate foreign exchange trading to close at $4.60⅝, compared with yesterday's bank close of $4.55.

During the forenoon, the dollar recovered two cents on commercial buying from the opening of $4.59⅜. The rate depreciated in later trading, however, to the close under light offerings.

The belief prevailed in the market that the repatriation of funds to America had ceased for the time with the improved continental outlook.

The franc improved a fraction to close at 79.84.

American Window Glass Reduces Loss; Ends Tax Case

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

INCREASED EFFICIENCY, combined with higher prices, made it possible for the American Window Glass Company to reduce the loss for its fiscal year ended August 25, 1933, according to the annual report.

The net loss for the year was $443,894 after deducting depreciation and other charges. This compared with a net loss of $761,103 in the preceding fiscal year.

Whether or not this improvement is to carry through the present fiscal year is made uncertain by the changes in manufacturing costs due to the adoption of a temporary code for the window glass industry. This has increased labor costs about 45 per cent above the lowest rates paid last year, making them about equal to costs previous to September 1, 1929. In addition, costs of materials have increased about 15 per cent.

Income Tax Case Settled During Year

SETTLEMENT OF the company's income tax case, which has been in dispute for many years, has materially improved the organization's position. The claim of the government amounted to $2,967,616 and covered earnings from 1916 to 1928. The company would not have been in a position to pay this amount in the event of an adverse decision.

The case was settled by compromise. The result was that the company is to be paid $357,184 in cash and the deficiency assessment of $2,967,616 was wiped out.

This made it possible for the organization to transfer a reserve of $2,714,208, set up to cover the tax case, to surplus account. As a result of the tax settlement the company was able to show a surplus of $1,893,557 at the end of its fiscal year. This compared with a profit and loss deficit of $696,378 at the end of the preceding year.

Output Reduced To Cut Inventory

DURING THE YEAR stocks of glass were reduced nearly 30 per cent. This was done by keeping production down to the minimum necessary to make prompt shipment of orders for various types of glass. The present stock is declared to be the smallest possible to permit prompt shipments. The stock of cylinder glass, a type no longer produced, has been reduced to 17 per cent of its highest amount.

As a result of this, the value of inventories, carried at cost or market, whichever is lower, was cut from $1,546,522 to $1,127,136 during the year.

While the company, at the close of the fiscal year, had current assets of $1,888,593 against current liabilities of only $126,274, examination of the cash account indicates that the invent

The Girl Who Won

By MAY CHRISTIE

CHAPTER VIII.

The rich young widow in the smart little hotel off Park avenue had taken a real liking to Nollie.

In the gorgeous gowns and wraps that Mrs. Jinny Judson had bought for her trip to Paris—which was imminent—this shy young girl looked lovely.

The thrill of dressing up like Cinderella going to the ball had brought a vivid glow to Nollie's usually pale face and her eyes were sparkling as a child's at its first party.

Mrs. Judson made her pirouette up and down the floor and before a long mirror.

"My goodness, if I could look one half as pretty as you do—!"

Nollie protested this.

"It's the clothes." She was in a white satin evening dress.

Jinny Judson stared at her with honest admiration. "You look like a—like a vestral virgin going to the sacrifice . . ."

"And what is that?" asked Nollie, feeling very ignorant, but with enthralled eyes on her image in the mirror.

"Well, there aren't many of them in THIS town . . . or anywhere today for the matter of that," said Jinny Judson shortly.

Then Nollie donned an exquisite black chiffon.

"'Merry Widow,' what? This ought to make a hit! Men prefer sophistication with a considerable dash of spice, to the snowdrop!"

"I'm afraid I don't know very much of men. At least not the kind I'd like to meet!"

WIDOW INTRIGUED

This naive remark—which left Nollie confused the moment she had made it—caught the widow's attention.

"If I weren't dashing off abroad day after tomorrow, it would be a whole lot of fun to play fairy godmother to you."

"Oh, I didn't mean it in that way!" Nollie flushed scarlet.

Visioning anybody who still had the capacity to blush, the widow was intrigued.

"You're a refreshing girl. Who knows what fate has in store for you? Come on, slip into that green chiffon . . ."

Nollie carried the expensive costumes well. The frail, clinging fabrics showed every curve of her young figure.

When she donned the last one, which was in delicate blue satin, Jinny Judson drew a deep breath.

"Whoops, what a peach! It's the exact shade of your eyes! What's the color? Delphinium?"

A wrap went with this frock. Of the same enchanting blue—but in chiffon. The long, loose sleeves had cuffs of gray fox fur, and there was a fluffy fur collar.

On the left side of this, close to the face, was a La France rose in glowing pink, and scented like the real thing. Nollie closed her eyes and took a long whiff of its perfume.

"The whole outfit's just your color. Look here, child, why not keep it?"

NOLLIE EMBARRASSED

"Me? Why—why—" Nollie stammered—"I couldn't—"

"But I tell you the skirt's too short for me. You're a couple of inches less than I. And for that delicate shade of blue anyhow my skin's too sallow."

"But I—I couldn't pay for a dress like this in 20 years—" Nollie was dreadfully embarrassed.

"You goose! I mean it as a gift!" Jinny Judson was extravagantly and recklessly generous, when she took a liking to anybody.

But Nollie, despite her shyness, was quite firm. She appreciated Mrs. Judson's kindness—even though she suspected the good lady would regret it on the morrow!—and she wouldn't be indebted to anybody.

So the dress parade came to an end, and the delectable gowns were hung in the cupboard.

But Nollie dreamed romantic dreams that night, in her shabby hall bedroom on West Forty-eighth street.

* * *

The next afternoon—a Friday—she was sitting on the mezzanine floor of the hotel when the telephone rang.

"Hello, there, Miss Day? This is Mrs. Judson speaking. I'm in the dickens of a mess. Will you be an angel and come on up and help me with my packing?"

"I'd love to. But—"

"Oh, it's okay. I've already asked permission for you from the manager."

Nollie glanced at the clock in the lobby. It was half past four.

"If he says 'yes,' I'll be up in two minutes."

She found the suite in great disorder.

WRITES LETTER

"I'm not half way through, and I've a dinner date at 7, and a kind of farewell party at 10, and it seems I've to be aboard the Ile de France before midnight!" wailed the widow.

But Nollie soon brought order out of chaos.

Her slim, deft fingers were marvels of dispatch at folding gowns without creasing, at finding the right place in the right trunk for everything.

Exclaimed Mrs. Judson, gratefully: "I declare, if there were only time to get a passport for you, you'd be a real boon to me in Europe!" Then, slinking back into a chair, she inquired what Nollie planned to do when her temporary job at the hotel was over?

"I'd like to go with a good firm—"

Mrs. Judson thought a minute.

"There's a big import house where I am sure they'd fit you in if I asked them to. I'll scribble a line to the head right now—you can take it to him next week—he's a friend of mine," said the widow.

Nollie thanked her for the letter, put it in her bag and was about to wish her bon voyage, and leave, when a bellboy brought a message. Mrs. Judson gave a little scream of dismay as she read it.

"Heavens! I've entirely forgotten this date. And now I simply can't keep it!"

ASKS GIRL'S HELP

She darted to the 'phone, but got no answer to her number. She turned to Nollie in dismay.

"It was for dinner . . . with a dear old fogey sensitive as the dickens . . . I put off our dinner engagement four days ago, and made it a theater date instead, not thinking I was sailing . . . and now I'd entirely forgotten and have these other dates on hand, and I can't reach him . . . and he'll never forgive me . . ."

It seemed that Mrs. Judson valued the "old fogey's" good opinion. She stared at the message, which stated that "Mr. Hiram was looking forward very much to seeing Mrs. Judson at the play. He might be late, so would she please call for her ticket at the box office? He was dining out with friends, but would leave as soon as he could get away.

Suddenly a light broke over her. She turned to Nollie. "My dear, I see a way out and still not offend the old chap. You must wear the blue satin dress and wrap . . . oh, it'll be a real favor to me if you do this . . . and go in my place and with my apologies to the theater."

Synopsis

Nollie Day, pretty and ambitious, longs to escape the unhappy life she leads with her aunt and uncle in the small town of Yapahunk. She wins a $50 newspaper prize and goes to New York. After three days of fruitless search for a position, Nollie's funds become depleted. Exhausted, she faints on the street and later finds herself in a tawdry house, where a woman called "Daffy" tells Nollie she could make "easy" money. One of Daffy's friends makes advances to Nollie. She strikes him and flees from the house in fear. Nollie secures a position as public stenographer in an exclusive hotel. Mrs. Virginia Judson, a wealthy widow, takes an interest in her. Mrs. Judson asks Nollie to model some of her gorgeous gowns for her.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Out of the charm-and-beauty picture is the girl who carries with her the odor of skin moisture. Impossible that she isn't aware of it, if her nose is normal, on the job. There is nothing much more dreadful. If she has made a real effort to be rid of this curse through strict regard for the daily bath and the faithful application of deodorants, and the condition does not improve, it behooves her to consult the family doc, who may discover that excessive perspiration is due to some deficiency of the diet or the erratic behavior of some ductless gland. To pay no heed to such a state of affairs is to commit social suicide. Many a girl has lost her job because of it. It is a subject which even the closest friend hesitates to mention.

Some of the smart lassies are blending their eyebrow shadows. They put on a bit of blue, then brown, blend with the finger tips. Brown and green—more green than brown of course—make a nice mossy shade that brings out the loveliness of green-gray orbs. Shadows, laid on heavily, are garish in the light of day. If one must go in for wholesale applications, reserve them for the evening.

THE ONLY MOURNER (CHARACTER BUILDING)

A lonely, poor man died, his dog the only mourner. The dog's grief for his master, his loyalty beyond death, would give distinction not only to an animal but also to a human character.

THE LEAD STORAGE BATTERY

Plante type consists of lead plates in sulphuric acid solution (electrolyt) within insulating containers, each a cell having groups of positive (+) and negative (-) plates, connected parallel (+ to +; - to -).

Charging: Connect battery terminals to those of similar polarity of direct current source. + plates oxidize (PbO_2); - plates remain lead, become spongy; specific gravity of electrolyt rises.

Discharging: Connect terminals by continuous conductor. Foregoing chemical reaction reverses, liberating energy as electromotive force (cca. 2 volts a cell); current flows. If cells are in series (+ terminals to -), battery voltage is sum of cell voltages.

Above: Assembling Faure Type battery. Plates made by pasting lead oxide (PbO) to lead-antimony frames. By charging, the + plates become PbO_2, the - plates Pb. (Nilson, Hornung: Radio Telegraphy)

THE TRIAL OF PETER ZENGER (1735)

England protected the American colonies, but at the same time increased her grip over them by narrowing charter and trade privileges. Patriots voiced discontent in the press. So did Peter Zenger, editor of the New York Weekly Journal. He was jailed but freed by the jury on the excellent plea of Andrew Hamilton. (Ogg: Pageant of America) (American History.)

After a painting by Henry Paul Motte.

HANNIBAL CROSSING THE RHONE (218 B. C.) (WORLD HISTORY)

More or less under influence of Greek culture, a new civilization started on the Apennine peninsula about the Sixth Century, B. C., developing later into the great Roman Empire.

With one of its rivals, Carthage, it had bloody struggles known as the three Punic Wars (264-241, 218-202, 149-146 B. C.) ending with the destruction of Carthage.

Above: Hannibal, the famous Carthaginian general, leading his army in the second Punic War against Rome (218 B. C.) to great but not lasting victories.

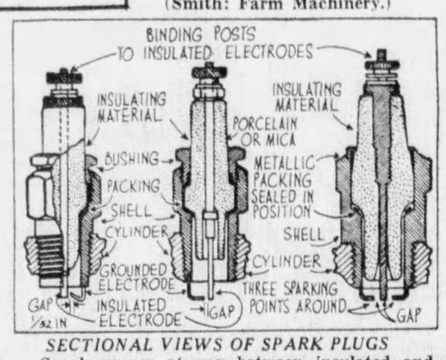
DISC GANG PLOW (GEN. SCIENCE)

It has several rolling disc-shaped sharpened bottoms inclined to the line of traction and to the vertical (for working, see Pict. Ed. of Oct. 13). Above a three-bottom disc gang plow. (Smith: Farm Machinery.)



SECTIONAL VIEWS OF SPARK PLUGS

Spark occurs at gap between insulated and grounded electrodes firing gas mixture. Carbon and oil deposits "foul" the plug, shorting or obstructing gap.

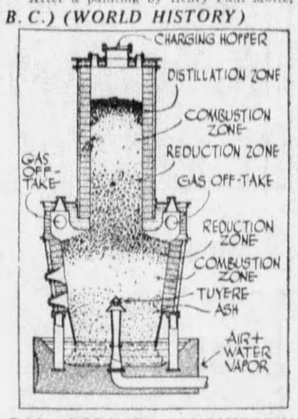
TWO-UNIT AUTO ELECTRIC SYSTEM—INSTALLATION

The modern automobile has an electric starter (motor for cranking engine) and a battery of sufficient capacity to furnish current. A direct current generator charges the battery while the engine runs.

The single-unit starting, lighting and ignition system has starter and generator in one; the two-unit system, shown above, has them separated. For details of ignition see Pict. Ed. of Oct. 9, 11, 13 and 16. (Elliott and Consoliver: The Gasoline Automobile) (Transp.)



GAS PRODUCER (CHEMISTRY)

It produces water gas (CO, H, CH_4, N, CO_2), a fuel from air, steam and burning coke. Above, the double-combustion zone type. See reactions, Pic. Ed. Sept. 19. (Bacon, Hamor: Am. Fuels) Courtesy of McGraw-Hill Book Co.

NEAP (NARROW) TIDES

They occur in first and third quarters of moon, when pulls of sun and moon on earth are about at right angle. High water lower, low water higher than average. (Drawing not to scale.)

Sniffing the Autumn Landscape

Hay feverites around our neighborhood are convinced the reforestation army planted ragweed.

This nasal shrubbery is listed among the ambrosia which includes the ragwort, the ragworm and the golden rag. It grows along river banks and fences without reason, without rhyme and without subsidy.

It will grow anywhere. If there ain't a fence there when it starts it will grow anyway and hang around until you build a fence.

It hugs the riverbanks like a sweetheart. It is not poison to the touch, the taste or the ear. But when it strikes the nose it becomes the world's shallowest depth charge.

The only cure for the alfalfa snorters is an early frost. That will not exactly eradicate the straw jitters, but it will subdivide them.

All doctors know about hay delirium is that it is worth $2 a visit and come around again some time. We have had our early frost in our neighborhood. We must have slept late that morning.

We are still practicing the treble cornet with the long roll and the muffled drums. The frost is on the pumpkin, the egg plant is iced, but our beezer is still running a temperature.

Our trouble is that we cannot keep away from fences and riverbanks. We have yet to see the road map that doesn't lead you by one or the other. All the great national highways seem to throw a special bend to take in that kind of territory.

We have tried cracked ice on the nose, rubbing sweet spirits of ammonia in the hair and camphor in back of the ears. All we ever got out of it was a different kind of a smell.

Others in the vicinity have joined the maxim silence. We still continue to be the community solo.

Having reached that stage where one sprig of golden rod is a condensed prairie fire we would like to get some good home remedies with the permission of 36 states. That may not cure it but it will spread the thing out more evenly over a larger area.

In the meantime, omit flowers unless artificial. And, if artificial, wrap 'em in cellophane.

Raze the Slums!

Pennsylvania Should Avail Itself of the Opportunity For Federal Aid.

Without committing himself, Gov. Pinchot has replied encouragingly to the letter of John Ihlder, executive director of the Pittsburgh Housing Association, requesting that housing legislation be included in the program for the special session of the Legislature.

This ought by all means to be included in the call.

Laws are advocated that will permit limited dividend corporations to acquire slum property, by right of eminent domain if necessary, and erect clean, comfortable dwellings to rent at a low figure.

Such legislation has been introduced at the last two sessions of the Legislature, but rejected because of certain Philadelphia politicians' objection to the "eminent domain" clause, even after it had been amended to provide that that right could not be exercised until half of the desired property had been acquired by voluntary sale.

It is believed the legislation now has a better chance of passage because of the more liberal aid offered by the NRA for such projects.

A number of other states have already availed themselves of this opportunity to get rid of slums. Pennsylvania will be blind to its own best interests if it neglects the opportunity.

A Union Station Plan

A Central Passenger Terminal for All the Railroads Would Be a Boon to Pittsburgh.

The people of Pittsburgh will be very much interested in the news, disclosed by E. W. Smith, the Pennsylvania's new vice president in charge of the Central Region, that the federal co-ordinator at Washington has before him a plan calling for a central passenger terminal here.

We understand that the proposal is rather the expression of a wish than a definite plan, and that years may elapse before anything will be done about it; but the very fact that it is being officially discussed is in itself calculated to arouse enthusiasm.

A real union station, serving the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie and the Baltimore and Ohio as well as the various lines of the Pennsylvania, would be a great boon to Pittsburgh.

Finishing the Job

The Proposed Flood Storage Reservoirs Will Reinforce The Allegheny and Monongahela Forests.

The Flood Commission of Pittsburgh has made a good point in the brief filed with the Federal Emergency Administrator of Public Works in which attention is directed to the creation of the Allegheny and Monongahela National Forests.

The forests were established under authority of the Weeks Act, a measure designed to "promote or protect the navigation of streams on whose watersheds they lie." In fact such forests cannot be established under the law until the United States Geological Survey has certified that they will have a beneficial effect on the streams.

The United States government established the Allegheny and Monongahela forests to help protect Pittsburgh from floods. The construction of the proposed storage reservoirs would therefore merely be completing a job already begun.

The saying that having put one's hand to the plow one should go to the end of the furrow applies very aptly to the situation.

The City's Fine Credit

The Record-Breaking Premium Brought by Pittsburgh's Bonds Is Cause for Gratification.

The city sold yesterday a $300,000 issue of 20-year 4¼ per cent bonds, authorized by vote of the people for public work relief, at 103.67 per cent of their par value. This is said to be the highest premium ever brought by the city's bonds. There were 10 bidders for the issue.

Mayor John S. Herron had good cause for the gratification that he expressed. The faith shown by investment dealers in the soundness of our financial condition should be gratifying to all the people.

It is especially noteworthy because some of the other large cities of the United States are in bad financial condition and cannot sell their bonds.

Honoring Carnegie

Pittsburgh Owes Much to the Founder of the Great Institute.

Tomorrow is to be observed as Founder's Day at Carnegie Institute.

It is very appropriate that a day should be set aside annually by the institute to pay homage to Andrew Carnegie; for it serves to remind us of something that should never be forgotten, and that is the debt of gratitude that we owe the great philanthropist for his splendid gift to Pittsburgh.

The Carnegie Institute is an adjunct of incalculable value to the city's educational facilities. The library, the museum, the art department, the music hall with its free organ recitals, and the Carnegie Institute of Technology serve more and more persons as the years pass. How could we possibly get along without them?

All honor to the donor!

'See Your Doctor'

Not Your Undertaker.

Americans who wonder why they don't live longer are told why by Dr. C. J. Miller, of New Orleans, who the other day read a paper before the American College of Surgeons in Chicago on the death rate.

Dr. Miller reveals that in spite of the great advances in hygiene in this country in the last 30 years, many thousands of persons are "called" before their time simply from their own neglect.

Smallpox, for example, is almost completely preventable. Yet there are 100,000 cases of it each year in the United States, placing this nation in the disgraceful position of having more than any other country except Russia and India.

Typhoid also is almost 100 per cent preventable, but nearly 8,000 die of the disease annually. Diphtheria also can be averted by a simple treatment; nevertheless, it claimed 13,000 victims last year.

"See your doctor" is a good rule to follow WHEN YOU'RE WELL.

An occasional check-up won't hurt you, and it will postpone the time when you see the undertaker.

The Hope of the Future

(Copyright, 1933.)

Slowly—the signs of the times indicate—the Federal Government is moving toward the rescue of education.

The Unemployment Relief Administration has set aside funds to pay "relief" salaries to unemployed teachers here and there where local schools have been closed. That helps a little, but will not keep all the schools going during the year.

The Federal Surplus Corporation, created to buy "surplus" commodities for distribution to the needy, has announced a plan to feed undernourished children in the schools. But that plan leaves something lacking: If a school is closed its children will be unavailable.

Finally Federal Public Works funds are being utilized to build badly needed schoolhouses here and there.

These developments refute the old-fashioned argument that education is a strictly local function in which the Federal Government has no interest. On the contrary, the Federal Government has been COMPELLED to show its interest.

Education is the only guarantee of an enlightened and law-abiding citizenship. For that reason alone the Federal Government's interest in education is paramount to all other interests.

In recognition of that fact the National Advisory Committee on Education recommended several years ago a Federal Department of Education.

So far the recommendation remains only a promise—a sign of hope, like the rainbow.

Congress can perform no greater public service than by authorizing the President to establish such a department and rescue ALL the schools.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Likely no one is having so much nice clean fun these days running a country weekly as O. B. Winters, New York advertising man, known in the trade as "Obie." His experiment is the Queen Ann's Record at Centreville, Md., a village near his Maryland country estate, "Land's End."

He confesses a whiff of printer's ink in an old newspaper plant, abandoned after 58 years, inspired him to rejuvenate it. So he remodeled the building, installed modern equipment and launched the sort of enterprise that is the day-dream of every newspaperman.

He does not expect to make money. Few publishing weeklies do. But young folk are being married, babies are being born and old folk laid away. And Winters is recording these and other village happenings for posterity. Even to chasing an item or so himself, instead of golf balls, at week-ends.

Sherwood Anderson responded to a like appeal at the peak of his literary career. But unlike Winters, he fled the cities, and began editing two weeklies, in a county in Virginia. Friends intimated it was a whim. But he has recaptured a content he will never permanently abandon.

* * *

One of the few weekly publishers to make a spectacular financial success is Ted Woodyard, who conducts a chain of more than a dozen journals in West Virginia. He worked out a syndicate system, appointing a local editor in each town, and, aside from residing in a magnificent mansion at Spencer, maintains an apartment in New York and makes frequent trips to Europe.

* * *

Meredith Nicholson was telling of the late Kin Hubbard's odd jets of humor. He had a capacity to tip his chair back against the office wall at any time and sleep. Coming out of a nap one day he gazed across the editorial room at an atrabilious copy reader, the staff's official sour curmudgeon. "When," he halooed, "do you expect to light the heavens with your first smile?"

* * *

Few streets are so tolerant of sham as Broadway. The bogus Prince Mike Romanoff, despite his many exposes, is one of the most consistent attendees of the gay places, still suave, fashionably dressed and exploiting his faked Oxonian accent. Tojours l'audace! No other figure has been so regularly shown up for duplicities. Yet he is often welcomed, mingles with sandwich celebrities and is a concrete fulfillment of the adage, "the world loves a rogue."

* * *

It remained for a sporting writer to sum up Senator Huey Long and his New York fracas in a punchy line. Joe Williams wrote: "The Kingfish becomes a minnow!"

* * *

Byron Chandler, known to Lillian Russell's Broadway of 20 years ago as "The Millionaire Kid," is still around, middle-aged, well groomed and quite sedate. The sobriquet was chiefly a headline fancy. While he loved an evening out now and then, there were far more spectacular spenders and play-boys. Chandler maintains four homes — Palm Beach, Fifth avenue, Long Island and Paris, all listed on his letterhead, but as a rule lives quietly on Long Island.

* * *

Laurence D'Orsay was, in ways, the Rialto's most unusual figure, a beloved comic paper type of ripping haw-haw Englishman. His talk was an aimless and fluttering preamble, sentences without subjects or predicates. One evening at the Lambs, John Golden appeared wearing a white-lined Inverness. "Magnificent," drawled D'Orsay. Then added: "Whither away? What!" Gordon informed him he was going to the premiere of E. M. Holland in "The House of a Thousand Candles." Stroking his over-Niagara mustache, D'Orsay garumphed: "Yes. Quite. That's a good many isn't it?"

Bob Brinkerhoff piloted a friend to lunch at the Algonquin. George Delacorte joined them. Brinkerhoff's friend listened without a word. Later Delacorte commented on the unusual silence. "He can't help it," explained Brinkerhoff. "He's marked. His mother was terribly frightened by a maxim silencer."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Will You Vote for War When It Comes Again?

There are three pictures—

Of course, there are hundreds more; but if I could forget those three, perhaps I could sleep decently again.

One is the picture of a Thing. A dreadful, twisted Thing—flattened, fouled like the jammed filth in the bottom of a garbage can — with a swarm of flies squirming over the last shreds of its gaping skull.

That picture is called "THIS WAS A MAN."

The next is the picture of a sleeping boy. He is still a very little boy. He cannot be more than 14.

There are things about that picture which every mother who has bent over a little sleeping boy will love; want to touch.

But that was yesterday—before they put the too big uniform on his narrow little shoulders, and the great, dragging boots on his small feet. Today he has come very far and he has fallen asleep. There are stains on his face. Sometimes little frightened boys who cry themselves to sleep have stains like that.

Was he frightened—this little boy—before he fell asleep? I do not know. He cannot tell us. He will never tell us. The little boy is dead.

That picture is called "BABE IN THE WOOD".

The third picture is of a little girl; a little, naked girl, about four years old. You see that in one glance, and then you turn the page swiftly. You do not want to see any more. You wish you had never come to that page. Maybe if you turn the page quickly—you will be able to forget her. But you won't. You will never be able to forget that little girl. So you might as well turn back. Take another look.

No, she is not dead. She is not even wounded. She is only starving.

The little girl is starving. She has been starving for a long time. Her legs are like the gnawed drumsticks your little girl leaves on her dinner plate.

That picture is called "FAMINE."

Those three pictures are photographs of what the World War did to three lives. They are taken from a book called "THE FIRST WORLD WAR," composed of hundreds of photographs. They are the ghastliest record of human cruelty that has ever been put between covers.

Presently, in a few years, perhaps in a few months, there is going to be another war. Nothing on earth can prevent it. America will be invited to join that war.

AND WHAT WILL YOU BE DOING THEN? WILL YOU BE STANDING, AS YOU STOOD IN 1917, SOBBING, CHEERING, WITH THE COLD CHILLS RUNNING DOWN YOUR SPINE AND THE HOT BLOOD BOILING ROUND YOUR HEART, SENDING THE BOYS AWAY?

Is that what you'll be doing?

"No, it isn't," you cry indignantly. "I'll never vote for war again—never fall for that line again. I know now what it's all about!"

Do you I wonder. Better not say that you know what it's all about until you see those pictures. When you have, you won't need to assure anybody that you won't vote for war.

BECAUSE IF EVERY CITIZEN OF AMERICA COULD SEE THOSE PICTURES, WAR WOULD BE IMPOSSIBLE FOREVER MORE IN THESE UNITED STATES. AND ANY MAN WHO SUGGESTED IT WOULD BE SHOT LIKE A MAD WOLF.

A photograph is inky smear on paper which the eye perceives. It is not supposed to have other powers or properties. But these photographs shriek at you. They drip and crawl. Turning the pages, your hands are begrimed with the clotted blood of those poor, massacred bodies—the blood of little boys who yesterday played in their mothers' gardens; the blood of fathers who dragged themselves along for hours, clutching and holding together their gaping wounds, sobbing for the women and babies they would never see again.

Your hands are begrimed. Your heart grows sick.

They died in vain! And there's nothing we can do about it now. But there's plenty we can do about it if anyone starts talking war again!

What will YOU do? If you get that book, look at those pictures and then tell me!

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

"Emoting" as a Fine Art

A brilliant psychologist takes only about five or ten years and a few hundred experiments to discover something that the average woman knows intuitively before she cuts her second teeth.

* * *

"Men live their emotions," announces one of these, "while women THINK theirs."

Any woman could have told him that, without taking her eyes off the looking-glass. What a dull life this would be for a woman, if she couldn't enjoy her emotions vicariously! * * *

A girl goes through a dozen or more imaginary love-affairs before she meets her first real romance. But, up to the moment that he succumbs to his first puppy-love, a boy is just a lump of protoplasm whose most violent emotion is a passion for tutti fruitti ice cream or for teasing cats.

* * *

While a girl is dreaming or theorizing about love, a man is off getting his kindergarten training—usually from a woman twice his age. And while she is having secret heart-throbs over some glamorous movie actor, he is tripping gaily along the Primrose Path and getting a working knowledge of life and a pre-view of the world.

* * *

A woman will close her lips and secretly let the worm of jealousy gnaw at her heart, and pretend to smile. But when a man is jealous he either proceeds to punch his rival's head, or works off his emotions by smashing things and breaking up the party. Or else he walks off and hunts up a blonde for consolation.

* * *

When love dies, a woman closes the door of her heart, and locks it in, where she can "suffer" over it or brood over it. But a man closes the door of his heart and locks it out, where he can forget it.

* * *

When a man wants anything he goes after it. And, if he can't get it, he goes after something else. But it is only recently that women have learned to go after what they wanted. They used to take it out in wishing and waiting. * * *

In brief, a man is a creature of action, and it would never occur to him to sit still an "emote" just for the pleasure of it, as a woman does.

When a man can't stop "emoting," he thinks he is going crazy. But when a woman can't stop "emoting," she is having the time of her life!

* * *

Two men who are spoiling for a fight can have a perfectly gorgeous time beating each other up, and then shake hands and forget all about it. But a woman can have a lovely time just sitting at home and "hating" somebody. That's the difference between "living" your emotions and "thinking" them.

Human Side of the News

How the White Settlers Became Acquainted With Cranberries—the Charm of October—Marconi Here

By Edwin C. Hill

DOWN the late October breezes comes the first faint fragrance of the Thanksgiving turkey, for the cranberry pickers are out in force, gathering the tart red berries from the bogs of Cape Cod, in Massachusetts, and in New Jersey, New York, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Washington and Virginia—the great cranberry states of a cranberry loving country.

Away back in the Pilgrim days, the first white men in this country saw the Indians eating dry, powdered berries with their wild turkeys, and ever since that fortunate day, some 300 years ago, the team of Turkey and Cranberry has been the Amos and Andy of the festal season.

We are deep within the loveliest month of the year, October with its sparkle and its tang, its clear skies and its riot of color. A poet once wrote of October as giving a party to which the leaves by hundreds came. The chestnuts came to the party in bright yellow. The oaks showed up in flaming crimson and the maples in vivid scarlet. The orchestra was the wind which played the music for the dancing leaves:

"All balanced to their partners, had gayly fluttered by; the sight was like a rainbow, new fallen from the sky."

The sumac has cast off its warm robes of magenta and donned an Autumn brown. The oaks burst into flame at the slightest touch of frost, and whole seas of golden rod wave to the slightest breeze. The greatest of all painters spreads his color upon the greatest of all palettes, from mauve to magenta, and the world knows no greater splendor.

Marconi the Dreamer Visits America

THE DREAMER of great dreams is with us again — he who found the mirror in the sky—the unseen—but very real mirror which made radio possible. They celebrated Marconi Day, out at the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition, and the great Italian who gave us radio, Guglielmo Marconi, was there in person to receive the honors which are his due.

Before Marconi dreamed his dream of a great mirror in the sky which would reflect waves of light to any destination, wise men said that the curvature of the earth would block any possible scheme of signalling through the ether. They told us that this curvature of the earth raised mountains of water—the oceans—between all the lands of the earth, and that signals could not be driven through those mountains of water.

But Marconi, dreaming his dream, looked up into the heavens and found the mirror which would reflect light waves and so circumvent the curvature and the watery mountains. The story of his discovery that invisible but powerful reflector in the sky is the most fascinating in the annals of human progress.

It was 31 years ago, come December 12, when he sat in a dilapidated old barracks on Signal Hill at St. Johns, Newfoundland. He was only 27 at the time, but he had dreamed his great dream of communication without wires, and there he was, tense and eager, thrilling to the conviction that he was on the threshold of a mighty discovery, putting his theories to a daring test. Famous men had told him it was impossible in this world, but young Marconi was of that invincible breed.

* * *

The First Message By Wireless

THERE WAS Marconi, with something like ordinary telephone receivers clapped to his ears. Seventeen hundred miles away at Poldhu, on the coast of Cornwall, in England, on the other side of that mountain of water, the Atlantic, an assistant was ready to tap a signal into space. Marconi waited with taut nerves, speaking only in monosyllables, his mouth a tight line. And the great moment came!

Out of the raw December air, with a gale threshing Signal Hill and shaking the barracks in which he sat, came three distinct taps—three clear clicks. It was the letter "S" of the Morse code. Marconi has told the story of that dramatic moment which gave us humans the power of the gods.

"It was about half past twelve," he said, "when I heard three little clicks in the ear phones. Several times they sounded, but I hardly dared believe. 'Can you hear anything, Mr. Kemp?' I asked, handing the receivers to my assistant. 'Of course,' he told me. 'The letter "S" in Morse.'

"And then I knew that I was right. Electric waves were being sent out from Poldhu and were speeding over the Atlantic, serenely ignoring the curvature of the earth, which so many doubters had told me would be a fatal obstacle. And in that moment I knew that the day was not far off when I would be able to send full messages, without wires, across continents and oceans."

And he was only 27. What a contribution to world progress this man has made! He is 58 now, a nobleman and Senator to his Italy; loaded with honors, secure in his fame. He is slender, erect. His face is clean-shaven, with remarkably few lines. His gaze is intent, earnest.

And once again he looks toward the sky, toward his magic mirror of the heavens to accomplish a new miracle. For the ether today is crowded with images, voices and melody, and the engineers have been driven to find new paths. From sound waves measuring a few feet up to miles in length, they turn to little ripples of less than a foot.

These short waves, however, are so readily absorbed by buildings and mountains that signaling over vast distances seems hopeless. But not to this great dreamer of dreams. He knows his mirror in the sky will serve him again.

Wagner 'The Right Man In the Right Place'

By James T. Williams, Jr.

AS CHAIRMAN of the National Labor Board, Senator Wagner, of New York, appears to be the right man in the right place.

Under Mr. Wagner's chairmanship, the board has already to its credit important victories in the field of conciliation, adjustment and arbitration.

A recent example of the promptness with which the board acts, the fairness with which it rules, and the influence which its counsel carries is to be found in the dispute between the air transport operators and the air transport pilots over hours and wages.

But for swift intervention by the National Labor Board this dispute would have quickly forced a general pilots' strike as a protest against the unwillingness of the operators to accept the services of Senator Wagner and his board.

A general pilots' strike would have stopped passenger and express traffic on the federal airways, wasted thousands of dollars of public money invested in government assistance to air transport, and dealt a hard blow to the air transport industry and the development of commercial aviation.

* * *

The Air Transport Controversy

THE TROUBLE between the pilots and the operators started in a dispute over the proposed National Recovery Act code for the air transport industry.

As originally drafted, this code provided for a minimum salary for pilots far below what they earn at present, and for a maximum of flying time far above that fixed by the Aero-Medical Association as the safety limit.

After long and increasingly acrimonious discussions, the pilots, on the ground that they were entitled to consideration as professional men, not as laborers, obtained their exclusion from the pay and hours provision of the code.

But before the introduction of the code for consideration by the National Recovery Administration, disputes had arisen between air transport executives and representatives of the Air Line Pilots over the question of pilots' salaries.

While willing to accept a cut in base pay, the pilots insisted that they should be paid according to the miles they flew.

Operators, on the other hand, as a matter of increasing economy of operation as faster airplanes were placed in service, proposed to pay their pilots by the flying hour.

This dispute was pending when the hearings on the code started. It was then agreed by both sides, as the pilots believed, to drop the dispute until the code for the air transport industry had been signed.

Then the five major air lines served notice on their pilots that within a week a new pay scale for them would go into effect, providing for pay by the flying hour with base pay at a reduced rate.

This the pilots believed to be a breach of faith and promptly appealed to the National Labor Board, stating that they would not work under the new pay scale. As chairman of the board, Senator Wagner did not wait. He acted without hesitation.

* * *

Program Acceptable To Both Sides

UNDER HIS leadership the board promptly assumed jurisdiction and requested the operators to withdraw the pay scale until there could be arbitration.

Instead of acceding at first to this request, the air lines issued an announcement that the new pay scale would go into effect on midnight, October 1.

Again the chairman of the board acted swiftly. After a conference with a representative of the pilots, Senator Wagner obtained their promise that the pilots would continue to work until the board could hold a hearing on the question.

Four days later a hearing was held. It was attended by representatives of the air lines and of the pilots.

After listening to both sides of the case for three hours, the National Labor Board, with Senator Wagner in the chair, presented a program acceptable to both sides.

The pay question will be arbitrated. But first a "fact-finding committee" composed of one pilot, one air-line executive and an impartial member to be appointed by Senator Wagner, as chairman, would make a study of everything relating to pilots' pay.

Public sentiment supports fair and fearless leadership of the sort which Senator Wagner, as chairman of the National Labor Board, has raised up in the settlement of disputes of this sort between wage earners and wage payers.

Isn't It So?

It's natural for people to talk, but they must be taught silence.

A young man naturally uses a choice expression when he asks a girl to become his wife.
